MacArthur Told To Get Ready Last December For Possible World War, Sherman Reveals

General Suggested Armistice, Naval Chief Says; Acheson To Start Testimony Today

WASHINGTON, May 31 (AP) — Adm. Forrest Sherman disclosed today the Joint Chiefs of Staff were so gravely concerned over the Korean war situation early last December that they ordered Gen. Douglas MacArthur to get his forces ready for a possible world war.

This order went out, he said, after the Joint Chiefs were told that MacArthur felt the United Nations should accept an armistice "on the best terms available" and the Army would have to quit Korea unless the war could be carried against Red China.

The chief of naval operation gave this testimony to the Senate Armed Services and Foreign Relations Committees in their inquiry into the MacArthur dismissal.

It was the first revelation by any of the top-ranking military chiefs that the winter retreat of the Allied forces had held the peril of World War Three — or that MacArthur had suggested an armistice.

Acheson To Start Testimony

This period of deep gloom came 10 days after the start of the great Allied retreat before the Red Chinese' first big offensive.

Senators ended their question of Sherman shortly after noon and cleared the way for Secretary of State Acheson to start his testimony tomorrow (9 a.m., EST).

Acheson is expected to be on the witness stand for several days answering questions by Republican lawmakers who have made him their prime target in criticism of the administration's Far East policy.

Chairman Russell (D-Ga) of the inquiry group said the committees will be forced to hold both day and night sessions next week to speed up the hearing which now has consumed 23 days.

Questioned by Sen. Morse (R-Ore), Sherman declared: "The Pentagon felt early last December that the Korean conflict might explode then into a world war."

Mediterranean Fleet Sailed

He said that on Dec. 6 — just nine days after the U. N. retreat began — the Joint Chiefs sent MacArthur a message warning him the situation "greatly increased the possibility of a general war." In this tense period, he added, the U. S. Mediterranean Fleet "got underway and went to sea."

At the same time, he said, the Joint Chiefs told MacArthur and other U. N. commanders to "increase their readiness without creating an atmosphere of alarm."

Brazilian Cancer Specialist, Victim Of Disease, Dies

RIO DE JANEIRO, May 31 (AP)—Dr. Napoleao Laureano, 36, one of Brazil's leading cancer specialists and himself a victim of the disease, died tonight.

Laureano's case attracted wide attention when he returned to Brazil after a visit to the United States to consult American cancer specialists, only to learn that he was doomed to die within a few months.

He was assured on his return that his dream of establishing a cancer hospital in his hometown, Jaoa Pessoa, would be realized. It is to be built with private contributions and state aid.

French Troops Halt Indochina Rebel Offensive

HANOI, Indochina, May 31 (AP) — French troops, outnumbered ten to one, have blocked an offensive by 45,000 pro-Communist Vietminh rebels on the rice bowl front south of Hanoi, French army sources said today.

The front is stabilized, for the moment at least. But the French, with 4,000 men in the line, admitted serious losses. A single commando unit of 80 men lost 50.

The Vietminh struck Monday night from the foothills west of the Duy River against a 20-mile sector extending from Ninbinh, 55 miles south of Hanoi, up to Phyly, only 35 miles south of this provincial capital. French headquarters said they attacked "en masse and with fanatical fury."

Some witnesses said foreigners evidently were in the Vietminh ranks, because they repeatedly heard orders given in German, English and French. Liberated war prisoners have reported previously the Vietminh tried to recruit them for an international brigade.

The Vietminh blow was the heaviest since the Moscow-trained Ho Chi Minh directed his crippled divisions by radio April 6 to break off frontal warfare and revert to guerrilla tactics.

Ho's main attacks in the early spring had been directed at the north front of the rice bowl, the rich Red River delta lands between Hanoi and the French-held port of Haiphong.

Blast In German Mine Fatal To 14

HAMM-HERRINGEN, Germany, May 31. (AP)—Fourteen German miners were given up for dead tonight, trapped by a terrific explosion and fire 3,000 feet below the surface in the Heinrich-Robert mine here.

Fire in a conveyor belt was believed to have touched off coal dust in the mine early this morning. Rescue workers brought out 20 injured miners, four of them in critical condition.

Mine officials said the 14 still in the pit had no chance of surviving the initial explosion and blaze. Fire fighters, driven from the mine by terrific heat and gases, finally sealed off the shaft of the mine to prevent the fire from destroying the rest of the mine.

The disaster—the worst in many months in the Ruhr valley followed a mine blast earlier this week in Britain's big Easington colliery, where 81 miners were killed.

Mine officials here said the heavy explosion in the Heinrich-Robert mine was followed by a series of smaller ones. Although crews were busy sealing off the fire-swept sections, it was expected the blaze would continue to smoulder for several days.

Runaway Gas Truck Rams Cereal Plant And Explodes

OMAHA, May 31 (AP) — A runaway gasoline transport truck crashed into a cereal plant here today and exploded in flames as terrified office workers, mostly women, ran for their lives.

The truck driver was burned to death and at least two of an estimated 25 office workers were hospitalized with injuries.

The fast spreading fire destroyed the office building and 15 cars and a truck parked alongside it. Flaming gasoline ran in the street for a time and a residence across the street was damaged.

Brakes apparently failed or a tire blew out on the transport, witnesses said. It careened off the street, bounced off two parked cars and clipped off a tree and utility pole before plunging deep into the two-story cement block building attached to the Kellogg Cereal Company plant.

Downstairs employes fled through a window and scrambled under a wire fence to escape the blaze. Persons on the second floor used a stairway leading to the plant proper.

C. Of C. Official Blasts Federal Pay-Price Curbs

Says They Will Lead To "Hell Of A Mess"

WASHINGTON, May 31 (AP)—A top official of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce told Congress today that if federal wage-price controls are continued for two years, the nation's economy will be "in a hell of a mess."

Herman W. Steinkraus, Bridgeport, Conn., chairman of the chamber's executive committee, also charged that the administration's policies have been "deliberately encouraging" inflation. This brought an objection from Rep. Brown (D-Ga), who said the remark "doesn't make sense to me."

Steinkraus scoffed at the government's Wage Stabilization Board as a "wage stimulation board," contending it has shown no capacity to resist wage demands.

Ceiling Overhaul Discussed

Steinkraus' blast came as Economic Stabilizer Eric Johnson met with wage board to discuss the complete overhaul of the present 10 per cent ceiling on wage increases.

Johnson told newsmen the board will attempt to work out a policy which will be "fair and equitable and still hold the line on wages."

Meanwhile, the federal controls program came under fire on several fronts:

1. President Rowland Jones, Jr., of the American Retail Federation, told Senate Banking Committee that business is "alarmed" over the administration's profit-control formula.

"Retailers believe any attempt by government to limit profits by an arbitrary formula of controls should be recognized as revolutionary, destructive and self-defeating," Jones said.

Johnson Ruling Denounced

He denounced a ruling by Economic Stabilizer Johnson which bars any price ceiling increases within an industry if the profits of the industry as a whole are above a certain level. This level is: 85 per cent of the average profits the industry made in the three best years of the period 1945-49.

"Such a formula introduces a concept of government regulation which could threaten our free enterprise system," Jones told the senators.

2. Sen. Bricker (R-Ohio) questioned whether the Johnston formula is legal. He recalled that the Senate defeated a specific amendment last year which would have allowed profit regulation as part of the government's stabilization powers.

West's Big 3 Invite Russia To U. S. Parley

Three Agenda For Meeting Suggested

PARIS, May 31 (AP)—The Western Big Three invited Russia today to a foreign minister's conference in Washington July 23 to discuss tensions which are threatening world peace.

The invitation was a challenge to the Soviets to end the 13 weeks of quibbling in which the Big Four deputy foreign ministers have been deadlocked here on what subjects their chiefs should discuss at such a meeting—a conference originally suggested by Russia.

In identical notes to the Kremlin, Britain, France and the United asked Russia to choose one of three suggested agenda for the foreign ministers' meeting.

Atlantic Pact Top Issue

Agreement has been reached on most of the items to be discussed, but Russia insists none of the agenda is acceptable unless the North Atlantic pact and American bases in Europe are included.

U. S. Deputy Phillip Jessup, who was chairman of today's meeting, read the text of the 600-word American note to Soviet Delegate Andrei Gromyko at the opening of the 64th meeting of the deputy foreign ministers.

The notes, addressed to Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky, also were handed to the Kremlin by the British, French and American embassies in Moscow.

Jessup said the notes were not an ultimatum and did not indicate a rupture in the talks which began here March 5.

Jessup Cites Soviet "Strategy"

The issue of the North Atlantic Treaty and American bases in Europe is the big stumbling block in bringing Big Four together. Russia insists they are a major cause of world tension. Jessup said it was clear that Russia's main reason for suggesting the conference was to disrupt these Western defense measures just as they are beginning to take solid form.

Jessup said Russia could bring up this disputed subject at the proposed Washington conference, but that to put it specifically on the agenda might commit the three Western powers to discuss modifications or even cancellation of the Atlantic Treaty. The West has declared it has no intention of scrapping any part of its sweeping defense plans.

Dennis Cardinal Dougherty Dies

PHILADELPHIA, Ma y3 1 (AP)—Dennis Cardinal Dougherty, fifth citizen of the United States to attain the rank of cardinal of the Roman Catholic Church, died today a short time after celebrating mass on his 61st anniversary in the priesthood.

The 85-year-old Archbishop of Philadelphia was the senior prelate of the church in this country.

With the death of Cardinal Dougherty, the membership of the Sacred College of Cardinals fell to 50, or 20 less than the total reached in 1946.

Death came suddenly to the rotund, bald little man who for nearly 33 years has been the beloved spiritual leader of the Archdiocese of Philadelphia.

Cardinal Dougherty had celebrated mass this morning in the private chapel at his residence. He retired to his room, collapsed there and received the last rites of the church from his secretary, the Rev. Joseph McGlinn. The Cardinal died at 9:15 a. m. (EST) with a doctor in attendance. Cause of death was not announced immediately.

In Rome, Pope Pius XII mourned the passing of the Cardinal Archbishop who had been his host during part of the Pontiff's only visit to the U. S. There was renewed speculation the Pope would call a secret consistory, possibly later this year, to create new cardinals.

28,634,878 Catholics In U. S., Alaska, Hawaii

NEW YORK, May 31 (AP) — The number of Catholics in the United States, including Alaska and Hawaii, increased last year to the record total of 28,634,878, it was reported today.

The official Catholic directory for 1951, just issued, says this figure is an increase of 868,737 over last year.

Births are up, deaths down and more than 100,000 persons were converted to Catholicism, the directory shows.

Ousted Naval Officer Says Fighting Men Support View Truman Policy Is "Pro-Red"

WASHINGTON, May 31 (AP)—An intense young Marylander, stripped of his Navy commission for branding the Truman foreign policy "pro-Red," said today his views are shared by "an overwhelming majority" of American fighting men in the Far East.

William H. Evans, Jr., a lieutenant (j. g.) until day before yesterday, told a news conference most officers and enlisted men agree with him that the State Department is "the enemy behind the enemy" and that Gen. Douglas MacArthur's win-the war-program should be followed.

A Navy statement made public today, gave a different view. It said a naval board had found that officers and men on Evans' own ship "did not confirm nor were they affected by his views."

Evans, 27, was plucked off the destroyer Rogers in Korean waters last month, and was discharged last Tuesday, after writing an open letter blasting what he called "that pro-Soviet, one-world administration of ours and our senile, ignorant Congress."

Acheson Called "Red Dean"

The letter referred to Secretary of State Acheson as "Red Dean" and denounced the Yalta agreement made by "the insane or Communist Roosevelt (Alger Hiss)." It strongly favored the use of Chinese Nationalist troops against the Communists, as proposed by MacArthur.

Evans' dismissal came to light yesterday in testimony by Adm. Forrest P. Sherman, chief of naval operations, before senators investigating MacArthur's ouster.

Sherman said he did not believe Evans' sentiments were shared by many members of the armed forces in the Pacific. The Admiral said a thorough investigation showed they are not shared by Evans' shipmates.

Evans "Afforded Every Hearing"

The Navy said Evans "was afforded every hearing provided by law."

The order revoking the commission of the boyish-appearing Annapolis graduate said his "highly intemperate criticism" of foreign policy and its makers tended to "promote disunity and disaffection among other persons in and outside the armed forces."

Evans wrote his letter March 16 to Alfred Kohlberg, chairman of the American-China Policy Association, New York, and invited Kohlberg to make it public.

3,000 Belfast Police Alerted For Royal Visit

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, May 31 (AP)—Three thousand police were alerted tonight to guard against anti-royalist outbreaks during a four-day visit here by Queen Elizabeth and Princess Margaret.

The Queen and her slim young daughter will reach flag-decked Belfast tomorrow aboard the Royal Navy cruiser Sheffield. King George VI, recovering from influenza, cancelled plans yesterday to make the trip.

Police cars patrolled the streets of Belfast's Falls Road section, a hotbed of Irish nationalists who want the British-held six northern counties joined to the independent republic of Ireland.

Warren's Veto Upheld

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., May 31 (AP)—Gov. Fuller Warren's veto of a bill to ban publication of horse race information which might aid illegal gambling was sustained today by the Florida House of Representatives, 47 to 44.

M'Arthur's Goods Catch Up With Him

NEW YORK, May 31 (AP) — Gen. Douglas MacArthur's worldly goods caught up with him today—49 tons of them, including three private automobiles.

De Valera Party Trails In Ireland

DUBLIN, Ireland, Friday, June 1 (AP)—Prime Minister John A. Costello's coalition gained a six-seat lead over the Fianna Fail (soldiers of destiny) Party today in a race for control of Ireland's Dail (parliament).

The Fianna Fail, carrying the comeback hopes of former Prime Minister Eamon De Valera, had led through the first day's tabulation of Wednesday's election, but it fell behind just after midnight today.

Voters returned both Costello and De Valera to their seats in the Dail. The latest returns showed the Fianna Fail had won 53 seats to 59 for the coalition that has governed the Irish republic for the past three years.

Ford Union Rescinds Its Threat To Strike

DETROIT, May 31 (AP) — Bowing to Walter Reuther's "sit tight" command, local union leaders today backed down on their threat to strike Ford's big Dearborn Rouge plant next Monday.

The executive board of CIO United Auto Workers Local 600 had said it would call a walkout of its 65,000 members at the plant unless the Wage Stabilization Board approves a four-cent an hour wage increase for them by then.

Reuther, UAW international president, had ordered the local leaders to "take no action" at least until the board approves or disapproves the raise.

Gable Is Sued For Divorce On Mental Cruelty Grounds

SANTA MONICA, Calif., May 31 (AP)—Clark Gable was sued for divorce today by his wife, the former Lady Sylvia Ashley.

The widow of Douglas Fairbanks, Sr., charged Gable, her husband of less than 18 months, with mental cruelty. She specificed no particular instances.

But she issued a statement through her attorney, Jerry Giesler, which said in part:

"I am taking this step with the deepest reluctance and under severe pressure, and only after it became evident that all of my efforts for a rconciliation were fruitless."

Giesler said that doctors have advised her she needs a complete rest, and that she will leave tomorrow on an expedition to the South Seas with Mr. and Mrs. George Vanderbilt.

Vanderbilt, son of the late Alfred G. Vanderbilt, is making the scientific cruise for two museums. The expedition is expected to require six months, but Giesler said Mrs. Gable will be back in about four weeks.

Mrs. Gable, 40, and the actor, 50, were married Dec. 20, 1949, at a guest ranch near Santa Barbara, Calif. Both have been married four times.

Fulbright Urges RFC-B.&O. Probe By Justice Dept.

WASHINGTON, May 31 (AP) — Fulbright (D-Ark) said today he wants a thorough investigation by the Department of Justice into complaints that fraud was involved in disputed $87,000,000 government loans to the Baltimore and Ohio Railroads.

Fulbright said he sees nothing that could be gained through a congressional investigation, proposed earlier in the day by Sen. Tobey (R-NH).

"There's no question that the RFC (Reconstruction Finance Corporation) made a bad deal with the B. and O. Railroad," Fulbright told a reporter. "But there is a question of what could Congress do about it, since the deal has been upheld in the courts."

Involved in the dispute are loans which date back to 1932; a 1945 bankruptcy action in which the B. & O., without a fight from the RFC, got an interest rate cut and other benefits; and a lot of charges and counter charges, voiced periodically since then.

A three judge federal court in 1947 held that Randolph Phillips, a minority B. & O. bond holder, had not shown sufficient evidence of fraud in the bankruptcy proceedings to warrant review of the case. The Supreme Court refused to order a review.

Senate Delays Action On Draft Compromise

WASHINGTON, May 31 (AP)— A last-minute objection today caused an overnight delay in Senate action on the draft-universal military training compromise.

Sen. Russell (D-Ga), chairman of the Armed Services Committee, had planned to push the bill through to approval late today. However, Sen. Case (R-SD) objected to voting immediately on a measure of "such far-reaching scope" and Russell agreed to wait until tomorrow.

Committees representing the House and Senate agreed on Monday on terms of the long-debated legislation. It would extend the draft law four years, lower the minimum draft age to 18½ years and lay the foundation of a future universal military training system.

Pullman Rates Upped

WASHINGTON, May 31 (AP) — A general 15 per cent increase in Pullman Company charges for sleeping and parlor car services goes into effect at midnight(local time) tonight.

Heavy Enemy Artillery Fire Checks Allies

Fierce Resistance Forces Pullbacks

TOKYO, Friday, June 1 (AP)—Fiercely fighting Communists, aided by some of the worst weather of the Korean war, today beat back United Nations forces aimed at the sensitive Red assembly centers in North Korea.

Stiffened Red resistance was felt all along the line. At some points the Communists' counter-attacked and forced U. N. troops into limited withdrawals.

Artillery fire defending the major Red bases at Chorwon and Kumwha, 17 and 20 miles north of parallel 38, was described in field dispatches as one of the heaviest barrages of the war.

An Eighth Army staff officer said a tank-infantry force slogged through knee-deep mud to reach Yanggu on the eastern end of the Hwachon reservoir. But the force pulled back to its own lines after coming under heavy enemy fire in the town. Allied forces took Hwachon town Sunday and won control over the dam Wednesday.

Communications Poor

Detailed reports from the raging central front fighting were hampered by poor communications with frontline correspondents and censors were reported hacking heavily on all dispatches.

AP Correspondent Jim Becker reported the bitter fighting in the central sector was rearguard action by North Koreans. Of the weather he wrote:

"The mud is knee deep and we are soaked to the skin and in horrible shape for clothes."

Every effort of the Allies to push up the mountainous center of the peninsula has been stopped except for isolated gains up to three miles. East and south of the Hwachon reservoir fighting, the Communists threw several heavy attacks against South Korean forces. The Reds stabbed to the road running from Hyon, south of the 38th parallel, to Inje 4½ miles north of the border.

The Eighth Army communique said "friendly forces withdrew approximately 1,500 yards to establish a new defensive line."

All efforts to advance northeast out of Inje were stalled.

Skies were clearing by mid-day and supply and fighter planes went back to work.

Three MIGs Shot Down

B-29's and their covering U. S. Sabre jets knocked three Russian made MIG-15 jets out of the sky and damaged two others in a fight over Northwest Korea Thursday.

A dozen MIGs jumped six B-29s and then the Sabre jets came in from 19,000 feet to join the battle. The jet pilots were credited with two kills and damage to one enemy plane. The Superfort gunners knocked one down and damaged another.

The Far East Air Force said all Allied planes returned to their bases safely. The Red radio at Pyongyang claimed four U. S. planes were shot down by antiaircraft fire Wednesday at Hamhung on the northeast coast.

Price War Cuts Some Items 40%

NEW YORK, May 31 (AP) — Big New York stores battled penny-for-penny in a price-cutting war today.

Price tags were marked down hour by hour. By late afternoon slashes on some items ranged to more than 40 per cent.

Eager customers waving money in their hands pushed their way to crowded counters to snap up merchandise at far below nationally advertised prices.

Small electrical appliances, summer weight suits, cosmetic items, best-selling novels, sheets, pillow cases, nylon hose and girdles were among items subjected to price cuts.

Prices tumbled so fast that in many cases sales personnel had to check the latest quotation before each sale.

Housewares departments especially were crammed with customers. It was "Christmas and more," one harried floor official said.

In Macy's basement, areas were roped off and patrons were herded into waiting lines to buy appliances. One-way traffic was set up to prevent further confusion.

Here are some reductions from Monday's prices that drew crowds today:

Lewyt vacuum cleaner, down to $62.39 from $89.95; Mixmaster, to $29.64 from $46.50; Toastmaster, to $14.72 from $23.00; palm beach men's suits, to $19.38 from $29.95; springweave suits, to $30.17 from $49.50.

The truck driver was burned to death and at least two of an estimated 25 office workers were hospitalized with injuries.

The fast spreading fire destroyed the office building and 15 cars and a truck parked alongside it. Flaming gasoline ran in the street for a time and a residence across the street was damaged.

Brakes apparently failed or a tire blew out on the transport, witnesses said. It careened off the street, bounced off two parked cars and clipped off a tree and utility pole before plunging deep into the two-story cement block building attached to the Kellogg Cereal Company plant.

Downstairs employes fled through a window and scrambled under a wire fence to escape the blaze. Persons on the second floor used a stairway leading to the plant proper.

C. Of C. Official Blasts Federal Pay-Price Curbs

Says They Will Lead To "Hell Of A Mess"

WASHINGTON, May 31 (AP)—A top official of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce told Congress today that if federal wage-price controls are continued for two years, the nation's economy will be "in a hell of a mess."

Herman W. Steinkraus, Bridgeport, Conn., chairman of the chamber's executive committee, also charged that the administration's policies have been "deliberately encouraging" inflation. This brought an objection from Rep. Brown (D-Ga), who said the remark "doesn't make sense to me."

Steinkraus scoffed at the government's Wage Stabilization Board as a "wage stimulation board," contending it has shown no capacity to resist wage demands.

Ceiling Overhaul Discussed

Steinkraus' blast came as Economic Stabilizer Eric Johnson met with wage board to discuss the complete overhaul of the present 10 per cent ceiling on wage increases.

Johnson told newsmen the board will attempt to work out a policy which will be "fair and equitable and still hold the line on wages."

Meanwhile, the federal controls program came under fire on several fronts:

1. President Rowland Jones, Jr., of the American Retail Federation, told Senate Banking Committee that business is "alarmed" over the administration's profit-control formula.

"Retailers believe any attempt by government to limit profits by an arbitrary formula of controls should be recognized as revolutionary, destructive and self-defeating," Jones said.

Johnson Ruling Denounced

He denounced a ruling by Economic Stabilizer Johnson which bars any price ceiling increases within an industry if the profits of the industry as a whole are above a certain level. This level is: 85 per cent of the average profits the industry made in the three best years of the period 1945-49.

"Such a formula introduces a concept of government regulation which could threaten our free enterprise system," Jones told the senators.

2. Sen. Bricker (R-Ohio) questioned whether the Johnston formula is legal. He recalled that the Senate defeated a specific amendment last year which would have allowed profit regulation as part of the government's stabilization powers.

West's Big 3 Invite Russia To U. S. Parley

Three Agenda For Meeting Suggested

PARIS, May 31 (AP)—The Western Big Three invited Russia today to a foreign minister's conference in Washington July 23 to discuss tensions which are threatening world peace.

The invitation was a challenge to the Soviets to end the 13 weeks of quibbling in which the Big Four deputy foreign ministers have been deadlocked here on what subjects their chiefs should discuss at such a meeting—a conference originally suggested by Russia.

In identical notes to the Kremlin, Britain, France and the United asked Russia to choose one of three suggested agenda for the foreign ministers' meeting.

Atlantic Pact Top Issue

Agreement has been reached on most of the items to be discussed, but Russia insists none of the agenda is acceptable unless the North Atlantic pact and American bases in Europe are included.

U. S. Deputy Phillip Jessup, who was chairman of today's meeting, read the text of the 600-word American note to Soviet Delegate Andrei Gromyko at the opening of the 64th meeting of the deputy foreign ministers.

The notes, addressed to Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky, also were handed to the Kremlin by the British, French and American embassies in Moscow.

Jessup said the notes were not an ultimatum and did not indicate a rupture in the talks which began here March 5.

Jessup Cites Soviet "Strategy"

The issue of the North Atlantic Treaty and American bases in Europe is the big stumbling block in bringing Big Four together. Russia insists they are a major cause of world tension. Jessup said it was clear that Russia's main reason for suggesting the conference was to disrupt these Western defense measures just as they are beginning to take solid form.

Jessup said Russia could bring up this disputed subject at the proposed Washington conference, but that to put it specifically on the agenda might commit the three Western powers to discuss modifications or even cancellation of the Atlantic Treaty. The West has declared it has no intention of scrapping any part of its sweeping defense plans.

Dennis Cardinal Dougherty Dies

PHILADELPHIA, Ma y3 1 (AP)— Dennis Cardinal Dougherty, fifth citizen of the United States to attain the rank of cardinal of the Roman Catholic Church, died today a short time after celebrating mass on his 61st anniversary in the priesthood.

The 85-year-old Archbishop of Philadelphia was the senior prelate of the church in this country.

With the death of Cardinal Dougherty, the membership of the Sacred College of Cardinals fell to 50, or 20 less than the total reached in 1946.

Death came suddenly to the rotund, bald little man who for nearly 33 years has been the beloved spiritual leader of the Archdiocese of Philadelphia.

Cardinal Dougherty had celebrated mass this morning in the private chapel at his residence. He retired to his room, collapsed there and received the last rites of the church from his secretary, the Rev. Joseph McGlinn. The Cardinal died at 9:15 a. m. (EST) with a doctor in attendance. Cause of death was not announced immediately.

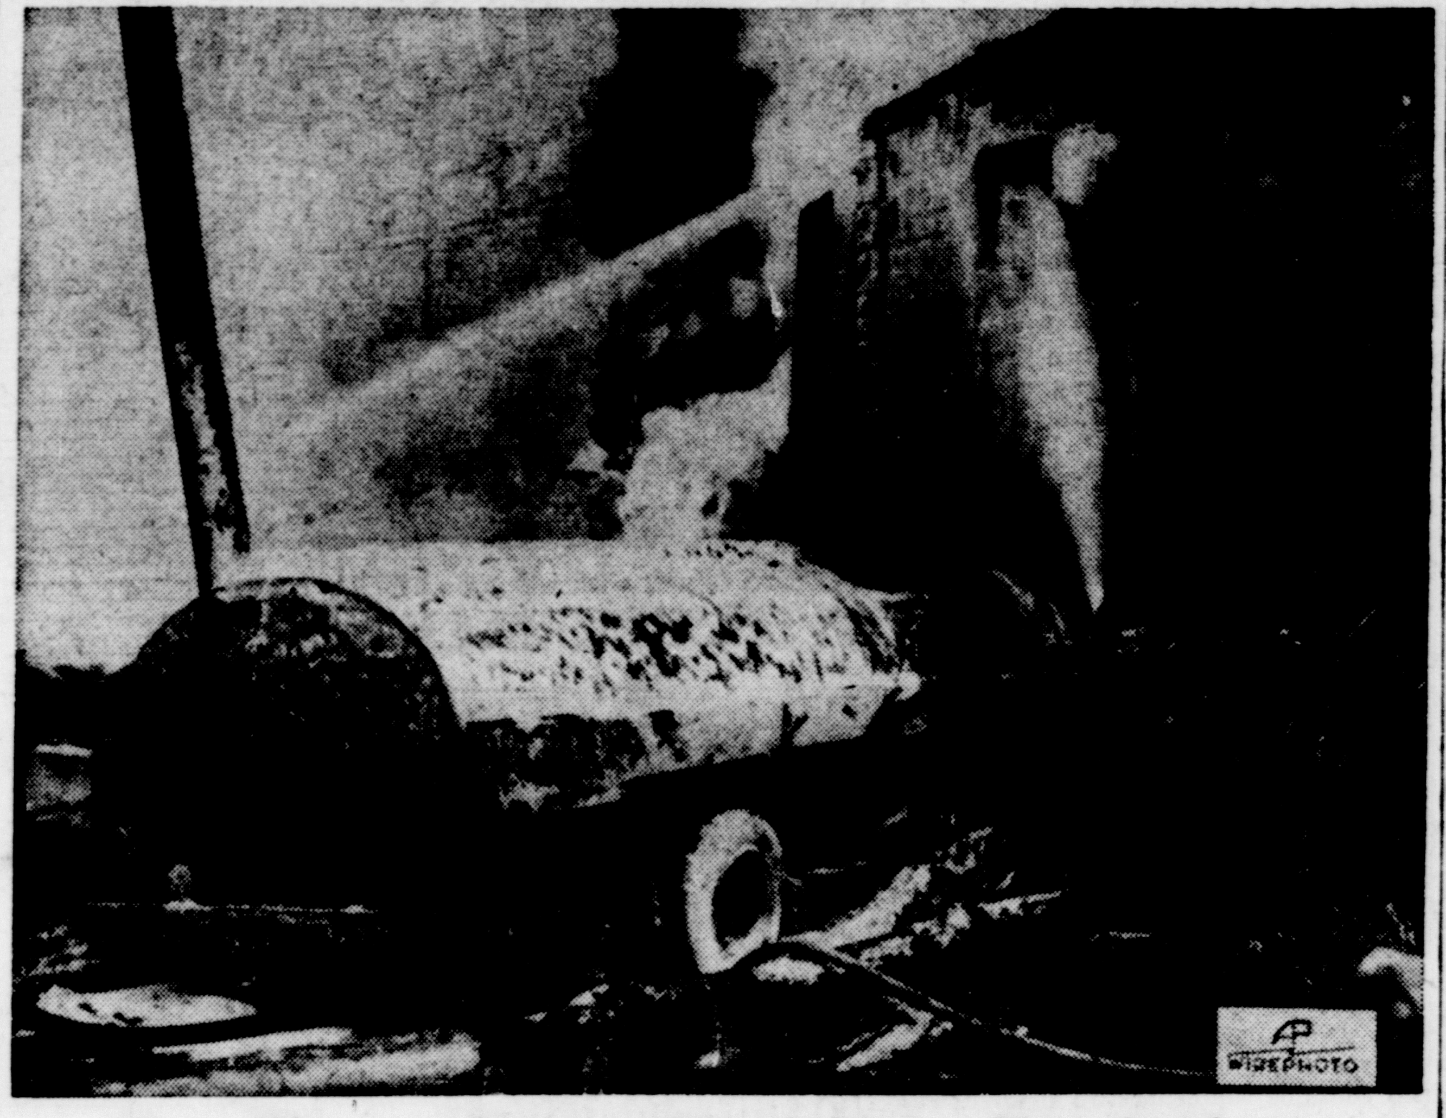
In Rome, Pope Pius XII mourned the passing of the Cardinal Archbishop who had been his host during part of the Pontiff's only visit to the U. S. There was renewed speculation the Pope would call a secret consistory, possibly later this year, to create new cardinals.

28,634,878 Catholics In U. S., Alaska, Hawaii

NEW YORK, May 31 (AP) — The number of Catholics in the United States, including Alaska and Hawaii, increased last year to the record total of 28,634,878, it was reported today.

The official Catholic directory for 1951, just issued, says this figure is an increase of 868,737 over last year.

Births are up, deaths down and more than 100,000 persons were converted to Catholicism, the directory shows.



Gas Truck Rams Building, Explodes

A runaway gasoline transport truck crashed into a cereal plant at Omaha yesterday and exploded in flames as terrified office workers ran for their lives. The truck driver was burned to death and at least two office workers were hospitalized. (Story at bottom of page)

Ousted Naval Officer Says Fighting Men Support View Truman Policy Is "Pro-Red"

WASHINGTON, May 31 (AP)—An intense young Marylander, stripped of his Navy commission for branding the Truman foreign policy "pro-Red," said today his views are shared by "an overwhelming majority" of American fighting men in the Far East.

William H. Evans, Jr., a lieutenant (j. g.) until day before yesterday, told a news conference most officers and enlisted men agree with him that the State Department is "the enemy behind the enemy" and that Gen. Douglas MacArthur's win-the war-program should be followed.

A Navy statement made public today, gave a different view. It said a naval board had found that officers and men on Evans' own ship "did not confirm nor were they affected by his views."

Evans, 27, was plucked off the destroyer Rogers in Korean waters last month, and was discharged last Tuesday, after writing an open letter blasting what he called "that pro-Soviet, one-world administration of ours and our senile, ignorant Congress."

Acheson Called "Red Dean"

The letter referred to Secretary of State Acheson as "Red Dean" and denounced the Yalta agreement made by "the insane or Communist Roosevelt (Alger Hiss)." It strongly favored the use of Chinese Nationalist troops against the Communists, as proposed by MacArthur.

Evans' dismissal came to light yesterday in testimony by Adm. Forrest P. Sherman, chief of naval operations, before senators investigating MacArthur's ouster.

Sherman said he did not believe Evans' sentiments were shared by many members of the armed forces in the Pacific. The Admiral said a thorough investigation showed they are not shared by Evans' shipmates.

Evans "Afforded Every Hearing"

The Navy said Evans "was afforded every hearing provided by law."

The order revoking the commission of the boyish-appearing Annapolis graduate said his "highly intemperate criticism" of foreign policy and its makers tended to "promote disunity and disaffection among other persons in and outside the armed forces."

Evans wrote his letter March 16 to Alfred Kohlberg, chairman of the American-China Policy Association, New York, and invited Kohlberg to make it public.

M'Arthur's Goods Catch Up With Him

NEW YORK, May 31 (AP) — Gen. Douglas MacArthur's worldly goods caught up with him today—49 tons of them, including three private automobiles.

De Valera Party Trails In Ireland

DUBLIN, Ireland, Friday, June 1 (AP)—Prime Minister John A. Costello's coalition gained a six-seat lead over the Fianna Fail (soldiers of destiny) Party today in a race for control of Ireland's Dail (parliament).

The Fianna Fail, carrying the comeback hopes of former Prime Minister Eamon De Valera, had led through the first day's tabulation of Wednesday's election, but it fell behind just after midnight today.

Voters returned both Costello and De Valera to their seats in the Dail. The latest returns showed the Fianna Fail had won 53 seats to 59 for the coalition that has governed the Irish republic for the past three years.

Ford Union Rescinds Its Threat To Strike

DETROIT, May 31 (AP) — Bowing to Walter Reuther's "sit tight" command, local union leaders today backed down on their threat to strike Ford's big Dearborn Rouge plant next Monday.

The executive board of CIO United Auto Workers Local 600 had said it would call a walkout of its 65,000 members at the plant unless the Wage Stabilization Board approves a four-cent an hour wage increase for them by then.

Reuther, UAW international president, had ordered the local leaders to "take no action" at least until the board approves or disapproves the raise.

3,000 Belfast Police Alerted For Royal Visit

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, May 31 (AP)—Three thousand police were alerted tonight to guard against anti-royalist outbreaks during a four-day visit here by Queen Elizabeth and Princess Margaret.

The Queen and her slim young daughter will reach flag-decked Belfast tomorrow aboard the Royal Navy cruiser Sheffield. King George VI, recovering from influenza, cancelled plans yesterday to make the trip.

Police cars patrolled the streets of Belfast's Falls Road section, a hotbed of Irish nationalists who want the British-held six northern counties joined to the independent republic of Ireland.

Warren's Veto Upheld

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., May 31 (AP) —Gov. Fuller Warren's veto of a bill to ban publication of horse race information which might aid illegal gambling was sustained today by the Florida House of Representatives, 47 to 44.

Fulbright Urges RFC-B.&O. Probe By Justice Dept.

WASHINGTON, May 31 (AP) — Fulbright (D-Ark) said today he wants a thorough investigation by the Department of Justice into complaints that fraud was involved in disputed $87,000,000 government loans to the Baltimore and Ohio Railroads.

Fulbright said he sees nothing that could be gained through a congressional investigation, proposed earlier in the day by Sen. Tobey (R-NH).

"There's no question that the RFC (Reconstruction Finance Corporation) made a bad deal with the B. and O. Railroad," Fulbright told a reporter. "But there is a question of what could Congress do about it, since the deal has been upheld in the courts."

Involved in the dispute are loans which date back to 1932; a 1945 bankruptcy action in which the B. & O., without a fight from the RFC, got an interest rate cut and other benefits; and a lot of charges and counter charges, voiced periodically since then.

A three judge federal court in 1947 held that Randolph Phillips, a minority B. & O. bond holder, had not shown sufficient evidence of fraud in the bankruptcy proceedings to warrant review of the case. The Supreme Court refused to order a review.

Senate Delays Action On Draft Compromise

WASHINGTON, May 31 (AP)— A last-minute objection today caused an overnight delay in Senate action on the draft-universal military training compromise.

Sen. Russell (D-Ga), chairman of the Armed Services Committee, had planned to push the bill through to approval late today. However, Sen. Case (R-SD) objected to voting immediately on a measure of "such far-reaching scope" and Russell agreed to wait until tomorrow.

Committees representing the House and Senate agreed on Monday on terms of the long-debated legislation. It would extend the draft law four years, lower the minimum draft age to 18½ years and lay the foundation of a future universal military training system.

Pullman Rates Upped

WASHINGTON, May 31 (AP) — A general 15 per cent increase in Pullman Company charges for sleeping and parlor car services goes into effect at midnight(local time) tonight.

Gable Is Sued For Divorce On Mental Cruelty Grounds

SANTA MONICA, Calif., May 31 (AP)—Clark Gable was sued for divorce today by his wife, the former Lady Sylvia Ashley.

The widow of Douglas Fairbanks, Sr., charged Gable, her husband of less than 18 months, with mental cruelty. She specificed no particular instances.

But she issued a statement through her attorney, Jerry Giesler, which said in part:

"I am taking this step with the deepest reluctance and under severe pressure, and only after it became evident that all of my efforts for a reconciliation were fruitless."

Giesler said that doctors have advised her she needs a complete rest, and that she will leave tomorrow on an expedition to the South Seas with Mr. and Mrs. George Vanderbilt.

Vanderbilt, son of the late Alfred G. Vanderbilt, is making the scientific cruise for two museums. The expedition is expected to require six months, but Giesler said Mrs. Gable will be back in about four weeks.

Mrs. Gable, 40, and the actor, 50, were married Dec. 20, 1949, at a guest ranch near Santa Barbara, Calif. Both have been married four times.

Heavy Enemy Artillery Fire Checks Allies

Fierce Resistance Forces Pullbacks

TOKYO, Friday, June 1 (AP)—Fiercely fighting Communists, aided by some of the worst weather of the Korean war, today beat back United Nations forces aimed at the sensitive Red assembly centers in North Korea.

Stiffened Red resistance was felt all along the line. At some points the Communists' counter-attacked and forced U. N. troops into limited withdrawals.

Artillery fire defending the major Red bases at Chorwon and Kumwha, 17 and 20 miles north of parallel 38, was described in field dispatches as one of the heaviest barrages of the war.

An Eighth Army staff officer said a tank-infantry force slogged through knee-deep mud to reach Yanggu on the eastern end of the Hwachon reservoir. But the force pulled back to its own lines after coming under heavy enemy fire in the town. Allied forces took Hwachon town Sunday and won control over the dam Wednesday.

Communications Poor

Detailed reports from the raging central front fighting were hampered by poor communications with frontline correspondents and censors were reported hacking heavily on all dispatches.

AP Correspondent Jim Becker reported the bitter fighting in the central sector was rearguard action by North Koreans. Of the weather he wrote:

"The mud is knee deep and we are soaked to the skin and in horrible shape for clothes."

Every effort of the Allies to push up the mountainous center of the peninsula has been stopped except for isolated gains up to three miles.

East and south of the Hwachon reservoir fighting, the Communists threw several heavy attacks against South Korean forces. The Reds stabbed to the road running from Hyon, south of the 38th parallel, to Inje 4½ miles north of the border.

The Eighth Army communique said "friendly forces withdrew approximately 1,500 yards to establish a new defensive line."

All efforts to advance northeast out of Inje were stalled.

Skies were clearing by mid-day and supply and fighter planes went back to work.

Three MIGs Shot Down

B-29's and their covering U. S. Sabre jets knocked three Russian made MIG-15 jets out of the sky and damaged two others in a fight over Northwest Korea Thursday.

A dozen MIGs jumped six B-29s and then the Sabre jets came in from 19,000 feet to join the battle. The jet pilots were credited with two kills and damage to one enemy plane. The Superfort gunners knocked one down and damaged another.

The Far East Air Force said all Allied planes returned to their bases safely. The Red radio at Pyongyang claimed four U. S. planes were shot down by antiaircraft fire Wednesday at Hamhung on the northeast coast.

Price War Cuts Some Items 40%

NEW YORK, May 31 (AP) — Big New York stores battled penny-for-penny in a price-cutting war today.

Price tags were marked down hour by hour. By late afternoon slashes on some items ranged to more than 40 per cent.

Eager customers waving money in their hands pushed their way to crowded counters to snap up merchandise at far below nationally advertised prices.

Small electrical appliances, summer weight suits, cosmetic items, best-selling novels, sheets, pillow cases, nylon hose and girdles were among items subjected to price cuts.

Prices tumbled so fast that in many cases sales personnel had to check the latest quotation before each sale.

Housewares departments especially were crammed with customers. It was "Christmas and more," one harried floor official said.

In Macy's basement, areas were roped off and patrons were herded into waiting lines to buy appliances. One-way traffic was set up to prevent further confusion.

Here are some reductions from Monday's prices that drew crowds today:

Lewyt vacuum cleaner, down to $62.39 from $89.95; Mixmaster, to $29.64 from $46.50; Toastmaster, to $14.72 from $23.00; palm beach men's suits, to $19.38 from $29.95; springweave suits, to $30.17 from $49.50.

Chemicals Found In Mothers' Milk Destroy Viruses Of Many Diseases

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

CHICAGO — (AP) — Discovery in mothers milk of two amazing chemicals that destroy viruses of encephalitis, yellow fever, cold sores and other diseases was reported this week.

They are found in the milk of women who never had these diseases, nor even been exposed to them, Dr. Albert Sabin of the University of Cincinnati told the Society of American Bacteriologists.

Last year Dr. Sabin announced the finding of antibodies against polio virus in mother milk. Tonight he reported the two new chemicals, and told more about polio.

This new pair, he said, in test tubes destroy the viruses of Japanese encephalitis, and St. Louis and western equine encephalitis, all brain diseases; the virus of yellow fever, of dengue fever and of cold sores.

The chemicals were found in the milk of only some women, the same woman doesn't even produce them continuously. They may be in her milk at one time, but not two or three weeks later.

Why they are there, and what they may possibly do for protecting a nursing baby are mysteries, he said. The existence of the antipolio and other chemicals doesn't mean that breast feeding is better than bottle feeding, he added.

The chemicals may lead to new keys to disease control, or simply be scientific curiosities. Their existence appears to be due to totally new kinds of bodily mechanisms never observed before, Dr. Sabin said.

The women whose milk has these chemicals do not have any signs of antibodies in their blood against these diseases.

The polio antibodies in the milk apparently are made actually in the women's breasts. Why and how they are made there is another puzzle. There is no evidence yet that milk from these women protects their children from polio, Dr. Sabin said.

He also announced discovery in cows milk of antibodies that destroy polio virus. These appear only in the special milk that cows produce to nurse their calves.

Cows, he said, apparently get some disease that can produce antibodies like those of human polio antibodies. This doesn't mean that cows get polio, but they may get some disease like it.

The cows milk, for their calves, also contains the other two strange new chemicals. Dr. Sabin said the next steps for his research group are to try to identify the new chemicals, to learn how and why they are made, and what use they might have in disease control.

Omar Bradley says New York can be a-bombed as easy as galloping downhill. That may be right if Joe Stalin has the nerve to cash his curiosity at the payoff window marked retaliation.

We have plenty of those bomb-bombs ourselves stashed away in case of a tie. So intead of getting scared let's string along with sliding Billy Watson and tell 'em what we did to Philadelphia Jack O'Brien.

We know the world is as vulnerable as rabbit fur in a prairie fire. And that civilization is the only oyster that ever shucked itself.

But two can play at that game. And then it isn't a game any longer.

Small Czech Underground Keeps Revolt Spark Alive

By RICHARD K. O'MALLEY

CAMP VALKA, Germany (AP)—A recent arrival from Czechoslovakia at this German-run refugee camp in Bavaria says underground groups scattered through his country are fighting Communism, but they are not banded into a single group.

"There are one or two big ones," said the young man, who uses the name Novak, "but mostly they are small. We had anti-Communist groups as small as five or six in our school."

These groups, he said, print anti-Communist leaflets and, at the risk of imprisonment or death, distribute them. Some young workers are engaged in sabotage in industrial plants.

"If they catch them—" he said, grimly finishing his remark by drawing a finger across his throat.

Novak said there are many executions of underground workers "that never get into the controlled press."

"Sometimes they publicly announce executions, but not all. They only do so to frighten those remaining."

There have been cases of underground members killing Communist functionaries.

"Usually they do it with a pistol, but it is both difficult and dangerous to have a pistol," Novak said.

Underground workers are capitalizing on experience from the period of Nazi occupation, the youth claimed.

"Some of the resistance members are old fighters of the Germans," he continued. "They learned which mistakes are fatal and how to operate. It was a bitter but worthy education.

"They meet in secret—men, women, youths. They feel their job is to keep active, to keep going until the East and West meet in open conflict. Then they will rise with whatever means they have."

He shook his head sadly.

"I must say there is really no hope for a real revolt among the people in the first place, they have nothing to fight with. And they live, believe me, in a strict police state.

"The underground lives only in the belief that one day they can join with the forces of the West to fight Russia. They will keep working until that day comes. I suppose that now it can only be called a nuisance factor. But at least the Communists know we are there and they know we are against them. That is something."

Wage Rises In Prospect

New wage rises for hundreds of thousands of workers are indicated as a result of a revision of basic wage policy which the reconstituted 18-man Wage Stabilization Board initiated on Thursday. One result could be a new regulation replacing the current standard allowing raises of 10 per cent on wages in effect as of January 15, 1950. More probable is the establishment of a flexible wage ceiling.

Both labor and management appear to be in favor of readjustment upward. According to the U. S. Department of Labor's Monthly Labor Review, "pressure for wage increases" comes from both groups. "Some employers expressed the need for adequate wage levels in order to attract or hold their labor force."

The willingness of management to grant wage increases reflects the growing shortage of labor. The Bureau of Labor Statistics estimates that a 2.3 million expansion of the nation's labor force by December 1951 will be necessary to meet the increased demands of defense industry.

Part of the impetus for the drive toward higher wage levels is attributed to the WSB Regulation 8, which approves—until June 30—escalator contracts signed before January 25, 1951. Almost three million workers are now covered by such agreements.

These call for periodic wage adjustments in relation to changes in the Bureau of Labor Statistics' Consumers' Price Index or in other cost-of-living yardsticks. The number of workers covered by escalator contracts has increased by more than five times in the last 12 months. More than a million employes are under such contracts signed since January 25, 1951, and hence not yet specifically approved by Regulation 6.

The present limit on wage increases was established by the WSB Regulation 6, effective February 27. Under that ruling, wage rises were allowed up to 10 per cent of wages paid during "the first regular payroll period for each appropriate employe unit ending on or after January 15, 1950."

That formula has already been cracked on several occasions, in addition to Regulation 8. The Defense Production Act of 1950, which provides the authority under which the WSB was formed, exempts certain kinds of work from wage ceilings.

On April 25 Economic Stabilization Director Johnston approved a 6-cents-an-hour cost-of-living increase for more than a million non-operating railroad workers. The raise was 3½ cents above the WSB 10 per cent ceiling. On May 18 an increase of nine cents an hour was allowed for some 225,000 packing-house employes. Johnston is expected to approve the wage increase agreement reached by the railroads on May 25 with the trainmen, and similar arrangements on the horizon with the other operating rail workers.

Among collateral problems facing the new WSB, the major items are: tandem wage adjustments, new escalator arrangements, wage rates in new plants, productivity clauses, fringe benefits, hardship and inequity cases.

Wistful Little Mambo

It hasn't taken New York's Bronx Zoo long to restore its gorilla population to normal. Ten days after the 448-pound Makoko blundered off a ledge and drowned in a moat, the zoo has installed a sad-faced little black baby named Mambo. This appealing little D. A. (displaced ape), just imported from Africa, is a year and a half old and weighs 16½ pounds.

There are those who see nothing but cruelty in the caging of wild animals. The sight of the late Gargantua in his circus waon did not give the beholder pleasant feelings. The cage was cramped. Gargantua usually turned his back to the anthropoid creatures who paid admission to see him.

But many domestic animals do live apparently contented lives under man's domination. Many animals taken from their wilderness haunts appear to settle down in captivity and become contented. A spacious enclosure in a modern zoo may, for all anyone knows, become the happy home of an African gorilla. He is safer from the zoo's lions than he would have been from the lions of his native land—and he gets fed well and regularly.

For little Mambo everyone will wish the pleasantest possible childhood, with adjustment to his surroundings and the oglers. If he meets humanity half way he'll find it is not such a bad tribe. Especially should he be advised to regard human children as creatures who would like to see a monkey happy and frolicsome. For every human young-un knows what it is to be restricted and sad and lonely.

Peace Rumors

The amazing forward march of U. S. forces in Korea—amazing because it is against an enemy that has vastly greater numbers—has given rise again to rumors that peace negotiations are in prospect. The American public should take a cautious attitude toward these rumors.

There is nothing in the position of the Chinese Communist government to indicate that it is more inclined toward a settlement today than it was on the other occasions when its forces were being pushed back. And in the present state of American public opinion, it is doubtful whether the State Department would permit itself to be taken in by phony peace maneuvers.

As long as the Chinese Reds have the manpower to throw into combat it must be assumed that they will keep on fighting, regardless of casualties or loss of terrain.

Every American would like to feel that the enemy has been so badly beaten that he is ready to call it quits on almost any reasonable terms. Unfortunately that is not his way, nor the way of a Moscow master who doesn't care how many Chinese lives are lost.

In the circumstances, it is only possible to keep our powder dry and save our hopes until there is firm basis for them.

Editorial Paragraphs

Secretary Acheson says the fighting may spread in China despite our best efforts. Best efforts towards what?

If zippers are to replace strings on men's shoes, will the Horatio Alger successes of the future start on a zipper?

Scientists say man will be flying to other planets by 1990. There will be a chance to get away from it all, for those who can stick it out until then.

When a Tennessee mountaineer back in 1949 said he didn't know the war was over, he was laughed at by ignoramuses.

How To Keep Well

By DR. T. R. VAN DELLEN

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Polio Precautions

There is no serum available today that will immunize against poliomyelitis. This means that we must rely upon second rate measures such as isolation and quarantine. There also are a dozen or more "don'ts" such as don't go swimming at crowded beaches. These are necessary evils that go along with every malady of questionable cause.

It is believed that the virus responsible for polio is transmitted like the common cold. Individuals with the paralytic manifestations of polio are easy to identify and avoid but the problem is more complicated because there are thousands of persons who harbor the organisms without being ill. They are the carriers and it is believed that these men women, and children are responsible for keeping the disease alive. No wonder many authorities consider the isolation and quarantine of polio a futile gesture.

Because many cases of polio never reach the paralytic stage the symptoms are mistaken for a respiratory infection. Estimates are that there are a hundred or perhaps a thousand such instances, compared with a single case of paralysis. These cases also should be added to the group that helps to spread the disorder. On the other hand a minor infection with the polio virus confers everlasting immunity, which is one of the encouraging features about this aspect of the disease.

There is evidence that the virus enters through the nose and throat. This explains why tonsilectomy is avoided in the months of July, August, September, and October. These are epidemic periods and although the chances are slim that the diesase will be acquired, there is no sense in taking a chance by submitting to operation at that time. Most of the medical research has failed to substantiate the gossip that the causative agent is spread by flies or water. In all probability most victims have contracted the ailment from a brother, sister, playmate or someone else in the community.

We also lack a test to detect polio in its early stages. It is possible to isolate the virus from the intestinal discharges and from the secretions of the throat, but this is an expensive and tedious process and requires the use of monkeys. Furthermore, the outcome of the test is reported long after the acute stage has passed.

Summer grippe should be viewed with suspicion, however, and not taken too lightly, especially in areas where epidemics of polio abound. Recognition and treatment of early cases will do much to prevent permanent deformities. Later comes muscle re-education and braces and casts if needed until the maximum functions of the involved muscles is obtained.

TOMORROW: Poisonous snake venom.

ENJOYS SLEEPING

M. L. writes: I'm 59 years old and in good health. I enjoy nine to 10 hours of sound sleep every night. Some of my friends think this is too much. What is your opinion?

REPLY

Most persons your age sleep less than this but individual variations are common. More power to you if you can do it.

BLOOD REPLACEMENT

F. T. writes: How long does its take the system to replace a pint of blood that was donated?

REPLY

From four to six weeks. Meanwhile the loss is not sufficient to produce symptoms.

NOT LIKELY

Mrs. K. writes: Can a physician tell whether a pregnant woman's baby is her first or second?

REPLY

He often can determine whether the baby is the first but not the second, third, or sixth.

SKIN ULCER

P. A. S. writes: I have an ulcer on my ankle and wonder what beer drinking does for this condition.

REPLY

Nothing except that too much may alter your judgment and equilibrium. This could result in further traumatization of the lesion. So far as I know, however, physicians in Milwaukee see no more varicose ulcers than do those in other parts of the country.

CONSTIPATION IN CHILDREN

Mrs. F. writes: Should a child have a bowl movement every day? If not, is he considered constipated?

REPLY

Some children have a daily movement, others skip a day. This does not necessarily mean constipation. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on constipation in children.

LEMON JUICE

F. P. B. writes: Will lemon juice help build the red blood count?

REPLY

No. There is no iron in lemon juice nor any chemical that will stimulate bone marrow to manufacture blood cells. Lemon juice contains vitamin C, however, which helps to strengthen the walls of the fragile capillaries.

Truman Hints Of California Trip; Senator McCarran's Secretary Has Senatorial Ambitions; New Wrinkle Uncovered In B. & O.-RFC Scandal

WASHINGTON — President Truman, talking to a friend from San Francisco the other day, hinted that he would soon be making a whistle-stop campaign through California. The friend had warned that Mr. Truman had better come out to California soon.

"That's in the cards," the President promptly replied. "That's in the cards."

Then, as an afterthought, he asked why he was needed in California.

"You're in trouble out there, Mr. President," the friend replied, "as a result of MacArthur's visit."

"Oh, that'll be all right," was Truman's humorous comeback. California's composed of crackpots from Kansas, Iowa and Missouri — like me. Once I get out there and talk their language, they'll get back in line."

Snubbed Senator

Busy Sen. Ken Wherry of Nebraska is complaining bitterly about the way he has been snubbed by General MacArthur, the man for whom he has gone to bat so vigorously.

What irks Ken is that Senators Knowland of California, Bridges of New Hampshire and Taft of Ohio, all Republicans, are in frequent touch with MacArthur, while his spokesman, Maj. Gen. Courtney Whitney, telephoned questions to them to shoot at Gen. Omar Bradley and Gen. Joe Collins, when they were on the witness stand.

In contrast, Senator Wherry was turned down when he tried to see MacArthur in New York, and hasn't yet been able to get him on the telephone. You can't blame him for feeling just a little out in the cold.

Lady Senator From Reno?

It is supposed to be an office secret, but the lady who runs Sen. Pat McCarran's office, attractive Eva Adams, now has ambitions to become a senator from Nevada herself. Miss Adams has been badgering her boss, McCarran, to support her in the 1952 election against his Nevada colleague, GOP Sen. George "Molly" Malone.

Miss Adams has secretly coveted Malone's seat for some time, and even put herself through law school at nights until, last year, she passed both the District of Columbia and Nevada bar examinations. She is the pert, competent, former dean of women at Nevada University, but for the past 10 years she has been McCarran's secretary. Those close to McCarran's office also say she can twist the Senator around her finger.

Net result of Miss Adams' political ambitions is that the silver-thatched Nevada Democrat is very much on the spot. For he had already promised his support privately to Alan Bible, the ex-attorney general, who also wants to run against Malone.

If McCarran goes through with his support for Bible, it means that his Senate office and the lady who runs it will be impossible to live with. Therefore, the harassed McCarran is trying to placate his secretary by offering to make her a federal judge, even though she was admitted to the bar only a short time ago.

Biggest RFC Loan

The more you dig into the RFC scandal regarding the huge $87,000,000 loan to the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, the more you wonder why Republican senators side-stepped a showdown at a time when they controlled Congress in 1947. Had they finished their RFC probe instead of mysteriously suspending it in mid-air, subsequent RFC troubles might have been avoided.

Chief difference between 1947 and 1951 is that today White House cronies and a $9,000 mink coat are involved, while a powerful railroad friendly to certain senators and $87,000,000 was involved in 1947.

At any rate, here is a new and interesting wrinkle regarding the B. & O. case.

After RFC Administrator Jesse Jones had put his men inside the B. & O., one of them, Russell Snodgrass, who became financial vice president, proceeded to get the McLaughlin Bankruptcy Act revised. Apparently he foresaw as early as 1942 that the $87,000,000 loan to the RFC would not be repaid as scheduled in 1945. Therefore, he proceeded to pull wires to secure the renewal of the McLaughlin Act by which the railroad could go into receivership without the Jesse Jones boys giving up control.

To that end, Snodgress appeared before the Senate Banking and Currency Committee and urged reenactment of the McLaughlin Act. But the interesting thing was that Snodgrass testified as an RFC official, even though he had already accepted a lush salary offer from the B. & O., the railroad which would profit most.

Furthermore, Snodgress did not tell the Senate committee that he had accepted a job with the B. & O. when he testified. In brief, he used his government position to further legislation in the interest of his private employer.

The McLaughlin Act was then renewed, and the B. & O., three years later, was thrown into a fictitious bankruptcy under circumstances described in a previous column — namely, a letter drafted by Snodgress, later sent to him by the RFC.

These are some of the facts which Senator Fulbright's subcommittee on the RFC could well investigate

Panning John Steelman

Dr. John Steelman, back-slapping administrative assistant to President Truman, has been pulling frantic wires on Capitol Hill to prevent the Senate Labor Committee from making public a report on the railroad strike criticizing him.

Steelman has been pleading and cajoling that the report be rewritten or suppressed.

These Days

Democracy In Action

Long, long ago, before we were entangled in wars, Joe Donnelly, who taught music at Dewitt Clinton High School in New York, got together a few fiddlers, a flute-player and such and started a band. I was its business manager and played the bass drum.

Donnelly was a natural born musician to whom all other human activities seemed purposeless and therefore those of us who came under his influence were conditioned to accept music as one of the major joys of living.

The other day, Charles McCabe, who runs the "Mirror" in New York, sent me some tickets to a concert and frankly I went not to displease Charlie rather than to hear the music, because like many arrogant amateurs, I look down my nose at prodigies, expecting their art to expire as they put on weight. But Charlie is a good guy who goes in for cultivating youth. So I went to his concert in Carnegie Hall, which was jammed to the rafters, as you might say.

On the stage was a band of about 90 and a chorus that looked like 250. I got there early and was seated, like a politician, in a box, but just above the stage, behind the drums, where I could see what was going on. Now, this chorus fascinated me, for the boys and girls represented about every race, creed and color of humanity and they looked as though they could sing in harmony, which is more than even friendly governments can do under the best of circumstances.

Well, the program started and here was a professional performance, of high quality, particularly in the chorus. I could hardly believe my eyes and ears, as my mind flew back some four decades to where it all started, feebly and haltingly. It just goes to show what education can do if it is devoted to useful objectives. Those youngsters sang like gods and they were about as universal a group as could have been brought together, even if the entire United Nations were included.

The leader of the chorus was Peter J. Wilhousky, of whom I never heard before, which shows how little we really know about the blessings close at hand. He led that chorus until one was literally wafted on the wings of song, particularly in an adaptation of Enesco's "Rumanian Rhapsody." I happen to like choral music, having been brought up on it, and can say that this is easily the best chorus I have yet heard.

And that leads me to depart from discussion on MacArthur and Marshall and Bradley and such to a constructive citizen, Fred Waring, whose organization produced this brilliant adaptation. Fred Waring has taken the college glee club and turned it into a musical instrument of great adaptability and beauty. He appeared at the newspaper publishers' dinner in New York recently and most of the audience hoped that he would continue indefinitely so that there would be no time left for speeches, which are not too often, anywhere, of a quality equal to this musical performance.

Maybe you don't care much about music and wonder why a columnist of such ponderosity escapes from the miseries of politics to write about young people who sing and an orchestra that plays in the New York City high schools. The answer is, of course, that our schools prepare the next generation of Americans and if they do not do a good job, we shall have a weak generation. Here in New York, some teachers have been sabotaging the schools because they want more money, which they may or may not deserve. But what they also were sabotaging were the souls of the children, who get more out of what educators call extracurricular work than in the classrooms.

And among these extra labors are choruses and orchestras and getting together on a voluntary basis. Human achievement rarely rises to heights in the things one has to do; it is in the special jobs that one wants to do, that one volunteers to do, that character is built. When I heard these young singers and players give so mature and brilliant a performance, I could not help thinking of the hours of practice and training that they and their teachers put into such perfection. And it had to be voluntary. It had to be on one's own time. And that produces self-discipline, which alone makes for strong and good men and women.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Sometimes it takes a month or more to catch up with official propaganda and demonstrate some of its untruth. By that time impressions and prejudices have been formed and the propaganda has taken effect. Yet, in the interest of truthful reporting, the inaccuracies and misleading statements have to be exposed, no matter when the facts become available.

From one end of the country to the other on the morning of April 20 newspapers were given a sensational statement over which most of them quite naturally put a big headline on their front pages. It was the morning after General MacArthur had addressed Congress, and the Administration was anxious to offset the favorable impression the General had made on Capitol Hill. In his address he had said that his views on what should be done in Korea—he gave four main points—were shared in the past by the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

The Administration made no comment at that time on the four points, but it did issue a prepared statement endeavoring to create the impression that the Joint Chiefs of Staff had initiated the ouster of General MacArthur. The full text of that statement read as follows:

"In response to inquiries from the press concerning General MacArthur's reference to the Joint Chiefs of Staff, a Pentagon spokesman said that the White House had authorized him to state that the action taken by the President in relieving General MacArthur was based up on the unanimous recommendations of the President's principal civilian and military advisers, including the Joint Chiefs of Staff. The reasons for General MacArthur's relief have been stated previously by the President."

Collins' Comment

Here is the verbatim comment on this as made by General Collins, chief of staff of the U. S. Army and a member of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, testifying under oath before the Senate committee:

"Senator Knowland: Now on about April 19th there was a press release, presumably from the Pentagon, because it quoted an unknown Pentagon spokesman, that said that the action of the removal of General MacArthur . . . . Had had the unanimous recommendation of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. As I understand your testimony today, it was a concurrence of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, because you have testified that of their own motion the Joint Chiefs made no such recommendation.

"General Collins: Yes, sir . . . I want to make it very clear, certainly I, and I don't believe any other members of the Chiefs themselves, to the best of my knowledge, saw that press release. Commotion is such, we have got a terribly complicated business we conduct, and to my recollection I never saw the press release prior to the time it was released. I don't know who it was that released it. It may have been by those who issue what comes out of the Secretary of Defense office, the civilian in charge of that, and the exact technical connotation of recommendation may never have occurred to him. I don't know.

"Senator Knowland: At any rate, you are not the Pentagon spokesman who gave the realease?

"General Collins: No, sir.

"Senator Knowland: And do you not know that any of the Chiefs were directly involved?

"General Collins: I am quite sure that none of us saw it. I am not positive."

Now, when that statement was first issued, this correspondent called attention to its inaccuracy and drew attention to the fact that the White House had officially approved and authorized it and had not withdrawn it. The Democratic National Committee, in its tabloid newspaper issued a few days later, repeated the text of the Pentagon statement and claimed it gave the "official facts" of the MacArthur case. The statement has never been disavowed by the White House or by the Pentagon. It still remains in the minds of many people as an official pronouncement. It is still being used as ammunition throughout the country by 50,000 workers in the Democratic party's national organization.

Misleading Statements Made

Misleading statements have also been widely disseminated concerning the four points mentioned by General MacArthur in his address to Congress. His exact words were "that from a military standpoint the above views have been fully shared in the past by practically every military leader concerned with the Korean campaign, including our own Joint Chiefs of Staff."

Efforts have since been made by Administration senators at the hearing to claim that the views of the Joint Chiefs of Staff were offered only when it looked like evacuation from Korea might be necessary and that the much-discussed January 12 memo of the Joint Chiefs was only a staff "study" and that it was subsequently superseded when our troops were able to stay in Korea. Here is some verbatim testimony on that issue:

"Senator Hickenlooper: Was General MacArthur ever notified any time after January 12 up until his release that the Joint Chiefs of Staff were withdrawing any of those proposals?

"General Collins: We withdrew none of these proposals. We haven't withdrawn them right now."

General Collins reiterated the same point in answering questions of Senator Morse of Oregon, who inquired whether he had changed his mind about the January 12 proposals. He said he had not and that the real question was solely one of timing—when to put the recommendations into effect. This is far from a contradiction of General MacArthurs declaration that "from a military standpoint" his views as to what should be done "have been fully shared in the past" by the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Matter Of Fact

Fiddle Faddlers

LONDON—

If you want to find out what is wrong with and between the American and British governments, a good way is to study the handling of the Middle Eastern crisis. It may be useful to make this clinical experiment during the present lull, while the last-minute attempt is being made to bring in a new administration in Teheran.

As to the American role, the simplest way to describe the behavior of the State Department's brightest minds, is to say that they took being right once as a license for being continuously wrong thereafter.

The momentary flash of insight occurred a good many months ago, when Assistant Secretary of State George McGee pleaded with the British to offer the Iranians a better oil contract. If McGhee's advice had then been taken, the new oil contract might have been got through the Iranian parliament, and the present trouble might have been avoided. Unfortunately, the singularly complacent chairman of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company, Sir William Fraser, was then arguing that the Iranians would "come to heel" as soon as they ran out of cash. And in those happy, distant days the Foreign Office was backing Fraser.

Then came the opening of the crisis, when Gen. Razmara was assassinated and the original oil nationalization resolution passed the Majlis. From this moment onward, all talk of better oil contracts, in the early McGhee manner, was quite obviously futile.

In the first crisis period, when Hussien Ala was Prime Minister, the Iranian government was rational but impotent, being unable to get any sort of measure through the feverish parliament. In the second period, immediately after Dr. Mossadegh, seized power, the government had some authority but was irrational. At present, it appears to be both impotent and irrational.

Essential Qualities

Rationality and authority are plainly essential qualities of any government with which greater problems are to be negotiated. Since the Razmara murder, Iran has never had a government possessing both these qualities at the same time. Yet "keep calm and negotiate" remained the theme of the State Department for nearly eight weeks after the Middle Eastern crisis began. It was as though a doctor, having correctly diagnosed a cold and recommended plenty of orange juice, then blandly continued to urge the orange juice cure after the patient had come down with pneumonia.

To make matters worse, the State Department permitted a note of "I told you so" to creep into the discussions with the harassed foreign Office representative. It allowed the Iranians to believe that the American and British governments were divided on the oil issue, doing great damage which is now apparent at Teheran. And it even authorized Ambassador Henry Grady to plead with the Persians to accept an American loan after the crisis had begun. It is hard to imagine a more perfectly fatuous course of action.

As for the British policy makers, their initial error of bowing to the judgment of Sir William Fraser has already been set forth. (It is odd, incidentally, how much business men surviving from the British past have influenced the policy of the Labor government; the same phenomenon appears in the Far East.)

The Razmara murder and its sequel taught the Foreign Office that Fraser had been wrong, yet it was distasteful to admit that the McGhee had been right. It was still more distasteful to face the harsh realities of the new situation which from the first offered only three choices: A. knuckling under to the Iranians; B. trying to bring in a new government at Teheran; and C. getting ready to send troops to Iran. And it was most distasteful of all to ask the State Department for the help and support that were necessary to execute alternatives B or C.

Marked By Ill Feeling

So far as one can judge, the Foreign Office instinctively grasped that the choice was between these three alternatives listed above. But the State Department had an old-maidish fit of the vapors at the merest hint of such coarse action as these alternatives implied. Since the mere notion of this sort of action also gave the British the creeps, they were decidedly irresolute. And as usually happens, the irresolutely right were dissuaded from taking the plunge by the resolutely wrong.

This critical period, when the whole business might have been handled smoothly and without needless risk, was also marked by extreme Anglo-American ill feeling. The Americans darkly thought that the unenlightened British were still hankering to grind the faces of the Iranian poor; and they also suspected the British of seeking a pretext to send troops to Iran, which was certainly the last thing

New wage rises for hundreds of thousands of workers are indicated as a result of a revision of basic wage policy which the reconstituted 18-man Wage Stabilization Board initiated on Thursday. One result could be a new regulation replacing the current standard allowing raises of 10 per cent on wages in effect as of January 15, 1950. More probable is the establishment of a flexible wage ceiling.

Both labor and management appear to be in favor of readjustment upward. According to the U. S. Department of Labor's Monthly Labor Review, "pressure for wage increases" comes from both groups. "Some employers expressed the need for adequate wage levels in order to attract or hold their labor force."

The willingness of management to grant wage increases reflects the growing shortage of labor. The Bureau of Labor Statistics estimates that a 2.3 million expansion of the nation's labor force by December 1951 will be necessary to meet the increased demands of defense industry.

Part of the impetus for the drive toward higher wage levels is attributed to the WSB Regulation 8, which approves—until June 30—escalator contracts signed before January 25, 1951. Almost three million workers are now covered by such agreements.

These call for periodic wage adjustments in relation to changes in the Bureau of Labor Statistics' Consumers' Price Index or in other cost-of-living yardsticks. The number of workers covered by escalator contracts has increased by more than five times in the last 12 months. More than a million employes are under such contracts signed since January 25, 1951, and hence not yet specifically approved by Regulation 6.

The present limit on wage increases was established by the WSB Regulation 6, effective February 27. Under that ruling, wage rises were allowed up to 10 per cent of wages paid during "the first regular payroll period for each appropriate employe unit ending on or after January 15, 1950."

That formula has already been cracked on several occasions, in addition to Regulation 8. The Defense Production Act of 1950, which provides the authority under which the WSB was formed, exempts certain kinds of work from wage ceilings.

On April 25 Economic Stabilization Director Johnston approved a 6-cents-an-hour cost-of-living increase for more than a million non-operating railroad workers. The raise was 3½ cents above the WSB 10 per cent ceiling. On May 18 an increase of nine cents an hour was allowed for some 225,000 packing-house employes. Johnston is expected to approve the wage increase agreement reached by the railroads on May 25 with the trainmen, and similar arrangements on the horizon with the other operating rail workers.

Among collateral problems facing the new WSB, the major items are: tandem wage adjustments, new escalator arrangements, wage rates in new plants, productivity clauses, fringe benefits, hardship and inequity cases.

Wistful Little Mambo

It hasn't taken New York's Bronx Zoo long to restore its gorilla population to normal. Ten days after the 448-pound Makoko blundered off a ledge and drowned in a moat, the zoo has installed a sad-faced little black baby named Mambo. This appealing little D. A. (displaced ape), just imported from Africa, is a year and a half old and weighs 16½ pounds.

There are those who see nothing but cruelty in the caging of wild animals. The sight of the late Gargantua in his circus waon did not give the beholder pleasant feelings. The cage was cramped. Gargantua usually turned his back to the anthropoid creatures who paid admission to see him.

But many domestic animals do live apparently contented lives under man's domination. Many animals taken from their wilderness haunts appear to settle down in captivity and become contented. A spacious enclosure in a modern zoo may, for all anyone knows, become the happy home of an African gorilla. He is safer from the zoo's lions than he would have been from the lions of his native land—and he gets fed well and regularly.

For little Mambo everyone will wish the pleasantest possible childhood, with adjustment to his surroundings and the oglers. If he meets humanity half way he'll find it is not such a bad tribe. Especially should he be advised to regard human children as creatures who would like to see a monkey happy and frolicsome. For every human young-un knows what it is to be restricted and sad and lonely.

Peace Rumors

The amazing forward march of U. S. forces in Korea—amazing because it is against an enemy that has vastly greater numbers—has given rise again to rumors that peace negotiations are in prospect. The American public should take a cautious attitude toward these rumors.

There is nothing in the position of the Chinese Communist government to indicate that it is more inclined toward a settlement today than it was on the other occasions when its forces were being pushed back. And in the present state of American public opinion, it is doubtful whether the State Department would permit itself to be taken in by phony peace maneuvers.

As long as the Chinese Reds have the manpower to throw into combat it must be assumed that they will keep on fighting, regardless of casualties or loss of terrain.

Every American would like to feel that the enemy has been so badly beaten that he is ready to call it quits on almost any reasonable terms. Unfortunately that is not his way, nor the way of a Moscow master who doesn't care how many Chinese lives are lost.

In the circumstances, it is only possible to keep our powder dry and save our hopes until there is firm basis for them.

How To Keep Well

By DR. T. R. VAN DELLEN

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Polio Precautions

There is no serum available today that will immunize against poliomyelitis. This means that we must rely upon second rate measures such as isolation and quarantine. There also are a dozen or more "don'ts" such as don't go swimming at crowded beaches. These are necessary evils that go along with every malady of questionable cause.

It is believed that the virus responsible for polio is transmitted like the common cold. Individuals with the paralytic manifestations of polio are easy to identify and avoid but the problem is more complicated because there are thousands of persons who harbor the organisms without being ill. They are the carriers and it is believed that these men women, and children are responsible for keeping the disease alive. No wonder many authorities consider the isolation and quarantine of polio a futile gesture.

Because many cases of polio never reach the paralytic stage the symptoms are mistaken for a respiratory infection. Estimates are that there are a hundred or perhaps a thousand such instances, compared with a single case of paralysis. These cases also should be added to the group that helps to spread the disorder. On the other hand a minor infection with the polio virus confers everlasting immunity, which is one of the encouraging features about this aspect of the disease.

There is evidence that the virus enters through the nose and throat. This explains why tonsilectomy is avoided in the months of July, August, September, and October. These are epidemic periods and although the chances are slim that the diesase will be acquired, there is no sense in taking a chance by submitting to operation at that time. Most of the medical research has failed to substantiate the gossip that the causative agent is spread by flies or water. In all probability most victims have contracted the ailment from a brother, sister, playmate or someone else in the community.

We also lack a test to detect polio in its early stages. It is possible to isolate the virus from the intestinal discharges and from the secretions of the throat, but this is an expensive and tedious process and requires the use of monkeys. Furthermore, the outcome of the test is reported long after the acute stage has passed.

Summer grippe should be viewed with suspicion, however, and not taken too lightly, especially in areas where epidemics of polio abound. Recognition and treatment of early cases will do much to prevent permanent deformities. Later comes muscle re-education and braces and casts if needed until the maximum functions of the involved muscles is obtained.

ENJOYS SLEEPING

M. L. writes: I'm 59 years old and in good health. I enjoy nine to 10 hours of sound sleep every night. Some of my friends think this is too much. What is your opinion?

REPLY

Most persons your age sleep less than this but individual variations are common. More power to you if you can do it.

BLOOD REPLACEMENT

F. T. writes: How long does its take the system to replace a pint of blood that was donated?

REPLY

From four to six weeks. Meanwhile the loss is not sufficient to produce symptoms.

NOT LIKELY

Mrs. K. writes: Can a physician tell whether a pregnant woman's baby is her first or second?

REPLY

He often can determine whether the baby is the first but not the second, third, or sixth.

SKIN ULCER

P. A. S. writes: I have an ulcer on my ankle and wonder what beer drinking does for this condition.

REPLY

Nothing except that too much may alter your judgment and equilibrium. This could result in further traumatization of the lesion. So far as I know, however, physicians in Milwaukee see no more varicose ulcers than do those in other parts of the country.

CONSTIPATION IN CHILDREN

Mrs. F. writes: Should a child have a bowl movement every day? If not, is he considered constipated?

REPLY

Some children have a daily movement, others skip a day. This does not necessarily mean constipation. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on constipation in children.

LEMON JUICE

F. P. B. writes: Will lemon juice help build the red blood count?

REPLY

No. There is no iron in lemon juice nor any chemical that will stimulate bone marrow to manufacture blood cells. Lemon juice contains vitamin C, however, which helps to strengthen the walls of the fragile capillaries.

Truman Hints Of California Trip; Senator McCarran's Secretary Has Senatorial Ambitions; New Wrinkle Uncovered In B. & O.-RFC Scandal

WASHINGTON — President Truman, talking to a friend from San Francisco the other day, hinted that he would soon be making a whistle-stop campaign through California. The friend had warned that Mr. Truman had better come out to California soon.

"That's in the cards," the President promptly replied. "That's in the cards."

Then, as an afterthought, he asked why he was needed in California.

"You're in trouble out there, Mr. President," the friend replied, "as a result of MacArthur's visit."

"Oh, that'll be all right," was Truman's humorous comeback. California's composed of crackpots from Kansas, Iowa and Missouri — like me. Once I get out there and talk their language, they'll get back in line."

Snubbed Senator

Busy Sen. Ken Wherry of Nebraska is complaining bitterly about the way he has been snubbed by General MacArthur, the man for whom he has gone to bat so vigorously.

What irks Ken is that Senators Knowland of California, Bridges of New Hampshire and Taft of Ohio, all Republicans, are in frequent touch with MacArthur, while his spokesman, Maj. Gen. Courtney Whitney, telephoned questions to them to shoot at Gen. Omar Bradley and Gen. Joe Collins, when they were on the witness stand.

In contrast, Senator Wherry was turned down when he tried to see MacArthur in New York, and hasn't yet been able to get him on the telephone. You can't blame him for feeling just a little out in the cold.

Lady Senator From Reno?

It is supposed to be an office secret, but the lady who runs Sen. Pat McCarran's office, attractive Eva Adams, now has ambitions to become a senator from Nevada herself. Miss Adams has been badgering her boss, McCarran, to support her in the 1952 election against his Nevada colleague, GOP Sen. George "Molly" Malone.

Miss Adams has secretly coveted Malone's seat for some time, and even put herself through law school at nights until, last year, she passed both the District of Columbia and Nevada bar examinations. She is the pert, competent, former dean of women at Nevada University, but for the past 10 years she has been McCarran's secretary. Those close to McCarran's office also say she can twist the Senator around her finger.

Net result of Miss Adams' political ambitions is that the silver-thatched Nevada Democrat is very much on the spot. For he had already promised his support privately to Alan Bible, the ex-attorney general, who also wants to run against Malone.

If McCarran goes through with his support for Bible, it means that his Senate office and the lady who runs it will be impossible to live with. Therefore, the harassed McCarran is trying to placate his secretary by offering to make her a federal judge, even though she was admitted to the bar only a short time ago.

Biggest RFC Loan

The more you dig into the RFC scandal regarding the huge $87,000,000 loan to the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, the more you wonder why Republican senators side-stepped a showdown at a time when they controlled Congress in 1947. Had they finished their RFC probe instead of mysteriously suspending it in mid-air, subsequent RFC troubles might have been avoided.

Chief difference between 1947 and 1951 is that today White House cronies and a $9,000 mink coat are involved, while a powerful railroad friendly to certain senators and $87,000,000 was involved in 1947.

At any rate, here is a new and interesting wrinkle regarding the B. & O. case.

After RFC Administrator Jesse Jones had put his men inside the B. & O., one of them, Russell Snodgrass, who became financial vice president, proceeded to get the McLaughlin Bankruptcy Act revised. Apparently he foresaw as early as 1942 that the $87,000,000 loan to the RFC would not be repaid as scheduled in 1945. Therefore, he proceeded to pull wires to secure the renewal of the McLaughlin Act by which the railroad could go into receivership without the Jesse Jones boys giving up control.

To that end, Snodgress appeared before the Senate Banking and Currency Committee and urged reenactment of the McLaughlin Act. But the interesting thing was that Snodgrass testified as an RFC official, even though he had already accepted a lush salary offer from the B. & O., the railroad which would profit most.

Furthermore, Snodgress did not tell the Senate committee that he had accepted a job with the B. & O. when he testified. In brief, he used his government position to further legislation in the interest of his private employer.

The McLaughlin Act was then renewed, and the B. & O., three years later, was thrown into a fictitious bankruptcy under circumstances described in a previous column — namely, a letter drafted by Snodgress, later sent to him by the RFC.

These are some of the facts which Senator Fulbright's subcommittee on the RFC could well investigate

Democracy In Action

Long, long ago, before we were entangled in wars, Joe Donnelly, who taught music at Dewitt Clinton High School in New York, got together a few fiddlers, a flute-player and such and started a band. I was its business manager and played the bass drum.

Donnelly was a natural born musician to whom all other human activities seemed purposeless and therefore those of us who came under his influence were conditioned to accept music as one of the major joys of living.

The other day, Charles McCabe, who runs the "Mirror" in New York, sent me some tickets to a concert and frankly I went not to displease Charlie rather than to hear the music, because like many arrogant amateurs, I look down my nose at prodigies, expecting their art to expire as they put on weight. But Charlie is a good guy who goes in for cultivating youth. So I went to his concert in Carnegie Hall, which was jammed to the rafters, as you might say.

On the stage was a band of about 90 and a chorus that looked like 250. I got there early and was seated, like a politician, in a box, but just above the stage, behind the drums, where I could see what was going on. Now, this chorus fascinated me, for the boys and girls represented about every race, creed and color of humanity and they looked as though they could sing in harmony, which is more than even friendly governments can do under the best of circumstances.

Well, the program started and here was a professional performance, of high quality, particularly in the chorus. I could hardly believe my eyes and ears, as my mind flew back some four decades to where it all started, feebly and haltingly. It just goes to show what education can do if it is devoted to useful objectives. Those youngsters sang like gods and they were about as universal a group as could have been brought together, even if the entire United Nations were included.

The leader of the chorus was Peter J. Wilhousky, of whom I never heard before, which shows how little we really know about the blessings close at hand. He led that chorus until one was literally wafted on the wings of song, particularly in an adaptation of Enesco's "Rumanian Rhapsody." I happen to like choral music, having been brought up on it, and can say that this is easily the best chorus I have yet heard.

And that leads me to depart from discussion on MacArthur and Marshall and Bradley and such to a constructive citizen, Fred Waring, whose organization produced this brilliant adaptation. Fred Waring has taken the college glee club and turned it into a musical instrument of great adaptability and beauty. He appeared at the newspaper publishers' dinner in New York recently and most of the audience hoped that he would continue indefinitely so that there would be no time left for speeches, which are not too often, anywhere, of a quality equal to this musical performance.

Maybe you don't care much about music and wonder why a columnist of such ponderosity escapes from the miseries of politics to write about young people who sing and an orchestra that plays in the New York City high schools. The answer is, of course, that our schools prepare the next generation of Americans and if they do not do a good job, we shall have a weak generation. Here in New York, some teachers have been sabotaging the schools because they want more money, which they may or may not deserve. But what they also were sabotaging were the souls of the children, who get more out of what educators call extracurricular work than in the classrooms.

And among these extra labors are choruses and orchestras and getting together on a voluntary basis. Human achievement rarely rises to heights in the things one has to do; it is in the special jobs that one wants to do, that one volunteers to do, that character is built. When I heard these young singers and players give so mature and brilliant a performance, I could not help thinking of the hours of practice and training that they and their teachers put into such perfection. And it had to be voluntary. It had to be on one's own time. And that produces self-discipline, which alone makes for strong and good men and women.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Sometimes it takes a month or more to catch up with official propaganda and demonstrate some of its untruth. By that time impressions and prejudices have been formed and the propaganda has taken effect. Yet, in the interest of truthful reporting, the inaccuracies and misleading statements have to be exposed, no matter when the facts become available.

From one end of the country to the other on the morning of April 20 newspapers were given a sensational statement over which most of them quite naturally put a big headline on their front pages. It was the morning after General MacArthur had addressed Congress, and the Administration was anxious to offset the favorable impression the General had made on Capitol Hill. In his address he had said that his views on what should be done in Korea—he gave four main points—were shared in the past by the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

The Administration made no comment at that time on the four points, but it did issue a prepared statement endeavoring to create the impression that the Joint Chiefs of Staff had initiated the ouster of General MacArthur. The full text of that statement read as follows:

"In response to inquiries from the press concerning General MacArthur's reference to the Joint Chiefs of Staff, a Pentagon spokesman said that the White House had authorized him to state that the action taken by the President in relieving General MacArthur was based up on the unanimous recommendations of the President's principal civilian and military advisers, including the Joint Chiefs of Staff. The reasons for General MacArthur's relief have been stated previously by the President."

Collins' Comment

Here is the verbatim comment on this as made by General Collins, chief of staff of the U. S. Army and a member of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, testifying under oath before the Senate committee:

"Senator Knowland: Now on about April 19th there was a press release, presumably from the Pentagon, because it quoted an unknown Pentagon spokesman, that said that the action of the removal of General MacArthur . . . . Had had the unanimous recommendation of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. As I understand your testimony today, it was a concurrence of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, because you have testified that of their own motion the Joint Chiefs made no such recommendation.

"General Collins: Yes, sir . . . I want to make it very clear, certainly I, and I don't believe any other members of the Chiefs themselves, to the best of my knowledge, saw that press release. Commotion is such, we have got a terribly complicated business we conduct, and to my recollection I never saw the press release prior to the time it was released. I don't know who it was that released it. It may have been by those who issue what comes out of the Secretary of Defense office, the civilian in charge of that, and the exact technical connotation of recommendation may never have occurred to him. I don't know.

"Senator Knowland: At any rate, you are not the Pentagon spokesman who gave the realease?

"General Collins: No, sir.

"Senator Knowland: And do you not know that any of the Chiefs were directly involved?

"General Collins: I am quite sure that none of us saw it. I am not positive."

Now, when that statement was first issued, this correspondent called attention to its inaccuracy and drew attention to the fact that the White House had officially approved and authorized it and had not withdrawn it. The Democratic National Committee, in its tabloid newspaper issued a few days later, repeated the text of the Pentagon statement and claimed it gave the "official facts" of the MacArthur case. The statement has never been disavowed by the White House or by the Pentagon. It still remains in the minds of many people as an official pronouncement. It is still being used as ammunition throughout the country by 50,000 workers in the Democratic party's national organization.

Misleading Statements Made

Misleading statements have also been widely disseminated concerning the four points mentioned by General MacArthur in his address to Congress. His exact words were "that from a military standpoint the above views have been fully shared in the past by practically every military leader concerned with the Korean campaign, including our own Joint Chiefs of Staff."

Efforts have since been made by Administration senators at the hearing to claim that the views of the Joint Chiefs of Staff were offered only when it looked like evacuation from Korea might be necessary and that the much-discussed January 12 memo of the Joint Chiefs was only a staff "study" and that it was subsequently superseded when our troops were able to stay in Korea. Here is some verbatim testimony on that issue:

"Senator Hickenlooper: Was General MacArthur ever notified any time after January 12 up until his release that the Joint Chiefs of Staff were withdrawing any of those proposals?

"General Collins: We withdrew none of these proposals. We haven't withdrawn them right now."

General Collins reiterated the same point in answering questions of Senator Morse of Oregon, who inquired whether he had changed his mind about the January 12 proposals. He said he had not and that the real question was solely one of timing—when to put the recommendations into effect. This is far from a contradiction of General MacArthurs declaration that "from a military standpoint" his views as to what should be done "have been fully shared in the past" by the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Matter Of Fact

By JOSEPH ALSOP

Fiddle Faddlers

LONDON—

If you want to find out what is wrong with and between the American and British governments, a good way is to study the handling of the Middle Eastern crisis. It may be useful to make this clinical experiment during the present lull, while the last-minute attempt is being made to bring in a new administration in Teheran.

As to the American role, the simplest way to describe the behavior of the State Department's brightest minds, is to say that they took being right once as a license for being continuously wrong thereafter.

The momentary flash of insight occurred a good many months ago, when Assistant Secretary of State George McGee pleaded with the British to offer the Iranians a better oil contract. If McGhee's advice had then been taken, the new oil contract might have been got through the Iranian parliament, and the present trouble might have been avoided. Unfortunately, the singularly complacent chairman of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company, Sir William Fraser, was then arguing that the Iranians would "come to heel" as soon as they ran out of cash. And in those happy, distant days the Foreign Office was backing Fraser.

Then came the opening of the crisis, when Gen. Razmara was assassinated and the original oil nationalization resolution passed the Majlis. From this moment onward, all talk of better oil contracts, in the early McGhee manner, was quite obviously futile.

In the first crisis period, when Hussien Ala was Prime Minister, the Iranian government was rational but impotent, being unable to get any sort of measure through the feverish parliament. In the second period, immediately after Dr. Mossadegh, seized power, the government had some authority but was irrational. At present, it appears to be both impotent and irrational.

Essential Qualities

Rationality and authority are plainly essential qualities of any government with which greater problems are to be negotiated. Since the Razmara murder, Iran has never had a government possessing both these qualities at the same time. Yet "keep calm and negotiate" remained the theme of the State Department for nearly eight weeks after the Middle Eastern crisis began. It was as though a doctor, having correctly diagnosed a cold and recommended plenty of orange juice, then blandly continued to urge the orange juice cure after the patient had come down with pneumonia.

To make matters worse, the State Department permitted a note of "I told you so" to creep into the discussions with the harassed foreign Office representative. It allowed the Iranians to believe that the American and British governments were divided on the oil issue, doing great damage which is now apparent at Teheran. And it even authorized Ambassador Henry Grady to plead with the Persians to accept an American loan after the crisis had begun. It is hard to imagine a more perfectly fatuous course of action.

As for the British policy makers, their initial error of bowing to the judgment of Sir William Fraser has already been set forth. (It is odd, incidentally, how much business men surviving from the British past have influenced the policy of the Labor government; the same phenomenon appears in the Far East.)

The Razmara murder and its sequel taught the Foreign Office that Fraser had been wrong, yet it was distasteful to admit that the McGhee had been right. It was still more distasteful to face the harsh realities of the new situation which from the first offered only three choices: A. knuckling under to the Iranians; B. trying to bring in a new government at Teheran; and C. getting ready to send troops to Iran. And it was most distasteful of all to ask the State Department for the help and support that were necessary to execute alternatives B or C.

Marked By Ill Feeling

So far as one can judge, the Foreign Office instinctively grasped that the choice was between these three alternatives listed above. But the State Department had an old-maidish fit of the vapors at the merest hint of such coarse action as these alternatives implied. Since the mere notion of this sort of action also gave the British the creeps, they were decidedly irresolute. And as usually happens, the irresolutely right were dissuaded from taking the plunge by the resolutely wrong.

This critical period, when the whole business might have been handled smoothly and without needless risk, was also marked by extreme Anglo-American ill feeling. The Americans darkly thought that the unenlightened British were still hankering to grind the faces of the Iranian poor; and they also suspected the British of seeking a pretext to send troops to Iran, which was certainly the last thing

Westinghouse Strike Approved

PITTSBURGH, May 31. (AP)—Representatives of 51,000 CIO Westinghouse workers today authorized their leaders to call a strike June 11 but at the same time talked optimistically about the possibility of reaching a peaceful settlement with the big electric company tomorrow.

The conference board of the International Union of Electrical Workers authorized the strike against a score of Westinghouse Electric Corporation plants at the climax of an all-day session.

The board was kept in session by IUE President James B. Carey to act on any proposed settlement that might develop out of continuing negotiations between the IUE and the company. No such settlement came during the day.

The board recessed until tomorrow (8 a. m. E.S.T.) with Carey obviously optimistic that the group's 40-some members will have a specific proposal to approve or reject then.

Coal Operator's Wife Opens Fire On Pickets

WISE, Va., May 31 (AP) — The wife of a coal operator, Mrs. Gilbert Jessee, was charged today with shooting at United Mine Worker pickets parked in her driveway.

They were part of a group picketing a nearby non-union tipple. Deputy Sheriff H. R. Tieche quoted Mrs. Jessee as saying she asked the men to move from the driveway but they refused. No one was hurt.

Earlier, in nearby Dickenson County, some 1,800 miners walked out at three Clinchfield Coal Company mines over what union spokesmen said was a sympathy strike for 100 striking company store clerks who seek recognition of their union.

Soviets Withdraw Korean Observers

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., May 31 (AP) — An American intelligence officer said today there were between 60 and 70 Russian army observers with North Korean forces when the Korean war began last year and that they were withdrawn by the Russians in October.

The officer, Col. Edward R. Ott, a specialist on Korea attached to the State Department as an advisor, gave these figures at a news conference called by the U. S. delegation. The delegation made public a letter from U. S. Delegate Ernest A. Gross to the U. N. presenting what the U. S. called "conclusive proof" of the authenticity of two documents showing the North Koreans started the Korean war under a carefully-prepared plan.

Greek King Becomes Military Commander

ATHENS, Greece, May 31 (AP) — King Paul took over today as commander in chief of the armed forces to fill the gap left by the startling resignation of Greece's No. 1 military hero, Field Marshall Alexander Papagos.

This development raised speculation here as to its effect on the possible participation of Greece in the North Atlantic Pact. By tradition, the King could not take orders from a foreign general, even Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Papagos's announcement last night that he was resigning because of ill health was not accepted by any Athens newspapers as his real reason for bowing out. The field marshal, 68, has appeared to be in excellent shape.

Informed sources said they believed the resignation stemmed from differences with the King.

Coed Enthroned As Middies Queen

ANNAPOLIS, Md., May 31 (AP)—A petite, brown-eyed coed from Florida, decked out in a white organdy gown with picture hat, was enthroned as queen of June Week by the 3,500-man brigade of midshipmen at the Naval Academy today.

Fredda Coupland, 21 and 5-feet-4, reviewed a full dress parade by the brigade beside Vice Adm. Harry W. Hill, academy superintendent. This is a traditional honor granted "color girls" since 1871.

The little brewnette from Wildwood, Fla., had known nothing of the Navy's plans for her until May 23. Then she heard from her beau, Midshipman James A. Winnefeld, Kansas City, that his company had been picked as best of the 24 in the brigade.

That made his girl queen of June Week. She's a senior at Stetson University, where she is majoring in biology.

Titoist Purge May Be Under Way In Hungary

VIENNA, Austria, May 31 (AP) — Hungary's Communist government and party appear to be in the throes of a purge of Titoist elements, Western diplomatic sources here asserted tonight.

They said they based their belief that a widespread housecleaning of nationalist, anti-Moscow elements is in progress on recent reports of the dismissal and disappearance of several top government officials and party leaders.

The London Daily Telegraph said today former Hungarian President Arpad Szakasits has been arrested on charges of spying for hostile powers. The sources here said they could not confirm this.

Far-Reaching World Program Is Needed, Sen. Kefauver Says

WASHINGTON, May 31 (AP)—Sen Kefauver (D-Tenn) said today President Tuman's world program is moving in the right direction, "but we need a bigger, more far-reaching plan."

Kefauver said that in his opinion "the Atlantic union is the best and most workable plan yet presented to foster the unity everyone agrees is needed among our North Atlantic allies.

"We might not get all we askd in a convention to discuss the Atlantic union," he told a reporter, "but it would at least give us something to work for and look forward to."

Kefauver is the author of a resolution, introduced in January, calling for a conference of Atlantic powers to move toward creation of a political and economic union within the United Nations.

Reds Back Away From Food Offers To India

NEW DELHI, India, May 31 (AP)—The Soviet Union and Red China apparently are backing away from their spectacular offers of food grains to hungry India, officials indicated tonight.

A Food Ministry official said an Indian negotiator, K. R. Damle, already has left Peiping for India after concluding a pact for import before October of 450,000 tons of milo (grain sorghum) and 70,000 tons of rice.

China had offered 1,000,000 tons of grain. The official said he was unable to explain what happened to the remaining 480,000 tons, except that it would "not be negotiated now."

Indian negotiations with the Soviet Union are continuing without any agreement in sight yet.

Moorefield Loses

PARKERSBURG, W. Va., May 31 — Northfork High School eliminated Moorefield High School from the West Virginia baseball tournament tonight, 9-8, in eight innings.

New WAF Head Named

WASHINGTON, May 31 (INS) — Mary Jo Shelly of Bennington (Vt.) College today was named new director of women in the U. S. Air Force.

Miss Shelly, who is assistant to the president at Bennington, will succeed Col. Geraldine P. May, who resigned as head of the WAF's effective June 11.

Morse brought out that Collins, on his return to Washington from Tokyo, reported MacArthur felt that bans on bombing Manchuria, on a naval blockade, and on the use of Chinese Nationalist troops in Korea would "represent essentially a surrender."

Germaine Margolis Honored At Pre-Nuptial Parties

To Be Bride Of M. J. Rosenthal

Numerous pre-nuptial parties have been given in compliment to Miss Germaine D. Margolis, fiancee of Malcolm Jay Rosenthal, with three held in Baltimore, and one here during the past week.

Miss Margolis, daughter of Mrs. Harry I. Margolis, 107 Polk Street, and the late Mr. Margolis, is to become the bride of Mr. Rosenthal, son of Mr. and Mrs. Justin J. Rosenthal, 3803 Egerton Road, Baltimore, June 5.

The ceremony will be solemnized, before members of the immediate families, at the home of the bridegroom's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Golden, Baltimore.

Mrs. Louis Miller was hostess at a luncheon Wednesday at her home Greenvale Road, in compliment to the bride-elect. Her centerpiece was a huge arrangement of assorted spring flowers. Bridge was played during the afternoon with four tables in play.

A surprise miscellaneous shower was given by Mrs. Arnold Zeribitz, at her home, Fordleigh Road. The hostess arranged the gifts beneath a pink and white shower umbrella, and repeated the same color scheme her decorations. Twenty-eight guests attended.

Dr. and Mrs. Leonard Golombek entertained with a cocktail party, at their home, Forrest Park Avenue. The bridal motif was carried out in the decorations with white flowers and ferns. Sixty guests attended.

The staff of the Allegany County Welfare Board entertained with a luncheon in honor of Miss Margolis at Happy Hills Restaurant. The bridal theme was carried out in the decorations, with a wedding cake centering the table.

Washington Whirl

By AUSTINE

PARIS—Unlike Mrs. Truman, the First Lady of France really enjoys entertaining . . . Madame Auriol fixes all the flowers herself for her parties, and Parisians agree she has made the Presidential Palace, built for Madame Pompadour, much warmer and less formal. . . She serves luncheon for instance on a white organdy tablecloth embroidered with gold leaves, has one of the best chefs in Paris and brings out the best in him!

AUSTINE

If you take a poll to find out the ten best hostesses in Paris today, Madame Auriol goes on everybody's list. . . And right after her the most often voted a top hostess is American Mrs. Margaret Biddle.

In two lavish houses, one outside Paris at Fontainebleau and the other a town house, both furnished like museums with Empire pieces, priceless paintings and imaginative colors, Mrs. Biddle assembles a well-balanced mixture of celebrities. . . On any night a group like this: Mr. and Mrs. Francois Charlesroux, one of France's ablest young diplomats (stationed for several years in Washington) . . . Mr. and Mrs. Kingsbury-Smith, the handsome chief of International News Service in Europe (you may remember he got an interview with Stalin a year or so ago . . . Count and Countess de Rosenborg, of Denmark's royal family. . . A genius of the financial world, head of the Bureau Des Changes, Mr. Guindey. . . Traveling Americans like Bob Hope. . . French men of science and letters, or an American congressman.

Some people have called Rosita Winston "The Paris' Perle Mesta." . . But the ebullient American Mrs. Winston, who has proudly claimed she is part Indian, doesn't care about politics—just parties . . . The bigger the better . . . Now she's planning a June ball to celebrate the marriage at 79, of her pal, Sir Charles Mendl . . . Mrs. David Bruce, the wife of our U.S. Ambassador, ranks high, too, when you ask, "Who gives the best parties in Paris?". . . She naturally can't concentrate on any one group of friends or any one type of party, but sonstantly tosses teas, cocktails, dinners and receptions.

The widow of a celebrated French surgeon Madame Rene Abrami queens it over a true French political salon of the old school, but she's given it a few lightening touches . . . A dear friend of French Foreign Minister Schuman, she gathers in her drawing room all the serious thinkers, and gets them to talk, which in itself is a feat.

Golden-voiced and golden-haired Madame Claude Alphand, who once graced Washington, reigns in the artistic world . . . In her salons she specializes in painters, poets, musicians and art lovers, dashed, of course, with diplomats, because her husband is now an ambassador . . . Invariably at Madame Alphand's someone begins singing or playing, after a buffet supper served on small tables . . . Not long ago she arranged her tables with pale lavender cloths, pink candles and bowls of Parma violets . . . And she herself wore a robe de style of lilac satin.

Among the other leading ladies of Paris one gathers that the Countess Etienne de Beaumont, who with her husband has collected a great many fine modern paintings, deserves hostess honors, especially for the cave-dwelling conservative haute monde . . . In her large drawing room, surrounded by invaluable Picassos, she receives guests who are often, besides champagne, treated to a musical evening by some renowned pianist.

An active lady senator in France, Madame Patenotre, I hate to admit is much chicer and better-looking than our Senator Margaret Chase Smith . . . And she has one of the most intelligent French political circles, whom she wines and dines well in her Paris apartment or at her residence at Rambouillet . . . The dashing black-haired lady, round, rosy and soft, but with a steel trap mind is also the mayor of Rambouillet . . . And she makes sense, whether she's talking about the Marshall Plan, or the menu . . . That's hard to do — even for a woman.

The Duchess of Talleyrand, born in the good old U.S.A., married into an historical family, entertains only part time in France . . . But she does it so well, in such a superb background (a pleasure palace built in the 1700's for two young models of Fragonard who were kept in style by a wealthy gentleman of the day, as are few models today) at "The Pavillon Colombe" that everyone mentions her name among the top 10.

The grey-haired Duchess, who looks the part, but has an American sense of humor, gives her guests mouth-watering food in a storybook setting . . . Portraits of the Tallyrand, and other ancestors look down their approval.

But the gayest, loudest fun-est salon in town whirls around a remarkable little person, who is Madame Paris personified . . . The newly-elected congressman, the latest novelist, the ancient nobleman, the pretty girl and the proud dowager—and all practically tear each other to bits to get invited to one of those Thursday afternoon parties at Number 5 Place de Palais Bourbon behind the Chamber of Deputies.

After you've entered the room, soon Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Firestone, and over there the newly-wed Duke and Duchess of Argyll, and Mr. Balenciaga, and the Duchess of Westminster discussing a point with ECA'ers Johnnie Galliher, Betty Burton and Nathan Barlett, all ex-of Washington, D.C., and other people standing or sitting around, arguing, laughing, preaching, or just chatting on affairs of the day—after all this, you may find in a corner the little lady who has brought everybody to this fever pitch, the catalyst so to speak, the flavoring ingredient of the stew.

Madame Marie-Louise Bousquet, a little bit of a bomb of a person, has tart sparkle, a salty sweetness . . . Behind that shock of brown hair, combed in a bang above elfin eyes, her brain is a vast file on Paris . . . She knows everything about everybody and she understands and forgives . . . She knows where to eat, who to see, when it was built and who by, where to get it cheaper, who said it first, what will happen next week, how long ago they met, what the public thinks, what makes the world go round and a number of other things I wouldn't be surprised how many. . . . At her parties she will rush forward to greet you, in a deep voice, bristling with welcome . . . She'll show you around, and tuck you in to the right little group, the one you'd best enjoy.

If she is your friend in Paris, My Dear, you are in—you are getting to know Paris, not just Paris, but the real (wink) Paris.

SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

There's no chicanery about charm. It's one of the basic, most-fundamentally-honest approaches to life that anyone can have. As with any other human characteristic, charm can be pretended. But only for a short while. Sooner or later, false charm is found out.

Reason For Charm

All of the tenets of charm spring from a desire to make others happy. The particular province of your charm is to make yourself into the kind of person others are pleased to be with. If you wish to be nice to know, pleasant and interesting to hear, a sought to see and worthy of companionship, you must unselfishly consider the desires and interests of others. Instead of acquiring habits that are the line of least resistance, you must train and discipline yourself — develop your personality to the point where it contributes the most of which it is capable. In the realm of just plain living, is there any pursuit more admirable?

Charm is made up of a long list of attributes and attitudes. Some are big, some are very, very small. But even the least of them is mighty in importance. For example, how much weight do you give to the matter of thank-you notes? Are yours always attractive, sincere and mature, as well as prompt? For a child who has just learned to hold a pencil, letter writing may be a chore, but to an adult, it should be a source of great pleasure.

I once heard a bride-to-be complain about having to thank so many donors for wedding gifts. Her lack of charm was showing in one of the most damaging ways! A heartfelt "thank you" is small enough reward for thoughtfulness.

Easy "Thank You" Notes

A letter should be easy to write when all you need do is communicate your appreciation of another's thought in sending a gift to you! What is so difficult about that?

Just let your "train of association" take over. Ask yourself what the article brings to your mind. Let's say it's a gardenia corsage; how can you get beyond, "Thank you. I loved it"? Well, of what happy moment does a gardenia remind you — your first dance, your graduation, some momentous date? Does it make you think of the South's sweet air, heavenly scents, or whiteness beyond white? If you really concentrate on any gift in this way, expressing your appreciation will be easy. And you'll be earning your way in this world by living up to standards of charm, for then you'll be giving another pleasure!

Regimentals Never Fade

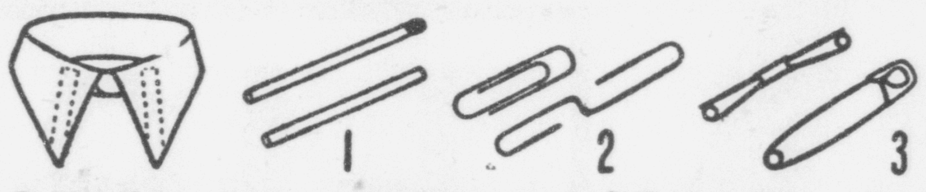
Robbins' Dual Stripes

FASHION: Regimental stripes, popular for so many years, have received a new boost in a tie-belt combination. Fred Robbins, of television and radio, is shown wearing a new straight shape tie and matching belt with two-ring buckle.

Keeping Fit: Ex-Champ Gene Tunney, who is only five pounds over his fighting weight, attributes it mainly to his road work. He walks-jogs about six miles, one morning a week, while wearing heavy clothes. . . . Go easy with your hands at the beginning of your golf season. Pros tell me most blisters come from too tight a clutch on the club.

Outdoor Chef: Do you like that real hickory-smoked flavor? There are little disks which, if placed on your charcoal, coal or wood fire, will give the genuine touch. . . . Met tenor Giuseppe Di Stefano mixes six parts of salt with one of pepper and does his seasoning with one fell swoop.

Collar Stays: If they're bent, they're useless. If too long, they can be cut down. But be sure to round or blunt edges—they can tear the collar. If you lose the originals, you can make your own with: 1, wooden match stick; 2, paper clip; or 3, extra collar pins (as shown).



Fishing Notes: You can't scare away fish by talking in a boat. Conversation noises do not penetrate water. . . . Drumfish are so called because they make a noise like a drum, which is audible above the surface. That's why it's easy to locate a school.

Sport Tips: Clean golf club heads after a round rather than before the next round. . . . Polish golf shoes frequently—as much for preservation as appearance.

Patrice Munsel

Care of Clothes: A reader suggests, "Sew three-quarter-inch cotton tape, the same color as your trousers, on the inside of the trouser cuffs. It prevents wear." . . . Singer Patrice Munsel (left) advises using a rubber sponge, rather than a whisk broom, for brushing woolens.

Odd Items: Harry Rolnick, hat man from Garland, Tex., jots down sizes and characteristics of male celebs he meets, and designs special hats for 'em. . . . A recent survey disclosed that seven and a half million men color their hair regularly. . . . This week's "Pass the Cigars" to— Phil Regan, who came out of semi-retirement to bring his radio show to armed forces camps all over the country.

Memorial Day Speaker Condemns Appeasement

No war was ever won by a debating society, Thomas B. Finan, speaker at Memorial Day services in Rose Hill Cemetery declared Wednesday in condemning appeasement.

Before a large crowd, Finan said the people must have faith in their military leaders and citizens must correct the situation which prompted one of the U. S. leaders recently returned to this country to say "that is the first time we have ever fought a war in which we are afraid of making our enemies mad."

"We know appeasement can be a disease and that in the Thirties appeasement brought the freedom loving nations of Europe to their knees.

Communism Our Enemy

"We must be resolute by not being fool hearty. We must remember that good generals win wars, that even bad generals have won wars, but that no war was ever won by a debating society.

"Winston Churchill, upon our entry into World War II stated: 'Alas, the great giant of the West is awaking.' We are again awaking to our national duty!

Finan pointed out that the slogan "God is on our side" was never more true in this battle against a nation who has disinherited God and religion.

He said our nationa recognizes Communism as an enemy that if left to its own devices would destroy the democratic process of life in free countries.

The challenge has been met in Korea and despite the ominous forbodings of the world situation aaginst free countries, Finan said the people must face the future with courage and confidence.

Striving For Peace

"In some quarters there has grown a sense of fear, but let us ask ourselves what it is that we have to fear. We might recall the words of our great Franklin Roosevelt, who, in the midst of the depression, an economic enemy, stated: 'All we have to fear is fear itself.'

"We must remember that as a nation we produce 70 per cent of all the manufactured articles in the world, that our productive genius literally knows no bounds, that our nation's conscience and sense of right and justice leads us along the road which most assuredly has the support of the Almighty."

In conclusion, Finan stated: "Being a peaceful nation, we are always striving for peace, but it must be a peace comparable with our theory of government as expressed by our constitutional guarantees of freedom, justice and equality. If we are to feel that we are keeping faith with our fallen comrades, there can be no compromise of these principles."

The program sponsored by Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion, and Henry Hart Post No. 1411, Veterans of Foreign Wars, opened with the Fort Hill High School Band playing "God Bless America."

Rev. H. M. Richardson, pastor of Emmanuel Episcopal Church, gave the invocation. Russell C. Paupe, Mountain District Legion vice commander; Rev. J. Fred Zimmerman, Fort Cumberland Post chaplain and George Zegles, post sergeant-at-arms, presented the Legion ceremony at the grave of the unknown Civil War soldier's monument.

The Allegany High School Band played "The Stars and Stripes Forever." Rev. Ernest Horning, assistant pastor of SS. Peter and Paul Church, gave the benediction.

Units in the parade were the two school bands, their junior components, the Drum and Bugle Corps of Henry Hart Post, and the Drum and Bugle Corps of Fulton Myers Post, American Legion; Headquarters Company of First Battalion, Maryland National Guard, and Girl Scouts, and the Mayor and Council. Thomas F. Conlon, Sr., was parade marshal.

K. C. Members To Elect Officers

Cumberland Council No. 586, Knights of Columbus, will nominate and elect officers Tuesday at 8:30 p. m. in the council hall.

Members will vote on a resolution to spend approximately $12,000 for improvements and alterations to first floor quarters formerly occupied by the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company.

Grand Knight Peter J. Carpenti will present pins to 25-year members at the June 19 meeting. Honorary and honorary life members also will be honored.

Chief Justice Taney General Assembly, Fourth Degree Knights of Columbus, will elect officers June 12 at 8:30 p. m.

The council is completing plans to observe its fiftieth anniversary July 15. Included in the program are a communion breakfast, exemplification of major degrees and a dinner.

Cumberland Soldier Missing In Action

A 19-year-old Cumberland soldier previously reported wounded in Korea last November has been missing in action since April 25.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert M. Short, 930 Gay Street, parents of Pfc. Thomas L. Short, confirmed the report yesterday. His wife is the former Miss Dolores A. Smith, this city.

Pfc. Short attended Fort Hill High School and was employed at Coney Island Lunch before enlisting in the service in September, 1949. Prior to reporting for overseas assignment from Camp Stoneman, Calif., he spent two weeks at home.

There were 450,559 patients in state hospitals for mental illness in the United States in 1947.

About 10,760 new books were published in the United States in 1949.

The Old Second Guesser

By JOHN N. WHEELER

The Man Who Didn't Break The Bank

A friend of mine had always been a steady-going newspaperman, never gambling or wandering into places on the way home where no one arrested you if you ordered a drink, at least as far as the boss and his wife knew. Then he was sent on an assignment to the West Indies and on his way home stopped in Havana, and, for the first time, looked a roulette table in the eye. Like many others, he was fascinated by the experience and began to figure out a system.

Shortly after he returned to New York and got back in the traces, he stopped at Macy's and bought a wheel to take home for study. On his nights off, he would have skull practice at his apartment and invite his friends in as guinea pigs. It turned out all right, because not only did his system work, but he also cleaned his companions out of spare change and had to keep enlarging his circle of acquaintances.

After these preliminary warmups, he figured he was ready for Monte Carlo, having selected that spot because he had heard the wheels were honest. He was going to break the bank. He had proven by experiment if you played the colors and doubled up, it was as good and sure as having government bonds, or maybe surer nowadays. For example, he would put five dollars on the red, and, then if the black came, his next bet would be $10. He looked in his bank books and the bureau drawers and collected about $5,000 with which he started.

He traveled by steamer to the Mediterranean, rested en route to be in good shape and arrived confident and ready for action. He put on his white tie and tails, dining in style with champagne and all the trimmings and meeting, during the course of the meal, several other suckers preparing for an evening of roulette, including one king. Since avarice and the theory you can get something for nothing are the factors which make people the world over gamble, one and all became interested in his system when he explained it and the success of his experiments.

By the time he walked into the casino, he was a big shot with a following, and, instead of looking around and sizing the situation up, his bankroll was burning a hole in his pocket as we used to say in Yonkers. He demanded a private room with his own croupier.

"That is where I made my first mistake," he confessed to me at lunch the other day.

"How did you come out—did you break the bank?" I asked.

"Hell, no," he replied. "We all bet on the red, and black came 16 times straight. Then red 14, but we had run out of money before that.

"What did you do wrong?" I inquired.

"If we had stayed in the public room and divided up, playing at different tables, I am sure it would have worked. In spite of their reputation, when the proprietors found special customers all making the same bets, they fixed us with a crooked croupier and wheel, I believe."

My stubborn friend still insists he would have broken the bank if the game had been honest. However, I find he has given up the idea now, except for academic purposes, but he added as a final convincer:

"When I got back, I went up to the department of mathematics at Columbia University. I asked a statistician there what the probabilities were of black coming 16 times straight. He said not one in more than a million, so you see I got rigged, and lost my dough just the same. I suppose the moral should be to make certain the game is on the level and then keep your bankroll close to your wishbone, anyway."

New Election Supervisors To Be Sworn Into Office

The new Board of Election Supervisors of Allegany County will be sworn into office Saturday at 10 a. m. at the Court House and will hold its first session.

Members of the board are William A. Wilson, of Midland, and Victor M. Hebb, this city, both Repuublicans, and James E. Kenny, of Westernport, a Democrat who was reappointed.

It was reported in political circles yesterday that John M. Robb, this city will be named attorney to the board and Edward P. Kaylor, this city, will be clerk to the board. Robert Pollack, of Mt. Savage, will be the new messenger to the board.

A number of other appointments will be made at the session Saturday.

The new election law for the county provides for permanent registration of voters and two registrars will be named. It is not generally known, but Cumberland will also have permanent registration under the new setup, according to informants.

The naming of the registrars, who will work full-time, will be done by the board with the two Republicans naming one and Kenny the other. Their salary will be $3,000 each annually.

No provision was made in the budget submitted to the Allegany County Commissioners by the outgoing Board of Election Supervisors several months ago for the salaries of a clerk and messenger to the election board. The new group reports that the two positions will be filled as the changes in the election laws did not affect these posts.

The new election law goes into effect today but it is reported that provisions for handling permanent registration of voters at the Court House and City Hall have not been completed. Members of the board hope to have the program ready for operation by July 1.

Under the permament registration program all persons who become eligible to vote can appear at either the Court House or City Hall and have their names placed on record.

New Trial Motion Filed In Suit Here

A motion for a new trial has been filed by attorneys for the plaintiff in a damage suit tried here Monday. The plaintiff won a verdict of $500 in her $10,000 suit against the landlord of an apartment house in Hagerstown.

At the same time the defendant's attorneys asked for a judgment in their favor notwithstanding the verdict by the jury. No decision has been made by the court in either of the two motions. The case had been removed here from Hagerstown.

Frances Gilpin Brown filed the suit last December 27 in Washington County Circuit Court against D. Webster Groh, Jr., Edison Y. Groh, Garland E. Groh and R. Eleanor Warrenfoltz, all of Hagerstown. She contended that on or about last November 28 she fell down a stairway in an apartment building owned by the defendants. She said the hallway was in almost total darkness and she caught her heel in a rubber tread which was torn and shredded.

All American Lists Schedule Changes

Schedule changes have been announced by All American Airways affecting both of the flights that stop in Cumberland daily.

Beginning today the morning flight will be westbound and the afternoon flight eastbound, according to Oscar Lewis, station manager. The present situation is reversed, eastbound in the morning and westbound in the evening.

At 9:31 a. m. (EST) the morning flight will leave here for Pittsburgh, landing there at 10:21 a. m. (EST).

At 1:53 p. m. (EST) the eastbound plane will arrive here and will land at Washington at 3:02 p. m. (EST).

Just how the change will affect the patronage here is to be seen. Previously, many businessmen found it convenient to leave on the 5 p. m. westbound plane for Pittsburgh after completing a day's work in Cumberland.

The afternoon flight will go straight through to Atlantic City, N. J., stopping at Washington and Baltimore.

Wednesday was a big day in the number of passengers hauled by All American Airways. On its six routes in the east, the firm's airliners hauled 17,665 passengers.

The first birds, which developed from flying reptiles, had teeth.

District Banner Won By Church Group

A group of 21 young people of the Christian and Missionary Alliance Church, 546 Greene Street, attended a youth rally Wednesday at Portage, Pa. It was the Southern Central Pennsylvania session.

As a result of traveling 77 miles to attend the program, the group was awarded the district banner, which is annually presented at the meeting of the 24 churches participating.

ALONG THE POTOMAC TO WASHINGTON

(By Representative J. Glenn Beall, Sixth Maryland District)

Clamping down still further on Russia and her satellites, both houses of Congress voted to forbid any future economic aid to any countries sending war materials to those countries. The embargo applies to arms and armaments and to any commodities that the Secretary of Defense certifies may be used to manufacture weapons of war. Last year Western European countries sent approximately $664,000,000 worth of exports to the Iron Curtain countries, large amounts of which were textiles, metals and machinery. With most rubber exports now cut off, this action should prevent the further manufacturing of war materials from our nominal allies with which to shoot down our men in Korea.

The Senate, last week, passed the bill extending the reciprocal trade agreements program for two years, until June 12, 1953.

The bill carries an economic weapon aimed at Russia and her satellites. It directs the President to withdraw or suspend all tariff concessions which go to Communist nations under the trade pact. The Senate bill, like the House bill, contains restrictions on the power of the President to negotiate the pacts in the "peril point" provision and the escape clause. The "peril point" provision states that if the President reduces the tariff to a point considered dangerous to the American economy by the United States Tariff Commission, he must explain his action to Congress. The escape clause makes it possible to withdraw a tariff cut if it is found that the reduction seriously effects a domestic industry. The bill now goes to conference since the House extended the pact to three years while the Senate put a two-year limit on it.

An investigation is being made of a list of war surplus vessels sold by the Maritime Commission to foreign companies on which the American taxpayers still hold mortgages. Of the 1.113 under foreign registry there are reports that many are suppplying Russia and Red China. If this report is true then a stop should be put to it immediately.

Scandals are still creeping out in the RFC. The manager of the RFC's Minneapolis loan agency was removed after it was discovered that he was in on a deal involving a profit to him of over $50,000 through the rental of a warehouse to the CCC. The deal was not illegal but the case has been turned over to the Justice Department for whatever action seems appropriate.

As a sidelight on socialized medicine, an interesting item came from London. Eye tests given to 104 factory workers who have national health service spectacles show that 49 per cent did not need them, according to the Medical Press of that country. The report stated that the figures indicated 8,280,000 pairs of spectacles costing approximately $133,000,000 have been supplied unnecessarily by the government "free of charge." Under a new law, Englishmen will now have to pay half of the cost of new spectacles.

UNDER THE DOME

Many business firms have gotten in touch with me relative to CPR-22 asking for an extension of time to prepare the material requested by the Office of Price Stabilization. Many have protested the provisions of the price regulation. I was told that an extension of time would be granted from the closing date of May 28 to July 2.

Seventy-five students of the Hagerstown High School were in Washington on Thursday, May 24, and I took them on the floor of the House and then had their photograph made on the steps of the Capitol.

I have been requested to ask the District of Columbia Zoning Board of Adjustment to consider the proposal of the National Council for Historic Sites and Buildings to preserve the Woodley Estate for public use. Woodley is one hundred and fifty years old and one of Washington's early American homes. The Peale Museum and the Walters Art Gallery in Baltimore contacted me relative to Woodley.

I attended the banquet of the Young Republicans of Maryland during their convention in Hagerstown on May 26, and introduced the speaker, Senator Nixon of California.

ALONG THE POTOMAC TO WASHINGTON

(By Representative J. Glenn Beall, Sixth Maryland District)

Clamping down still further on Russia and her satellites, both houses of Congress voted to forbid any future economic aid to any countries sending war materials to those countries. The embargo applies to arms and armaments and to any commodities that the Secretary of Defense certifies may be used to manufacture weapons of war. Last year Western European countries sent approximately $664,000,000 worth of exports to the Iron Curtain countries, large amounts of which were textiles, metals and machinery. With most rubber exports now cut off, this action should prevent the further manufacturing of war materials from our nominal allies with which to shoot down our men in Korea.

The Senate, last week, passed the bill extending the reciprocal trade agreements program for two years, until June 12, 1953.

The bill carries an economic weapon aimed at Russia and her satellites. It directs the President to withdraw or suspend all tariff concessions which go to Communist nations under the trade pact. The Senate bill, like the House bill, contains restrictions on the power of the President to negotiate the pacts in the "peril point" provision and the escape clause. The "peril point" provision states that if the President reduces the tariff to a point considered dangerous to the American economy by the United States Tariff Commission, he must explain his action to Congress. The escape clause makes it possible to withdraw a tariff cut if it is found that the reduction seriously effects a domestic industry. The bill now goes to conference since the House extended the pact to three years while the Senate put a two-year limit on it.

An investigation is being made of a list of war surplus vessels sold by the Maritime Commission to foreign companies on which the American taxpayers still hold mortgages. Of the 1,113 under foreign registry there are reports that many are suppplying Russia and Red China. If this report is true then a stop should be put to it immediately.

Scandals are still creeping out in the RFC. The manager of the RFC's Minneapolis loan agency was removed after it was discovered that he was in on a deal involving a profit to him of over $50,000 through the rental of a warehouse to the CCC. The deal was not illegal but the case has been turned over to the Justice Department for whatever action seems appropriate.

As a sidelight on socialized medicine, an interesting item came from London. Eye tests given to 104 factory workers who have national health service spectacles show that 49 per cent did not need them, according to the Medical Press of that country. The report stated that the figures indicated 8,280,000 pairs of spectacles costing approximately $133,000,000 have been supplied unnecessarily by the government "free of charge." Under a new law, Englishmen will now have to pay half of the cost of new spectacles.

UNDER THE DOME

Many business firms have gotten in touch with me relative to CPR-22 asking for an extension of time to prepare the material requested by the Office of Price Stabilization. Many have protested the provisions of the price regulation. I was told that an extension of time would be granted from the closing date of May 28 to July 2.

Seventy-five students of the Hagerstown High School were in Washington on Thursday, May 24, and I took them on the floor of the House and then had their photograph made on the steps of the Capitol.

I have been requested to ask the District of Columbia Zoning Board of Adjustment to consider the proposal of the National Council for Historic Sites and Buildings to preserve the Woodley Estate for public use. Woodley is one hundred and fifty years old and one of Washington's early American homes. The Peale Museum and the Walters Art Gallery in Baltimore contacted me relative to Woodley.

I attended the banquet of the Young Republicans of Maryland during their convention in Hagerstown on May 26, and introduced the speaker, Senator Nixon of California.

Unsulphured Molasses Tops As Nutritious Sweetener

Cookies enriched with unsulphured molasses are nutritious. This molasses is a natural sweet, being derived from the concentrated juice of sugar cane. It is also an especcially valuable source of iron needed to build red blood. As added bounty, it contains calcium and vitamin B1.

Many pediatricians are recommending the use of high quality molasses in milk drinks as a good way to obtain some of the daily iron requirements. A tablespoon of molasses stirred into a glass of milk is a delicious flavor addition to this beverage.

Here is the recipe for the easy-to-make chewy molasses cookies.

Molasses Chew-Chews

⅛ cup shortening
1 cup sugar
1 cup unsulphured molasses
½ cup unbeaten egg whites (about 4)
1¾ cups sifted all-purpose flour
¼ teaspoon soda
½ teaspoon salt
1½ cups shredded coconut

Cream together shortening, sugar and unsulphured molasses. Beat in egg whites. Add flour, soda, salt and coconut; mix until blended. Spread batter on a greased, waxed paper lined, jelly roll pan, 15 x 1-inch. Bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) 30 to 35 minutes. Turn out on baking sheet, remove paper; turn right side up. When cool, cut into bars 1 x 2 inches.

YIELD: 75 bars.

Cut lemon meringue pies with a knife that has been dipped into warm water or melted butter. This makes a clean cut without sticking to the meringue.

Party Plans For Your Younger Set

"Eats" for a youngster's party require the same special planning as for a grown-up party. The question comes to mind, "What is something different to serve that will arouse their interest?"

Always easy to prepare and simple to serve is an assortment of tasty sandwiches, small fry size. Sandwich spread news may be chopped bacon with peanut butter or bacon with chopped cooked prune moistened with mayonnaise. Numerous sandwich spreads may be made with liver sausage—for instance, liver sausage combined with chopped carrot, with pickle or with hard-cooked egg and mayonnaise.

If it's strictly a young misses' party, delight guests with individual sandwich loaves. That is, miniature copies of your regular sandwich loaf. Perhaps spread one layer with deviled ham, another with bacon and prune in combination. Frost each loaf with cream cheese and garnish with a radish rose and a sprig or two of cress.

For a refreshing June dessert, feature a deep dish rhubarb pie. Combine 2 pounds of rhubarb, cut in ½ inch pieces (about 5 cups) with 1¼ cups sugar, ¼ cup enriched flour, ⅛ teaspoon nutmeg, and 2 tablespoons shredded orange rind. Mix lightly. Place in 8-inch square pan and dot with butter or margarine. Top with tender pastry, cutting design in pastry to allow steam to escape. Bake in hot oven (425°F.) 30 minutes. Serves 4 to 6 people. If desired, serve with cream.

Let Father Have His Day

To Dad
FOR DAD

Don't tell Dad we said so, but don't you agree that too often he comes out on the short end of things? The family decides what it wants to do, and Dad is expected to follow along. And when presents are in order, you know how it is. "Oh, Dad doesn't care—give him a tie!"

So how about making Father's Day this year completely his day? Help the children choose a gift he really wants. Prepare his favorite dish for dinner; make a special Father's Day cake for him. And by the way, if chocolate is his favorite flavor, here is a cake he will love. It is simple and easy to make with a wonderful devil's food mix. The fancy part can be the decoration—and there is no better way to turn a simple cake into a fancy one than by showering it with snowy shredded coconut. In this case, enough space is left on the top to write "For Dad."

Father's Day Anniversary Cake

1 package devil's food mix
1¼ cups milk

Turn cake mix into bowl. Add ½ cup of the milk, blend, then beat 2 minutes. Add half of the remaining milk, blend, and beat 2 minutes. Then add remaining milk and beat 1 minute longer. (Beat vigorously by hand or at low speed of electric mixer. Scrape bowl and spoon or beater often.)

Turn batter into 9 x 9 x 2-inch square pan which has been lined on bottom with paper. Bake in moderate oven (375°F.) 30 to 35 minutes.

Clever Judy Frosting

1½ cups sifted confectioners sugar
2 egg yolks, unbeaten
6 tablespoons milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
3 squares unsweetened chocolate, melted
1½ tablespoons butter

Combine ingredients in order given, beating with rotary egg beater until blended. Place bowl in pan of cracked ice or ice water and continue beating until of right consistency to spread (about 3 minutes). Makes 2 cups frosting, or enough to cover top and sides of 9 x 9 x 2-inch cake.

Ornamental Frosting

1 egg white, unbeaten
2 cups sifted confectioners sugar
¼ teaspoon vanilla
⅛ teaspoon lemon juice

Add half of sugar to egg white and beat thoroughly. Add vanilla and lemon juice; then add remaining sugar gradually, beating well after each addition. After all sugar is added continue beating 2 minutes. Keep covered with damp cloth until ready for use. Use for decorating a frosted cake. Force frosting through pastry tube, filling tube only ½ full.

Unusual Sponge Pie

Taking third prize at the National Orange Show in California, was this lemon sponge pie with the interesting texture. The filling is quick and easy to make yet gives the effect of being made in two separate layers. During the baking process, the bottom of the filling changes into a thick custard, while the top has a very light-cake-like texture. Both parts have a wonderful fresh lemon flavor which makes it a favorite in its class.

1 tbs. butter
1 cup sugar
1 tbs. flour
3 tbs. fresh lemon juice
1 tsp. grated lemon peel
2 eggs, separated
1 cup milk

Make an 8-inch pastry shell of your favorite pie crust recipe. Bake the shell for 8 minutes at 425°F; set aside to cool. Cream butter; gradually add sugar, salt, flour, fresh lemon juice and pell. Pour in beaten egg yolks and milk, stirring thoroughly. Beat egg whites until stiff; fold into other mixture. Pour into partially baked pie shell. Bake in moderate oven (350°F.) for about 40 minutes or until light brown.

One of every 15 families in the United States is dependent on milk for part of its livelihood.

Lemon Velvet Chiffon Pie

A masterpiece in its own class, this rich creamy chiffon pie was awarded second prize—at the National Orange Show in California. The light and creamy texture combines with that delicious tangy lemon flavor makes it a favorite with everyone who tastes it. Your family will surely award it top honors, too!

⅔ cup sugar
4 tbs. cornstarch
¼ tsp. salt
⅔ cup boiling water
2 eggs, separated
2 tbs. butter
⅓ cup fresh lemon juice
1 tsp. grated lemon peel
1 tbs. plain gelatin
½ cup cold water
1 cup coffee cream

Mix sugar, cornstarch and salt in saucepan. Add boiling water and while stirring constantly, cook until thick and smooth. Remove from stove and mix in beaten egg yolks and butter. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, for 5 minutes. Remove from heat; add lemon juice and peel. Stir in gelatin that has been dissolved in cold water. Blend in cream. Let set until mixture begins to thicken; fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour into baked 9-inch pie shell and let stand in cool place until thick. Especially good when topped with whipped cream.

Graham Crust Dessert Suggestions

Delicious, crunchy graham cracker crumb crust is a versatile standby for summer desserts. It's so easy to make, so foolproof and takes to so many shapes you'll find it one of your busiest recipes. Begin with this basic recipe and then take your choice.

¼ cup (½ stick) softened butter or margarine; ¼ cup sugar; 16 graham crackers, finely rolled.

Let butter or margarine stand at room temperature until pliable. Put in mixing bowl with sugar and crumbs and blend well. (Freshly scrubbed hands do a fast job of mixing.) Now....

Put crumb mixture in a 9-inch pie plate. Set an 8-inch pie plate on top of crumbs and press them firmly into an even layer on bottom and sides of pan. Fill with:

Strawberry Chiffon Filling

Refrigerator Cheese Cake Filling

Divide crumb mixture into 8 fluted paper baking cups set in muffin pans. Press firmly against bottom and sides of cups with the back of a spoon. Fill with:

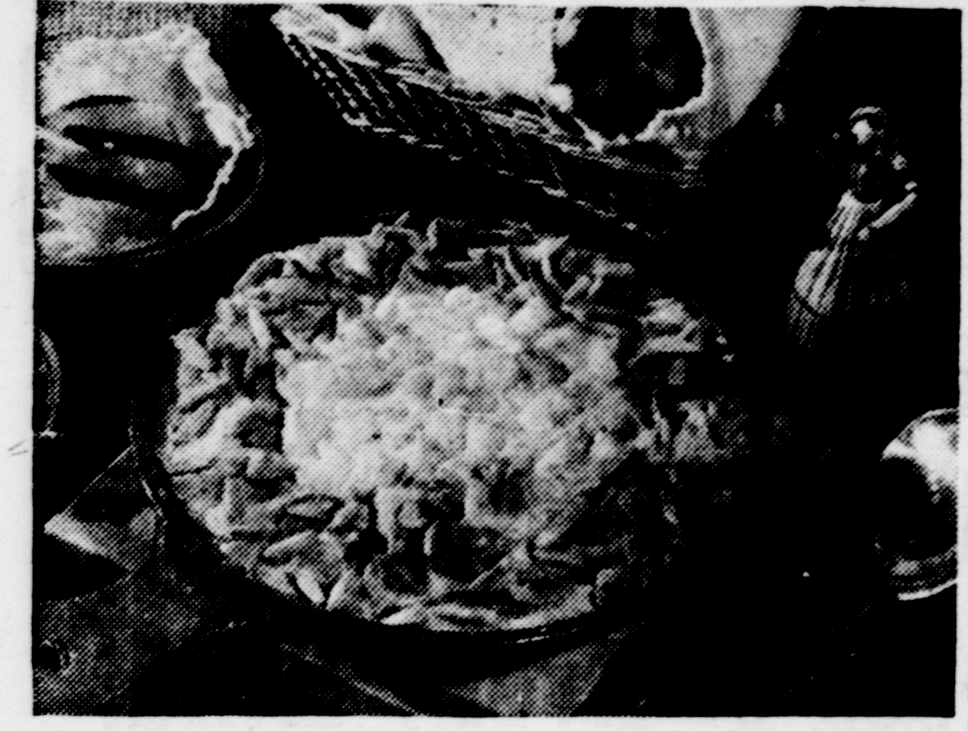
Unsulphured Molasses Tops As Nutritious Sweetener



Cookies enriched with unsulphured molasses are nutritious. This molasses is a natural sweet, being derived from the concentrated juice of sugar cane. It is also an especcially valuable source of iron needed to build red blood. As added bounty, it contains calcium and vitamin B1.

Many pediatricians are recommending the use of high quality molasses in milk drinks as a good way to obtain some of the daily iron requirements. A tablespoon of molasses stirred into a glass of milk is a delicious flavor addition to this beverage.

Here is the recipe for the easy-to-make chewy molasses cookies.

Molasses Chew-Chews

⅛ cup shortening
1 cup sugar
1 cup unsulphured molasses
½ cup unbeaten egg whites (about 4)
1¾ cups sifted all-purpose flour
¼ teaspoon soda
½ teaspoon salt
1½ cups shredded coconut

Cream together shortening, sugar and unsulphured molasses. Beat in egg whites. Add flour, soda, salt and coconut; mix until blended. Spread batter on a greased, waxed paper lined, jelly roll pan, 15 x 1-inch. Bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) 30 to 35 minutes. Turn out on baking sheet, remove paper; turn right side up. When cool, cut into bars 1 x 2 inches.

YIELD: 75 bars.

Cut lemon meringue pies with a knife that has been dipped into warm water or melted butter. This makes a clean cut without sticking to the meringue.

Party Plans For Your Younger Set

"Eats" for a youngster's party require the same special planning as for a grown-up party. The question comes to mind, "What is something different to serve that will arouse their interest?"

Always easy to prepare and simple to serve is an assortment of tasty sandwiches, small fry size. Sandwich spread news may be chopped bacon with peanut butter or bacon with chopped cooked prune moistened with mayonnaise. Numerous sandwich spreads may be made with liver sausage—for instance, liver sausage combined with chopped carrot, with pickle or with hard-cooked egg and mayonnaise.

If it's strictly a young misses' party, delight guests with individual sandwich loaves. That is, miniature copies of your regular sandwich loaf. Perhaps spread one layer with deviled ham, another with bacon and prune in combination. Frost each loaf with cream cheese and garnish with a radish rose and a sprig or two of cress.

For a refreshing June dessert, feature a deep dish rhubarb pie. Combine 2 pounds of rhubarb, cut in ½ inch pieces (about 5 cups) with 1¼ cups sugar, ¼ cup enriched flour, ⅛ teaspoon nutmeg, and 2 tablespoons shredded orange rind. Mix lightly. Place in 8-inch square pan and dot with butter or margarine. Top with tender pastry, cutting design in pastry to allow steam to escape. Bake in hot oven (425°F.) 30 minutes. Serves 4 to 6 people. If desired, serve with cream.

Let Father Have His Day

To Dad
FOR DAD

Don't tell Dad we said so, but don't you agree that too often he comes out on the short end of things? The family decides what it wants to do, and Dad is expected to follow along. And when presents are in order, you know how it is. "Oh, Dad doesn't care—give him a tie!"

So how about making Father's Day this year completely his day? Help the children choose a gift he really wants. Prepare his favorite dish for dinner; make a special Father's Day cake for him. And by the way, if chocolate is his favorite flavor, here is a cake he will love. It is simple and easy to make with a wonderful devil's food mix. The fancy part can be the decoration—and there is no better way to turn a simple cake into a fancy one than by showering it with snowy shredded coconut. In this case, enough space is left on the top to write "For Dad."

Father's Day Anniversary Cake

1 package devil's food mix
1¼ cups milk

Turn cake mix into bowl. Add ½ cup of the milk, blend, then beat 2 minutes. Add half of the remaining milk, blend, and beat 2 minutes. Then add remaining milk and beat 1 minute longer. (Beat vigorously by hand or at low speed of electric mixer. Scrape bowl and spoon or beater often.)

Turn batter into 9 x 9 x 2-inch square pan which has been lined on bottom with paper. Bake in moderate oven (375°F.) 30 to 35 minutes.

Clever Judy Frosting

1½ cups sifted confectioners sugar
2 egg yolks, unbeaten
6 tablespoons milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
3 squares unsweetened chocolate, melted
1½ tablespoons butter

Combine ingredients in order given, beating with rotary egg beater until blended. Place bowl in pan of cracked ice or ice water and continue beating until of right consistency to spread (about 3 minutes). Makes 2 cups frosting, or enough to cover top and sides of 9 x 9 x 2-inch cake.

Ornamental Frosting

1 egg white, unbeaten
2 cups sifted confectioners sugar
¼ teaspoon vanilla
⅛ teaspoon lemon juice

Add half of sugar to egg white and beat thoroughly. Add vanilla and lemon juice; then add remaining sugar gradually, beating well after each addition. After all sugar is added continue beating 2 minutes. Keep covered with damp cloth until ready for use. Use for decorating a frosted cake. Force frosting through pastry tube, filling tube only ⅛ full.

Lemon Velvet Chiffon Pie

A masterpiece in its own class, this rich creamy chiffon pie was awarded second prize—at the National Orange Show in California. The light and creamy texture combines with that delicious tangy lemon flavor makes it a favorite with everyone who tastes it. Your family will surely award it top honors, too!

⅔ cup sugar
4 tbs. cornstarch
¼ tsp. salt
⅔ cup boiling water
2 eggs, separated
2 tbs. butter
⅓ cup fresh lemon juice
1 tsp. grated lemon peel
1 tbs. plain gelatin
½ cup cold water
1 cup coffee cream

Mix sugar, cornstarch and salt in saucepan. Add boiling water and while stirring constantly, cook until thick and smooth. Remove from stove and mix in beaten egg yolks and butter. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, for 5 minutes. Remove from heat; add lemon juice and peel. Stir in gelatin that has been dissolved in cold water. Blend in cream. Let set until mixture begins to thicken; fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour into baked 9-inch pie shell and let stand in cool place until thick. Especially good when topped with whipped cream.

Graham Crust Dessert Suggestions

Delicious, crunchy graham cracker crumb crust is a versatile standby for summer desserts. It's so easy to make, so foolproof and takes to so many shapes you'll find it one of your busiest recipes. Begin with this basic recipe and then take your choice.

¼ cup (½ stick) softened butter or margarine; ¼ cup sugar; 16 graham crackers, finely rolled.

Let butter or margarine stand at room temperature until pliable. Put in mixing bowl with sugar and crumbs and blend well. (Freshly scrubbed hands do a fast job of mixing.) Now....

Put crumb mixture in a 9-inch pie plate. Set an 8-inch pie plate on top of crumbs and press them firmly into an even layer on bottom and sides of pan. Fill with:

Strawberry Chiffon Filling

Refrigerator Cheese Cake Filling

Divide crumb mixture into 8 fluted paper baking cups set in muffin pans. Press firmly against bottom and sides of cups with the back of a spoon. Fill with:

Unusual Sponge Pie

Taking third prize at the National Orange Show in California, was this lemon sponge pie with the interesting texture. The filling is quick and easy to make yet gives the effect of being made in two separate layers. During the baking process, the bottom of the filling changes into a thick custard, while the top has a very light-cake-like texture. Both parts have a wonderful fresh lemon flavor which makes it a favorite in its class.

1 tbs. butter
1 cup sugar
1 tbs. flour
3 tbs. fresh lemon juice
1 tsp. grated lemon peel
2 eggs, separated
1 cup milk

Make an 8-inch pastry shell of your favorite pie crust recipe. Bake the shell for 8 minutes at 425°F; set aside to cool. Cream butter; gradually add sugar, salt, flour, fresh lemon juice and pell. Pour in beaten egg yolks and milk, stirring thoroughly. Beat egg whites until stiff; fold into other mixture. Pour into partially baked pie shell. Bake in moderate oven (350°F.) for about 40 minutes or until light brown.

One of every 15 families in the United States is dependent on milk for part of its livelihood.

Suggestions For Making Lemon Pie

Anyone can make a prize lemon pie. The art of making a melt-in-the-mouth lemon pie can be accomplished by any homemaker if she will follow directions carefully. Here are a few timely hints that should make it easier for you to master the art of turning out an excellent lemon meringue pie!

When adding egg yolks to hot filling take the saucepan off the stove, pour a couple of spoonfuls of the mixture into the beaten egg yolks. Stir thoroughly and then pour back into the saucepan. This cooks egg yolks more gradually, keeping them from becoming hard and lumpy.

A larger proportion of starch is needed to thicken a lemon pie than for other fillings such as chocolate or butterscotch. This is due to action of the acid lemon juice on the starch, known as hydrolysis.

Be careful not to over-cook lemon pie fillings—the result will be a thin watery pie rather than a thick, easy-to-cut one.

Before baking the pastry for lemon pies, prick the shell very thoroughly to prevent large bubbles, blisters, or excess shrinkage. If you prefer a very crisp pastry, lightly brush the shell with egg white before baking.

Cool lemon filling before pouring it into baked, cooked pie crust—for a crisp, more flaky pastry.

When beating egg whites for meringue, have them at room temperature and make sure that there's no trace of yolk—for the best texture and volume. Gradually add 2 tablespoons of sugar for each egg white, after whites have become foamy white with large bubbles. Continue beating until meringue is glossy, smooth, and stands up in peaks—but not until it is dry.

Be sure that the filling is cool when meringue is spread over the top. A hot filling is likely to cause moisture beneath the meringue or small light brown bubbles on top.

Apples And Cheese Add To Kraut Casserole

This lively blend of sauerkraut, apple and cheese flavors just seems made to order for these snappy days when appetites are at their keenest. Round out the meal with broiled cheese-filled frankfurters, given added zest with rich-prepared mustard, and you'll have a contented, well-fed family.

Apple Kraut with Frankfurters
(Makes 4-6 servings)

3 Rome Beauty apples; 2 No. 2 can sauerkraut; 2 tablespoons brown sugar; 1 cup grated cheddar cheese; ¼ teaspoon nutmeg; 6-8 frankfurters; Rich-prepared mustard; 6-8 frankfurters rolls.

Wash and cut apples into small pieces, leaving skin on. In a bowl, combine sauerkraut, brown sugar, ½ cup cheese, nutmeg and apples; mix thoroughly. Place sauerkraut mixture in 46 individual casseroles or a 1½-quart casserole. Cover; bake in a moderate oven (350°) 30-35 minutes.

With a sharp knife, split frankfurters lengthwise without cutting all the way through. Spread with rich-prepared mustard in opening and fill with remaining grated cheese. Broil until cheese is melted and frankfurters are done. Place broiled cheese-filled frankfurters in split frankfurter rolls. Serve immediately with cooked sauerkraut.

Why not make Welsh Rabbit a regular Sunday supper specialty at your house? It's an easy, nourishing dish. Instead of pouring the cheese sauce over toast, occasionally serve it over crisp waffles. Garnish with strips of crisp bacon or tomato slices. The family will say it's mighty good! Waffles made with enriched flour, like all enriched breads, provide those important B-vitamins and food mineral iron.

A reducing diet that contains enriched breads along with meat, vegetables, fruit, milk and eggs, is likely to be a safe diet. One slice of bread or a plain roll yields only about 75 calories—the same as a medium-sized apple. Bread at each meal will not cause weight gain when the total calorie value of the entire diet is suited to the particular needs of the individual. Elimination of bread when you're cutting calories is unnecessary and results in added cost.

Anyone can make a prize lemon pie. The art of making a melt-in-the-mouth lemon pie can be accomplished by any homemaker if she will follow directions carefully. Here are a few timely hints that should make it easier for you to master the art of turning out an excellent lemon meringue pie!

When adding egg yolks to hot filling take the saucepan off the stove, pour a couple of spoonfuls of the mixture into the beaten egg yolks. Stir thoroughly and then pour back into the saucepan. This cooks egg yolks more gradually, keeping them from becoming hard and lumpy.

•—•—•

A larger proportion of starch is needed to thicken a lemon pie than for other fillings such as chocolate or butterscotch. This is due to action of the acid lemon juice on the starch, known as hydrolysis.

Be careful not to over-cook lemon pie fillings—the result will be a thin watery pie rather than a thick, easy-to-cut one.

Before baking the pastry for lemon pies, prick the shell very thoroughly to prevent large bubbles, blisters, or excess shrinkage. If you prefer a very crisp pastry, lightly brush the shell with egg white before baking.

•—•—•

Cool lemon filling before pouring it into baked, cooked pie crust—for a crisp, more flaky pastry.

When beating egg whites for meringue, have them at room temperature and make sure that there's no trace of yolk—for the best texture and volume. Gradually add 2 tablespoons of sugar for each egg white, after whites have become foamy white with large bubbles. Continue beating until meringue is glossy, smooth, and stands up in peaks—but not until it is dry.

•—•—•

Be sure that the filling is cool when meringue is spread over the top. A hot filling is likely to cause moisture beneath the meringue or small light brown bubbles on top.

Apples And Cheese Add To Kraut Casserole

This lively blend of sauerkraut, apple and cheese flavors just seems made to order for these snappy days when appetites are at their keenest. Round out the meal with broiled cheese-filled frankfurters, given added zest with rich-prepared mustard, and you'll have a contented, well-fed family.

(Makes 4-6 servings)

3 Rome Beauty apples; 2 No. 2 can sauerkraut; 2 tablespoons brown sugar; 1 cup grated cheddar cheese; ¼ teaspoon nutmeg; 6-8 frankfurters; Rich-prepared mustard; 6-8 frankfurters rolls.

Wash and cut apples into small pieces, leaving skin on. In a howl, combine sauerkraut, brown sugar, ½ cup cheese, nutmeg and apples; mix thoroughly. Place sauerkraut mixture in 46 individual casseroles or a 1½-quart casserole. Cover; bake in a moderate oven (350°) 30-35 minutes.

With a sharp knife, split frankfurters lengthwise without cutting all the way through. Spread with rich-prepared mustard in opening and fill with remaining grated cheese. Broil until cheese is melted and frankfurters are done. Place broiled cheese-filled frankfurters in split frankfurter rolls. Serve immediately with cooked sauerkraut.

Why not make Welsh Rabbit a regular Sunday supper specialty at your house? It's an easy, nourishing dish. Instead of pouring the cheese sauce over toast, occasionally serve it over crisp waffles. Garnish with strips of crisp bacon or tomato slices. The family will say it's mighty good! Waffles made with enriched flour, like all enriched breads, provide those important B-vitamins and food mineral iron.

A reducing diet that contains enriched breads along with meat, vegetables, fruit, milk and eggs, is likely to be a safe diet. One slice of bread or a plain roll yields only about 75 calories—the same as a medium-sized apple. Bread at each meal will not cause weight gain when the total calorie value of the entire diet is suited to the particular needs of the individual. Elimination of bread when you're cutting calories is unnecessary and results in added cost.

Emergency Shelf Meal For Guests

Clever is the homemakers who can have a tasty meal from the pantry emergency shelf when the unexpected guest arrives at meal time.

A can of luncheon meat made into patties, baked on slices of pineapple with sweet potatoes and unsulphured molasses, requires very little preparation time and is company fare for any occasion. To finish this menu, toss a green salad with bleu cheese salad dressing and prepare the easy to make apple sauce pie.

Your reputation as being the cleverest hostess in town will be truly justified.

Meat Patties With PineappleSweet Potatoes

2 tablespoons butter or margarine; ¼ cup unsulphured molasses; 2 tablespoons pineapple juice or water; 6 slices pinapple; 12-oz. can luncheon meat; ⅓ cup crushed corn flakes; 2 teaspoons prepared mustard; 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce; 2 tablespoons milk; 1 egg, beaten; 6 whole cloves; 18-oz. can sweet potatoes.

Heat oven to 400 degree F. (moderately hot). Heat first 3 ingredients in an 8x12-2-inch pan just to boiling point. Over this, place 6 slices of pineapple. Put meat through food chopper, using medium blade; mix with corn flakes, mustard, Worcestershire sauce, milk, and egg. Shape into 6 patties; place one in each slice of pineapple, and stick a whole clove in center of each. Arrange sweet potatoes around pineapple; baste with liquid mixture. Bake 40 to 50 minutes, basting about 3 times. YIELD: 6 servings.

Bleu Cheese Salad Dressing

1 teaspoon salt; 1 teaspoon paprika; ¾ teaspoon dry mustard; ⅛ teaspoon black pepper; 2 teaspoons grated onion; 1 clove garlic; 2 cups salad oil; ¼ cup unsulphured molosses; ¾ cup vinegar; ¼ lb. Bleu cheese.

Combine first seven ingredients; let stand one hour. Add remaining ingredients. Shake well before using. YIELD: 3-½ cups salad dressing.

Apple Sauce Pie

16 large graham crackers; 2 tablespoons sugar; ½ teaspoon cinnamon; 2 tablespoons unsulphured molasses; 2 tablespoons butter or margarine; No. 2 can apple sauce; 2 tablespoons cornstarch; ⅛ teaspoon salt; ¼ teaspoon nutmeg; 2 egg yolks, beaten; 2 egg whites; 3 tablespoons sugar; ¼ teaspoon grated lemon rind.

Roll graham crackers to make 1-⅓ cups crumbs; mix with the next three ingredients. Melt butter or margarine; add, and mix well. Press crumb mixture firmly in an over layer against sides and bottom of a 9-inch pie pan. Bake 8 minutes in a preheated moderate oven (375 degrees F.). Combine apple sauce, molasses, cornstarch, salt, and nutmeg in a saucepan; cook until thick (5 to 7 minutes). Gradually stir a little of the hot mixture into the beaten egg yolks, then stir this into the remaining hot mixture; cook one minute, stirring constantly. Pour into the previously prepared crumb crust. Top with meringue made with remaining ingredients. Bake 15 minutes in preheated slow oven (300 degrees F.). YIELD: 6 servings.

One cup of chopped cooked chicken can be stretched to serve four by using it in a delectable casserole called Chicken Biscuit Blanket. In a greased 1½ quart casserole arrange a layer each of 1 cup chopped cooked chicken, 1 cup diced celery, 1 tablespoon minced parsley, 4 ounces mushrooms (if desired) and 4 sliced hard cooked eggs. Pour 1 cup of medium white sauce evenly over the layers. Then roll out biscuit dough to a sheet to fit top of casserole. Place biscuit blanket on top of chicken mixture, pressing edge of biscuit dough to casserole. Prick biscuit dough with fork or tip of sharp knife. Bake in hot oven (425° F.) about 25 minutes. Serve hot. Makes 4 servings.

After lemon meringue pie has been browned, be careful to cool it away from drafts. Do not cool this type of pie in refrigerator.

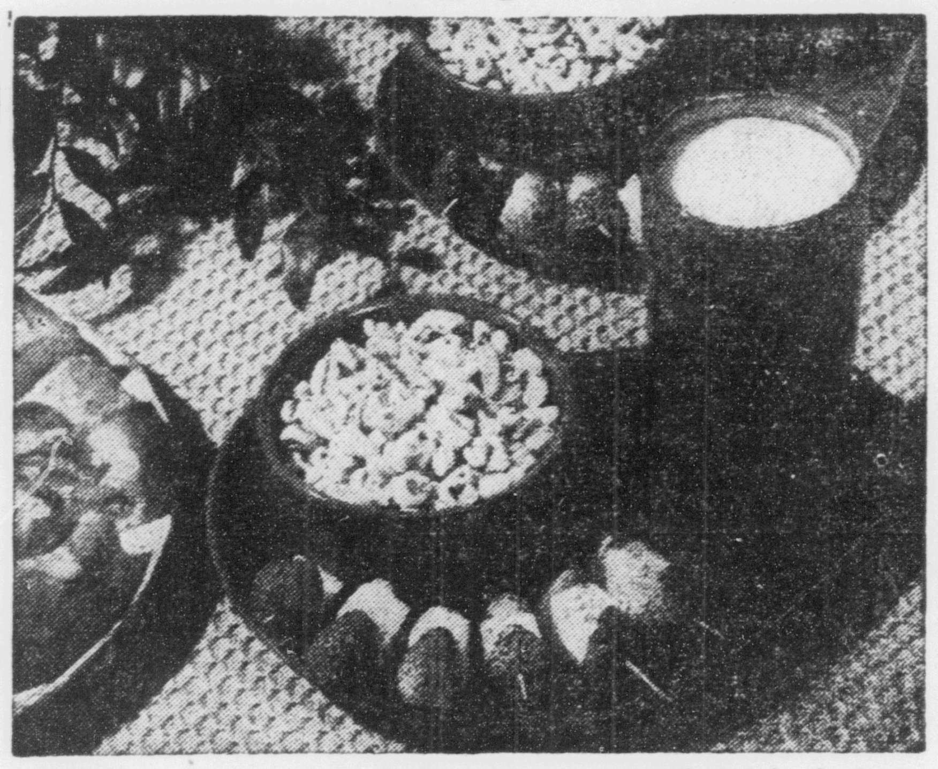
Breakfast Is a Partnership Meal



Breakfast, Incorporated! Let's call our morning meal that, for a good breakfast is not a one-food business. It's a partnership with five members—fruit, cereal, milk, bread and butter, and each member must be present if we are to receive ¼ to ⅓ of our day's total food needs, which authorities say a good breakfast provides.

Each member makes a special contribution. The fruit of your basic cereal breakfast is important particularly for its vitamin C. Citrus fruits or juice, tomato juice, strawberries, and cantaloupe are especially rich in this vitamin.

The next two members of this partnership—your breakfast cereal and milk—work as a team, supplementing each other to supply top-quality protein, essential B vitamins, important minerals, and quickly available food energy.

Cereal and Milk Partners

Both the cereal and the milk make important contributions to this team. In five of the nine nutrients, as well as in calories, the breakfast cereal alone provides more than 50 per cent of the total amounts contributed by both cereal and milk. And your breakfast cereal supplies almost 50 per cent of the protein.

The partner, bread, is included in the basic breakfast for its caloric value and because it contributes to the protein, vitamin, and mineral content of the pattern. Butter or fortified margarine adds necessary calories, fat, and vitamin A.

Complete Breakfast

You may, if you like, add other foods to this five-way partnership, but don't skip any of the original members for it takes each one to do a good breakfast job.

Today's menu combines the five partners into a tasty and attractive meal. Fruit kabobs is the first course. You can make these by skewering a juicy chunk of pineapple on a pick, adding a strawberry half at either end. Puffed wheat and milk make the main dish; coffeecake with butter brings the other two partners to the table. Milk may be served as the beverage.

WHAT BECOMES OF THE FLAME?

An inexpensive little Want Ad was the spark that blazed the way to the founding of the Sears, Roebuck & Co. business.

The partners of this great mail order business were brought together by a 55c Help Wanted ad in the Chicago DAILY NEWS.

In 1886 Richard W. Sears, who was station agent for the Minneapolis & St. Paul Railway in North Redwood, discovered that he could make money by selling watches by mail. He moved to Chicago. He needed a watch maker and adjuster, so he inserted the following ad in the DAILY NEWS.

"Watchmaker wanted with references who can furnish tools. State age, experience, and salary required. T39 Daily News."

The ad was answered by A. C. Roebuck. This was the beginning of a business which last year spent over 25 million dollars on newspaper advertising alone, and did a volume of business amounting to over 2 billion dollars.

The advertising medium which brought Sears and Roebuck together has never been forgotten.

Facts About Variety Meats

The term "variey meats" covers the group of highly nutritious meats including liver, heart, tongue, kidneys, sweet-breads, brains and tripe. These variety meats are an excellent source of protein needed to build and repair the body and of the B vitamins to promote growth and maintain health. The richest source of iron, for blood building, is liver.

Homemakers can serve their family beef, veal, pork and lamb liver in a variety of ways. For instance, liver may be cut in long, thin strips, then floured by shaking in a bag containing seasoned flour. The strips are fried in deep hot fat (360° F.) until well browned, or about five minutes. Or liver may be browned slightly, then ground and formed into loaves or patties. A guide to buying liver is to plan on one pound for four servings.

As for kidneys, lamb and veal may be broiled. Pork and beef are popularly used in stews or braised dishes. A beef kidney will serve from 4 to 6, veal kidney 3 to 4, pork 1 to 2, and lamb kidneys provide individual servings.

In preparing heart, fill with stuffing, and slowly braise. Or slice the heart and braise the slices. A beef heart will serve approximately 8 to 10; a veal or pork heart, 2 to 3. A lamb heart will make one serving. Tongue may be purchased fresh, pickled, corned or smoked. All tongues should be cooked in water and some cured tongues may require soaking prior to cooking. Salt should be added in cooking fresh tongue. A beef, veal or pork tongue will make approximately 12 servings.

Orange Ginger Ale Ring

HOSTESS HINT—Entertaining can be fun . . . especially if you prepare food ahead so you can enjoy the party with the guests. At your next buffet supper, treat the guests to an Orange Ginger Ale Ring. It's so pretty that it could easily be the star attraction on the table. Make it the day before, if you wish, and it will be ready to serve when you need it. If you want to make a design of the oranges and pecans, place them in the bottom of the mold, pour in just enough gelatin to cover the orange sections. After it has set then pour in the remaining gelatin and fruit. It's a taste-tempter when served with cottage cheese and encircled with California oange slices. Put it in a prominent spot on the buffet table and let the guests help themselves. Have a small bowl of lemon mayonnaise nearby for those wanting a salad dressing.

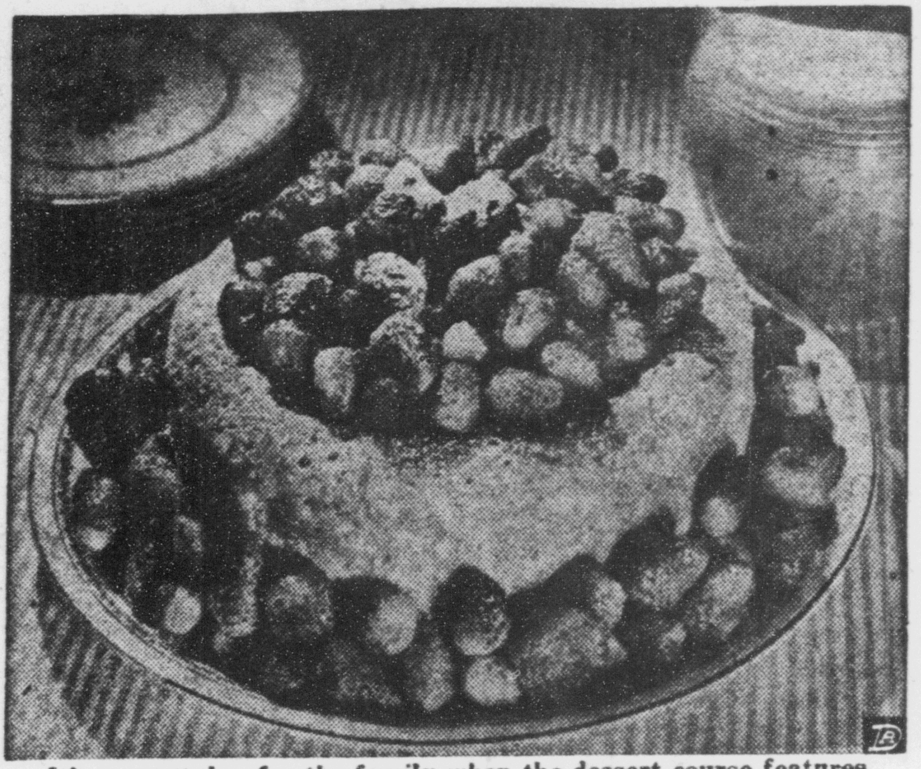
Planning a shower for a June bride? Refreshments are no problem if you depend on cake from the baker's. Serve with ice cream and coffee, and have dishes of pastel colored mints and salted nuts as accessories. If you are making your cake, here's a decorating idea. Use a toothpick to outline an umbrella on top of the cake and a few raindrops falling 'round it for that "shower" theme. Fill in outline with tinted icing, using a pastry tube or cake decorator.

1 envelope plain gelatin; ¼ cup fresh lemon juice; ¼ cup sugar; ¾ cup fresh orange juice; ¼ teaspoon salt; 1 cup ginger ale; 1 cup orange section; ½ cup pecan halves.

Put lemon juice in small saucepan; sprinkle plain gelatin over top and let set about five minutes. Heat mixture until gelatin is thoroughly dissolved. Add sugar, salt, orange juice and ginger ale. Arrange orange sections and pecans in mold or add them to gelatin mixture. Pour gelatin into mold and place in refrigerator. Unmold when desired and serve with cottage cheese and California orange slices.

Strawberries in Scone Ring



It's a great day for the family when the dessert course features sugared strawberries heaped high in shortcake scone ring. Pour thick cream over individual servings.

When it's strawberry time, there's nothing like a shortcake to make your family happy.

Buy fluffy unfrosted cake from your baker's to make this national favorite, or make quick biscuit or scone shortcakes. A scone dough is handled just like biscuit dough. In the scone, sugar and eggs have been added for extra richness. Today's handsome scone ring is made from a "drop" scone batter. After stirring liquid into flour mixture only until flour is moistened, spread batter in 9-inch ring mold. The ring mold provides a pretty shell for the plump, red berries.

If you do not have a ring mold, bake batter in round cake pan, then split and serve shortcake style. Use the scone batter as a shortcake base for other fruits or berries in season.

You'll be pleased with the high nutritional value of shortcake desserts. Enriched flour in biscuit or scone supplies essential B-vitamins and food iron, the eggs, milk and fruit topping other important food values. Use enriched flour in home baking and look for the label "enriched" on all breads you buy at your baker's.

STRAWBERRIES IN SCONE RING

- 3 cups sifted enriched flour
- 4½ teaspoons baking powder
- 1½ teaspoons salt
- 4½ teaspoons sugar
- 6 tablespoons shortening
- 2 eggs
- 1½ cups milk
- 1½ quarts strawberries
- Sugar for strawberries

Sift together flour, baking powder, salt and sugar. Cut or rub in shortening. Beat eggs. Add milk to beaten eggs and add all to flour mixture, stirring only until flour is moistened. Pour batter into greased 9-inch ring mold. Bake in moderately hot oven (400°F.) 20 to 25 minutes. When baked, unmold and fill center with sugared crushed strawberries. Garnish top and sides with whole berries.

Makes 1 9-inch ring.

Amazing Macaroni Recipe Requires No Pre-Cooking

An amazing new macroni recipe that requires no pre-cooking has just been announced. Called "Macaroni Saute," this new casserole dish can be prepared in considerable less time than usual.

For years, the most popular method of preparing macaroni has been the baked casserole of pre-cooked macaroni. Now, with this recipe, you will be able to serve your family a new type of casserole dish without cooking the macaroni first.

Macaroni Saute created quite a stir when a check of several popular and rare cookbooks revealed that it was the only macaroni dish that required no pre-cooking. Homemakers, too, commented favorably about the ease and speed in making it, as well as its delicious flavor, when the recipe was kitchen-tested across the country.

Spaghetti with Scallions

2 cups fine spaghetti; ½ cup butter or magarine; 5 scallions or green onions, coarsely chopped.

Cook spaghetti in 3 qt. rapidly boiling salted water (1tbsp. salt) untill tender, stirring occasionally, 9 to 12 minutes, depending on type of spaghetti, or as directed on the package. Drain.

Melt butter or margarine and add scallions. Do not let scallions fry, only wilt. Add the drained spaghetti. Reheat. Add salt and pepper to taste. Serve with grated Parmesan cheese. This will serve four to five persons.

Needle Omelet is a quick and easy combination of eggs and noodles that should also prove a favorite.

Fresh berries are coming to market, and that supplies a cue for berry muffins at breakfast and luncheon. Berry muffins are so good the family is likely to put away just as many as you make. These tempting meal time breads are easy to mix, so plan the luncheon menu around them. Even if you're a beginner on the "range" you can turn out muffins that equal an expert's. Just follow the rule of quick, light mixing in muffin making. Combine liquid ingredients (milk, egg, and shortening). Add berries to flour mixture and add liquid mixture, stirring only until moistened, about 20 to 30 seconds. Fill muffin pans about ⅔ full and bake in hot oven (425°F.)

CBS May Have To Carry Color TV Ball Alone

NEW YORK, May 31. (AP)—Now that the Columbia Broadcasting System has won the battle for its color television, the network apparently also will have to carry the ball in putting it across.

Other networks indicated today they had no present plans for starting telecasts of CBS color, adopted by the Federal Communications Commission in an order upheld Monday by the Supreme Court.

While there was no official comment from the American Broadcasting Co., National Broadcasting Co. and Dumont, it was made clear they were in no hurry to do anything about color. NBC is a subsidiary of Radio Corp. of America which brought suit against the FCC order after its own rival color system was rejected.

Meanwhile, CBS made plans to start commercial color telecasts here in about a month, after the Supreme Court decision clears back through the Chicago Federal District Court from which the appeal was taken.

A CBS spokesman said affiliated stations had shown considerable interest in obtaining network transmissions of color programs which it plans to extend to other cities after they are put on a regular commercial basis here.

Another firm, Celomat Corp. of New York, announced plans to make equipment to enable black and white TV sets to receive color telecasts.

Myron J. Greenwald, Celomat vice president, said it hopes to have converter kits, retailing at less than $30, available in about 60 days. The set owner would assemble the motor and color disc into a small viewer, but would have to have his set adapted to bring in the CBS colorcasts—at a cost estimated all the way from $12 to $50.

Greenwald said the viewer device would be for no more than two persons to look through, but could be used with any size screen. You would put the viewer device immediately in front of you and look through it at the picture several feet away, rather than putting the device immediately in front of the picture tube.

Indications increased that color programs will be slow in developing; that materials shortages will cause color equipment to be very slow in reaching the market in any volume; and that black and white television will remain the principal service for several years more at least.

CBS May Have To Carry Color TV Ball Alone

NEW YORK, May 31. (AP)—Now that the Columbia Broadcasting System has won the battle for its color television, the network apparently also will have to carry the ball in putting it across.

Other networks indicated today they had no present plans for starting telecasts of CBS color, adopted by the Federal Communications Commission in an order upheld Monday by the Supreme Court.

While there was no official comment from the American Broadcasting Co., National Broadcasting Co. and Dumont, it was made clear they were in no hurry to do anything about color. NBC is a subsidiary of Radio Corp. of America which brought suit against the FCC order after its own rival color system was rejected.

Meanwhile, CBS made plans to start commercial color telecasts here in about a month, after the Supreme Court decision clears back through the Chicago Federal District Court from which the appeal was taken.

A CBS spokesman said affiliated stations had shown considerable interest in obtaining network transmissions of color programs which it plans to extend to other cities after they are put on a regular commercial basis here.

Another firm, Celomat Corp. of New York, announced plans to make equipment to enable black and white TV sets to receive color telecasts.

Myron J. Greenwald, Celomat vice president, said it hopes to have converter kits, retailing at less than $30, available in about 60 days. Pulp Workers May Receive Five Cent Wage Increase

A prospective wage increase of up to five cents an hour for employes of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company and the United Paper Workers Union, (CIO) was announced yesterday by the company and the union.

The wage hike for workers at the Covington, Va., Luke and Williamsburg, Pa., mills will go into effect if and when the government's Wage Stabilization Board permits.

The exact amount of the increase will depend upon action by the board, the joint statement of the company and union said.

Foresee Action

The statement adds:

"The agreement follows recent decisions by the government permitting increases above the present wage ceiling in the meat packers and other cases. Action in these cases is generally regarded as forerunning some general relaxation in the board's present formula which forbids any increase having effect of raising average straight time pay more than ten per cent above that prevailing in January, 1950.

"At the time this formula was established, previous increases at three mills in question had already raised average pay by more than such ten per cent, with the result that rates at these mills were and are frozen until further action by the board.

"It is now expected, however, that the board may within the next few weeks allow increases up to perhaps as much as 15 per cent over the base period, which would permit the full five cents per hour specified in the agreement.

Might Be Flat Increase

"If the full amount is allowed, the agreement states it will apply as a flat increase of five cents per hour across the board. If less, the union will have the option of taking increase what ever it may turn out to be, either as flat cents-per-hour, across the board, or in the form of a percentage increase.

"The increase will go into effect at all three mills at the same time which is set as a date of the first pay period at Covington nearest the date of official action by the board.

"Negotiations for the prospective increase were requested by the union under a general wage reopening clause contained in its contract with the paper company.

"Agreement was reached Friday, May 25, at a meeting in Luke. The various locals are now in the process of explaining details to their members at union meetings."

No person under 35 years of age may become President of the United States.

Johnstown, Pa.

Save Your Votes for Your Favorite SCHOOL

Visual education through television is today vitally important in the planned educational programs of schools. Many programs use telecast daily for this purpose. Most schools need television sets to take advantage of them. To meet this need—to make it possible for every school to enjoy the advantages of television—the American Stores Company and Philco Corporation have set aside Philco 16-inch television sets and stands to be given FREE OF CHARGE to schools—public, parochial and private.

You, the customers, have the privilege of deciding which schools get television sets. Every 25c purchase entitles the customer to one vote—your cash register receipts are your votes. The sooner your favorite school has accumulated the required number of votes the sooner it gets a television set and gets it installed without charge.

DEATHS and FUNERALS

MRS. M. R. CUNNINGHAM

A funeral service for Mrs. Margaret Robertson Cunningham, 64, widow of James Cunningham, who died Monday in Miners Hospital, Frostburg, was held yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock in Grace Methodist Church with Rev. Louis L. Emerick, pastor, officiating. Burial took place in Frostburg Memorial Park.

HENRY E. TOPP

A requiem mass for Henry E. Topp was celebrated yesterday morning in St. Mary's Catholic Church by Rev. Robert F. Hopkins, assistant pastor. Burial was in St. Patrick's Cemetery.

Pallbearers were Robert W., Vernon W., Earl, Ralph and Charles Groves and Charles J. Hansrote.

PRESTON T. SIPLE

KEYSER, W. Va. — Preston Todd Siple, 70, of Route 2, died yesterday morning. He collapsed while enroute to his barn.

A native of Pendleton county, Mr. Siple had lived near Fort Ashby 40 years. His parents were the late Samuel and Sarah (Smith) Siple. He was a farmer and held membership in Deer Run Methodist Church.

Mr. Siple is survived by his widow, the former Miss Edna Carder; three children, Mrs. John Gortner, Arlington, Va.; Fred C. Siple, at home, and Arthur L. Siple, serving with the Seabees in the Aleutians; two brothers, Cos Siple, Fort Ashby, and William Siple, Mendon, Ill.; four sisters, Mrs. Maggie Simpson and Mrs. Cora Waggoner, both of Bridgewater, Va.; Mrs. Otho Byrd, Martinsburg, and Mrs. Hugh Kimble, Upper Tract, and two grandchildren.

The body will remain at the home. A funeral service will be held at the home at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon, with Rev. J. H. Lotsspeich, pastor of the Fort Ashby Methodist Church officiating. Interment will be in Fort Ashby Cemetery.

EMERSON M. GOWER

PARSONS, W. Va.—Funeral services were conducted at the Lohr Funeral Home in Elkins, Tuesday afternoon for Emerson M. Gower, 74, native of Tucker county who died in an Elkins hospital on Saturday. He has been in ill health for the past four years and critically ill for two weeks.

He was born May 5, 1877 at St. George, Tucker county a son of the late Basil W. and Catherine Shaffer Gower. In January, 1901 he married the former Alice Price of Montrose who died on July 23, 1944. He is survived by one sister, Mrs. Alice Shaw of Montrose.

Mr. Gower owned and operated several saw mills in Tucker county prior to moving to Randolph county in 1924. He was a member of the Independent Order of Odd Fellow Lodge No. 39 of Parsons. Interment was made in the IOOF cemetery in Elkins.

CPL. ARNOLD DYE

HAGERSTOWN — The body of Cpl. Arnold Dye, 23, son of Mr. and Mrs. John T. Dye, 339 Ridge Avenue, Hagerstown, formerly of Lonaconing, who was killed in Korea last July 24, will arrive here today.

Reburial services will be held Sunday at 2:30 p. m. in St. Mark's Lutheran Church there with Rev. Edward P. Hines officiating. Full military honors will be accorded at the grave in Rose Hill Cemetery, Hagerstown.

A Merchant Marine veteran of World War II, Cpl. Dye enlisted in the Army in January, 1949. At the time of his death he was fighting with the 27th Regiment, 25th Infantry Division.

Besides his parents, he leaves two sisters, Brenda L. and Vastus Dye, at home, and two brothers, T. Conway Dye, also at home, and Weldon C. Dye, serving with American troops in Germany.

CECILA EVE ADAMS

MADELY, Pa. — Mrs. Cecila Eve Adams, 88, died at her home yesterday. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. McVicker, both deceased and the widow of Elmer Ellsworth Adams.

A native of West End, Pa., she is survived by two children, Mrs. Blanch Wills, Madely, and James O. Adams, Sr., Hyndman. Also surviving are a brother, Ross McVicker, Johnstown, Pa., and three grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held Saturday at 2 p. m. at Hyndman, with Rev. C. E. Miller officiating. The burial will take place in Hyndman Cemetery.

ERVIN H. LOGSDON

HYNDMAN, Pa.—Ervin H. Logsdon, 69, died at his home, Route 1, yesterday afternoon.

Surviving him are his widow, Mrs. Bessie G. Beals Logsdon; six children, Mrs. Helen Regis, Rimersburg, Pa., and Mrs. Mabel Shroyer, Mrs. Mildred Miller, Mrs. Gladys Stallings, Robert and Leo Logsdon, all from Hyndman. Also surviving are a brother, Oscar Logsdon, Hyndman, and a sister, Mrs. Ema Lenhart, Cumberland.

Funeral services will be held at the residence, Sunday at 2 p. m. with Rev. C. W. Raley. Interment will be in Palo Alto Cemetery.

MRS. FRANCES WILFONG

A funeral service was held for Mrs. Frances Wilfong at the home of her mother, 17 Oldtown Road, yesterday, with Rev. S. Regester Neel officiating. Interment was in Hillcrest Burial Park.

Pallbearers were Richard C. Simmons, Albert Friend, Daniel Fogle, Lester White, Marion D. Beck and Norman Kimble.

Housework Easy Without Nagging Backache

Nagging backache, loss of pep and energy, headaches and dizziness may be due to slowdown of kidney function. Doctors say good kidney function is very important to good health. When some everyday condition, such as stress and strain, causes this important function to slow down, many folks suffer nagging backache—feel miserable. Minor bladder irritations due to cold or wrong diet may cause getting up nights or frequent passages.

Don't neglect your kidneys if these conditions bother you. Try Doan's Pills—a mild diuretic. Used successfully by millions for over 50 years. It's amazing how many times Doan's give happy relief from these discomforts—help the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters flush out waste. Get Doan's Pills today!

Fly Ash Can

ferent fuel might help, the speaker said such means might help but not eliminate the problem.

The nuisance value of fly ash, the speaker said, depends largely upon the attitude of the people. That is, if people complain, it is a nuisance.

He added it was government's responsibility to see that a city has a good ordinance and the people's duty to see that the law is enforced.

Will Drop Limits

In response to a query of W. Earle Cobey, city solicitor, Schrebeis said Cumberland's ordinance, like Pittsburgh's, allows too high a percentage of fly ash. He added that that city will, within the next few weeks, drop the allowable limit from the present 75 to 30 grains per cubic foot.

The Pittsburgh man refused to compare Cumberland's ordinance, or conditions, to that existing in his city, adding there were too many differences, including Cumberland's topography, to allow a comparison.

He added that Pittsburgh has found it necessary to control the type of fuel used, and that the Cumberland ordinance lacks that feature.

The railroads here, he said, are given "much more liberal" allowances than in Pittsburgh — about 16 times as much when locomotives are running and twice as much when fireboxes are being cleaned.

He said he was not familiar with Georges Creek coal and declined to comment on its use but said strip mined coal, because of its greater dirt content, would not be desirable.

Conductor John

when he had "close calls" while conductor on the railroad and cited several incidents when mishaps occured. He also mentioned numerous letters commenting on his courteous attitude while collecting fares.

One recollection that harassed his daily duties on certain holidays and in the summer was a group of Cumberland children who visited their grandfather at Elkins. Armed with squirt guns these youngsters would build tents with the movable seats, place orange peelings in the rim of a sleeping passenger's hat or pull the cord overhead to learn the reaction.

As to plans for the future, Brown remarked of "traveling and seeing the country" and "expects to leave for the west coast in August, but not by train." He says he will tour the United States by automobile. To the retiring conductor who faithfully served 48 years with the Western Maryland Railway his many friends wish him "good luck and a pleasant future."

Teacher Salary

doesn't even take into account the 20 vacancies already expected in the original staff and additional vacancies which can be expected to crop during the summer.

Among the Southern Maryland counties, there is Anne Arundel with 102 open posts in a staff of 645. Despite a recent $200 increase which brought the annual minimum to $2,400-$4,000, authorities there are not optimistic about their chances of obtaining enough replacements.

Besides Dorchester, the $2,200-$3,800 minimum is still maintained in Garrett, Queen Anne's, St. Mary's, Somerset, Talbot and Worchester counties.

Baltimore Competition

For the most part, they cannot hope to compete with such wealthy subdivisions as Baltimore County, which approved increases ranging from $400 to $800 a year soon after the governor vetoed the statewide raise.

One reason for this has been advanced by Thomas G. Pullen, Jr., state superintendent of education. He pointed out that differences in the amount of taxable property may make it less expensive for one county to raise teachers' pay than for another county.

For example, Harford County felt it could finance a $200-$400 increase in the pay of teachers by adding only 6.8 cents to its property tax rate.

Caroline County also put a $200 increase into effect. But property owners found their tax rate raised by 13.7 cents.

When Pullen goes before the Legislative Council later this month in an attempt to have the next General Assembly override McKeldin's veto, he undoubtedly will include this feature in his argument.

Besides Baltimore, Anne Arundel, Caroline and Harford Counties, increases have been put into effect by Charles, Prince Georges, Wicomico (all $200), Montgomery ($300), and Allegany ($100).

$2,200-$3,800—Dorchester, Garrett, Queen Annes, St. Mary's, Somerset, Talbot and Worcester.

$2,300-$3,900—Calvert, Carroll and Cecil.

$2,400-$3,800—Charles (no increase for three years).

$2,400—$4,000—Anne Arundel, Frederick, Howard, Caroline, Kent and Wicomico.

$2,400-$4,300—Washington County.
$2,500-$3,800—Allegany.
$2,600-$4,200—Prince Georges.
$2,600-$4,600—Baltimore City.
$2,800-$4,200—Harford.
$2,900-$5,000—Montgomery.
$3,000-$5,000—Baltimore County.

Deadline Passed

The deadline for use of old Maryland plates on trucks passed at midnight last night. Tax Collector Ernest B. Treat reported the sale yesterday of 112 sets of plates for one-half and three-quarter ton trucks by those rushing the deadline. About 850 small truck plate sets have been sold at the Court House here. Treat still has about 350 sets of truck licenses on hand.

All members of the family were present except Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Wilson and son, Mickey, Baltimore.

Fly Ash Can

ferent fuel might help, the speaker said such means might help but not eliminate the problem.

The nuisance value of fly ash, the speaker said, depends largely upon the attitude of the people. That is, if people complain, it is a nuisance.

He added it was government's responsibility to see that a city has a good ordinance and the people's duty to see that the law is enforced.

Will Drop Limits

In response to a query of W. Earle Cobey, city solicitor, Schrebeis said Cumberland's ordinance, like Pittsburgh's, allows too high a percentage of fly ash. He added that that city will, within the next few weeks, drop the allowable limit from the present 75 to 30 grains per cubic foot.

The Pittsburgh man refused to compare Cumberland's ordinance, or conditions, to that existing in his city, adding there were too many differences, including Cumberland's topography, to allow a comparison.

He added that Pittsburgh has found it necessary to control the type of fuel used, and that the Cumberland ordinance lacks that feature.

The railroads here, he said, are given "much more liberal" allowances than in Pittsburgh — about 16 times as much when locomotives are running and twice as much when fireboxes are being cleaned.

He said he was not familiar with Georges Creek coal and declined to comment on its use but said strip mined coal, because of its greater dirt content, would not be desirable.

Conductor John

when he had "close calls" while conductor on the railroad and cited several incidents when mishaps occured. He also mentioned numerous letters commenting on his courteous attitude while collecting fares.

One recollection that harassed his daily duties on certain holidays and in the summer was a group of Cumberland children who visited their grandfather at Elkins. Armed with squirt guns these youngsters would build tents with the movable seats, place orange peelings in the rim of a sleeping passenger's hat or pull the cord overhead to learn the reaction.

As to plans for the future, Brown remarked of "traveling and seeing the country" and "expects to leave for the west coast in August, but not by train." He says he will tour the United States by automobile. To the retiring conductor who faithfully served 48 years with the Western Maryland Railway his many friends wish him "good luck and a pleasant future."

Teacher Salary

doesn't even take into account the 20 vacancies already expected in the original staff and additional vacancies which can be expected to crop during the summer.

Among the Southern Maryland counties, there is Anne Arundel with 102 open posts in a staff of 645. Despite a recent $200 increase which brought the annual minimum to $2,400-$4,000, authorities there are not optimistic about their chances of obtaining enough replacements.

Besides Dorchester, the $2,200-$3,800 minimum is still maintained in Garrett, Queen Anne's, St. Mary's, Somerset, Talbot and Worchester counties.

Baltimore Competition

For the most part, they cannot hope to compete with such wealthy subdivisions as Baltimore County, which approved increases ranging from $400 to $800 a year soon after the governor vetoed the statewide raise.

One reason for this has been advanced by Thomas G. Pullen, Jr., state superintendent of education. He pointed out that differences in the amount of taxable property may make it less expensive for one county to raise teachers' pay than for another county.

For example, Harford County felt it could finance a $200-$400 increase in the pay of teachers by adding only 6.8 cents to its property tax rate.

Caroline County also put a $200 increase into effect. But property owners found their tax rate raised by 13.7 cents.

When Pullen goes before the Legislative Council later this month in an attempt to have the next General Assembly override McKeldin's veto, he undoubtedly will include this feature in his argument.

Besides Baltimore, Anne Arundel, Caroline and Harford Counties, increases have been put into effect by Charles, Prince Georges, Wicomico (all $200), Montgomery ($300), and Allegany ($100).

The latest breakdown showed these minimum scales for the various counties and Baltimore city:

$2,300-$3,900—Calvert, Carroll and Cecil.

$2,400-$3,800—Charles (no increase for three years).

$2,400—$4,000—Anne Arundel, Frederick, Howard, Caroline, Kent and Wicomico.

$2,400-$4,300—Washington County.
$2,500-$3,800—Allegany.
$2,600-$4,200—Prince Georges.
$2,600-$4,600—Baltimore City.
$2,800-$4,200—Harford.
$2,900-$5,000—Montgomery.
$3,000-$5,000—Baltimore County.

National Officer Addresses Frostburg Future Teachers

FROSTBURG — Mrs. Wilda F. Faust, secretary of the National Future Teachers of America Committee of the National Education Association, was the guest speaker at the F. T. A. Banquet held recently at Frostburg State Teachers College.

Mrs. Faust spoke on various activities of the Future Teachers of America and explained several projects of those chapters which won banners for their work. She emphasized the idea that problems are necessary in order to accomplish worthwhile achievements, and urged the acceptance of such problems.

Miss Mary Wright Silvey, assistant editor of the N. E. A. Journal and coordinator for the Maryland State and National Association of Future Teachers of America, spoke briefly on the necessity for students to voice their opinions concerning the N. E. A. Journal. She also expressed the wish that the college chapter will be able to participate in future activities of the state chapter to promote the work of the state chapter.

Burton Faust, who accompanied his wife, expressed the idea that teaching is an interesting profession, with many opportunities to organize for greater development of groups and individuals.

Several representatives of the Delta Kappa Gamma, national teaching sorority, also attended as guests. They included Miss Grace Finzel, Mrs. Christina Hosack, Mrs. Nellie Hilton, Mrs. Margaret Atkinson and Miss Gertrude Williams. They are going to assist the college chapter establish Future Teachers of America chapters in high schools.

A welcome to the group and guests was extended by Miss Lillian C. Compton, president of the college.

Officers of the F. T. A. for the coming year were installed, with Jack Kaulbaugh, retiring president, in charge.

Miss Arline G. Petry, adviser to the college F. T. A. chapter, expressed a desire for success in the future projects of the college.

A rising vote of thanks was given for Jack R. Snyder, who has done extensive work for the F. T. A. chapter during the past school year. Musical entertainment was provided by Dr. Maurice J. Matteson, accompanied by his dulcimer, and Mrs. Matteson, who played interpretations of folk music.

Miss Llewellyn To Be Graduated

BARTON.—Eleanor M. Llewellyn will be one of 23 graduates who will receive certificates at commencement exercises to be held in the Springfield State Hospital School auditorium on Friday, June 8, at 8 p. m. Dr. Robert E. Gardner, superintendent, will preside.

Barton Seniors To Hear Sermon Sunday Morning

The 23 members of the Barton High School graduating class will gather at the Barton Methodist Church at 10:45 a. m. Sunday for the annual baccalaureate services.

Rev. Wendell Allen, church pastor, will preach the sermon to the seniors. Special music will be presented by the church choir, directed by Frank Metz.

A Class program has been arranged for next Tuesday.

Rev. O. Afton Linger, pastor of Cumberland's First Baptist Church, will speak at the commencement at 8 p. m. Thursday, June 7, in the school auditorium. Rev. Allen will deliver the invocation and benediction at the graduation exercises.

Alma Frenzel, a senior, will extend greetings on behalf of the graduating class.

Special music will be offered by the school orchestra, directed by Mrs. Doris C. Mitchell, and the girls glee club. Carolyn Harvey, a junior, will sing a vocal solo, "Love Sends a Little Gift of Roses".

Principal Alfred H. Benna will make announcements and awards near the close of the commencement program.

Welsh Memorial WMU Will Meet June 21

FROSTBURG — The WMU of Welsh Memorial Church met recently at the home of Mrs. George McLuckie, Bowery Street. Those present were Emily Reese, Maude Chidester, Janet Aldridge, Elizabeth Workman, Margaret Walsh and Fanny Lewis.

It was decided to hold the next meeting June 21, at 7:45 p. m. at the church, with Mrs. Bessie B. Grim as guest speaker. She will speak on "Church Echoes," from El Paso, Texas. Mrs. Grim has recently returned to her home here, after spending some time in El Paso.

National Officer Addresses Frostburg Future Teachers

FROSTBURG — Mrs. Wilda F. Faust, secretary of the National Future Teachers of America Committee of the National Education Association, was the guest speaker at the F. T. A. Banquet held recently at Frostburg State Teachers College.

Mrs. Faust spoke on various activities of the Future Teachers of America and explained several projects of those chapters which won banners for their work. She emphasized the idea that problems are necessary in order to accomplish worthwhile achievements, and urged the acceptance of such problems.

Miss Mary Wright Silvey, assistant editor of the N. E. A. Journal and coordinator for the Maryland State and National Association of Future Teachers of America, spoke briefly on the necessity for students to voice their opinions concerning the N. E. A. Journal. She also expressed the wish that the college chapter will be able to participate in future activities of the state chapter to promote the work of the state chapter.

Burton Faust, who accompanied his wife, expressed the idea that teaching is an interesting profession, with many opportunities to organize for greater development of groups and individuals.

Several representatives of the Delta Kappa Gamma, national teaching sorority, also attended as guests. They included Miss Grace Finzel, Mrs. Christina Hosack, Mrs. Nellie Hilton, Mrs. Margaret Atkinson and Miss Gertrude Williams. They are going to assist the college chapter establish Future Teachers of America chapters in high schools.

A welcome to the group and guests was extended by Miss Lillian C. Compton, president of the college.

Officers of the F. T. A. for the coming year were installed, with Jack Kaulbaugh, retiring president, in charge.

Miss Arline G. Petry, adviser to the college F. T. A. chapter, expressed a desire for success in the future projects of the college.

A rising vote of thanks was given for Jack R. Snyder, who has done extensive work for the F. T. A. chapter during the past school year. Musical entertainment was provided by Dr. Maurice J. Matteson, accompanied by his dulcimer, and Mrs. Matteson, who played interpretations of folk music.

Miss Llewellyn To Be Graduated

BARTON.—Eleanor M. Llewellyn will be one of 23 graduates who will receive certificates at commencement exercises to be held in the Springfield State Hospital School auditorium on Friday, June 8, at 8 p. m. Dr. Robert E. Gardner, superintendent, will preside.

Requiem Mass To Be Said For Maybury

Services To Be Held Saturday Morning

A requiem mass will be held for Bernard Clay Maybury, Piedmont, W. Va. in St. Peter's Catholic Church, Westernport, at 9:30 a. m. Saturday. Maybury was drowned Wednesday while on an outing on Stoney Creek, on the outskirts of Baltimore in upper Anne Arundel county.

Maybury, who was in Baltimore for an interview yesterday for a position with the Baltimore Sun, was to have been graduated Monday from the West Virginia University, Morgantown, with a bachelor of science degree in journalism.

The victim had been visiting his fiancee, Miss Bernice Sudine, formerly of Luke, and her mother, Mrs. Mary Sudine, at their home in Baltimore.

On Holiday Outing

The drowning occurred Wednesday at 7:45 p. m. at Altoona Beach on Stoney Creek where he had gone on a Memorial Day outing with Miss Sudine and her mother and other friends.

Maybury, according to relatives, dived from a pier and disappeared. Volunteer firemen found his body 25 minutes later in four feet of water.

Attempts to revive him by artificial respiration were made by firemen and police.

Maybury was the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Bernard Maybury, Jr., of 95 East Hampshire Street, Piedmont. His father is a bookkeeper in the First National Bank, Piedmont.

He was a graduate of St. Peter's Catholic High School, Westernport; Potomac State School, Keyser, W. Va.,; and had finished his studies in journalism at West Virginia University this month.

War Veteran

At the university, he was a member of the Journaliers Club and Phi Sigma Chi, honorary journalism fraternity.

Maybury was also a member of the Press Club and when journalism students took over the publication of the Morgantown Post for one day this spring, he served as city editor. He also wrote the noon news program for a Morgantown radio station.

He was born in Washington and moved to Piedmont at the age of two.

A veteran of World War II, he served with the Coast Artillery on Peak's Island near Boston. He was a member of Kelly-Mansfield Post No. 52, American Legion, and St. Peter's Catholic Church, Westernport.

Maybury is survived by two brothers, John Maybury, who is to graduate from Potomac State School Monday, and Donald Maybury, who is to be graduated from St. Peter's High School Sunday, and a sister, Miss Mydis Maybury, member of the staff at Amcelle plant of Celanese Corporation.

The body is at the home of his parents.

Orchestra Will Present Concert

WESTERNPORT—The Hammond Street School Orchestra and Band, under the direction of Miles T. Haran, will give a concert at the school Friday at 8 p. m.

The orchestra will play On to Victory, Let Freedom Ring, Honor Students, Jolly Coppersmith, On Land and Sea, School Days and America.

Solo numbers will be played by Susan Vanorsdale, Phyllis Peters, Joel Lease and Danny Elliott. Trees, cornet. Piano accompaniment will be by Nancy Fazenbaker and Rebecca Fazenbaker.

The band will play Little Brown Jug and United States Clipper March. Kenneth Broadwater and Donald Hines will play and a baritone solo will be given by Edward Barricks with Becky Fazenbaker playing the piano accompaniment.

A stringed group directed by Kenneth F. Bachman will play A Chorale from Beethhoven's Ninth Symphony, Melody from Sixth Piano Sonata and The Clown.

Nancy Fazenbaker will play the piano accompaniments for the stringed numbers.

Injured In Fall

Relations Club Hears Teacher

FROSTBURG — Miss Margaret Baker, instructor at Allegany High School, Cumberland, was the guest speaker at the recent banquet of the International Relations Club of Frostburg State Teachers College, held at Anton's Bib Savage Inn.

She gave an informal talk on how the American foreign policy is adopted and emphasized that foreign policy is really a reflection of public opinion.

Miss Baker recently completed a social studies trip to Washington, where she visited the Department of State for the purpose of gathering information.

The following retiring and incoming officers of the club were guests of honor at the banquet, Rebecca Manuel, William Leonard, Emily Popp, and Maxine Conrad, retiring officers, and Harold Scott, Vaughn Dullabaum, Dawn Pabor and Thomas Moran, incoming officers.

Miss Lillian C. Compton, college president, and Dr. Hazel G. Ramsay and Dr. Howard Briggs, club co-sponsors, were guests.

Hammond Street PTA To Elect Officers

Frostburg Rotary Hears Workmeister

FROSTBURG—John Workmeister, Cumberland, was the guest speaker Monday evening at the weekly luncheon of the Frostburg Rotary Club.

His talk pertained to birds of this area and their habits. The club recently resumed meetings at the Layman farm for the summer months. Cars will be pooled each week, and will leave the Frostburg Post Office at 6 p. m.

The program next week will be in charge of William S. Jenkins.

Frostburg Briefs

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Loy, of Route 1, announce the birth of a daughter Sunday in Miners Hospital.

A son was born Sunday to Mr. and Mrs. George Wright, Eckhart, in Miners Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Kenny, 79 Linden Street, announce the birth of a daughter Sunday in Miners Hospital.

Asked To Honorary

OAKLAND — Ella Fazzalari, 60 Third Street, was one of eight girls pledged to Mortar Board, National Women's Honorary, at University of Maryland's May Day exercises at College Park, May 16. Miss Fazzalari is a junior in home economics.

Relations Club Hears Teacher

FROSTBURG — Miss Margaret Baker, instructor at Allegany High School, Cumberland, was the guest speaker at the recent banquet of the International Relations Club of Frostburg State Teachers College, held at Anton's Bib Savage Inn.

She gave an informal talk on how the American foreign policy is adopted and emphasized that foreign policy is really a reflection of public opinion.

Miss Baker recently completed a social studies trip to Washington, where she visited the Department of State for the purpose of gathering information.

The following retiring and incoming officers of the club were guests of honor at the banquet, Rebecca Manuel, William Leonard, Emily Popp, and Maxine Conrad, retiring officers, and Harold Scott, Vaughn Dullabaum, Dawn Pabor and Thomas Moran, incoming officers.

Miss Lillian C. Compton, college president, and Dr. Hazel G. Ramsay and Dr. Howard Briggs, club co-sponsors, were guests.

By BOB CONSIDINE

WASHINGTON—(INS)—Some of the mystification caused by the State Department's Voice of America has been diminished abroad by Radio Free Europe, a growing network of blunt propaganda transmitters made possible by the 16,000,000 Americans who contributed to last year's Crusade for Freedom campaign.

Radio Free Europe never gives them "Old Man River," or the latest figures on the number of television sets west of Missouri. A bollweevil scourge can eat the cotton frosting off the South, and Radio Free Europe, though sympathetic, will stick to its guns.

They are heavy guns in the greatest war of words in history.

Czechoslovakia, because of its deep democratic roots, is considered perfect game for Radio Free Europe. The country of Woodrow Wilson and the Masaryks is now being bombarded, eleven and a half hours each day, by a blizzard of words, flung out by a new station located in Holzkirchen, Germany, about 15 miles southeast of Munich.

The station is about three times as strong as the strongest U. S. commercial transmitter. Jamming it will be a tremendous and costly job for the Comunists, who already have invested millions of dlolars and tied up countless technicians in an effort to blot out the Voice of America broadcasts.

Gen. Lucius D. Clay, chairman of the Crusade for Freedom, insists that native Czechs and Slovaks, exiles and recent escapees from behind the iron curtain, write the programs for the new station.

"It will be Czechs talking to Czechs in terms each understands," Clay says. "They will expose Communist Quislings behind the iron curtain, undermine the authority of Moscow's puppet government, and, insofar as is possible, help the prisoner peoples prepare for their day of liberation.

The new station broadcasts news and commentary on a vast variety of topics, including religious services. It even carries a soap opera, written by a Czech woman now living in the U. S. It spots Communist propaganda in the captive press of Czechoslovakia and dissects the stories bit by bit.

A second Radio Free Europe station, near Frankfurt, handles Poland, Hungary, Rumania and Bulgaria. Like its Russian-controlled opposition, it fights bare-knuckled.

Reports filtering out of the slave countries indicate that Radio Free Europe is slugging home its messages. Those who do not own receivers, or are fearful of using them for such programs, learn of the broadcasts by whispered word-of-mouth or messages scrawled furtively on the walls of public places.

A stream of doughty letters, smuggled out at risk of life or limb, has moved steadily into Radio Free Europe offices in Western Germany. There is no question about the stations' getting under the skin of the Communists. The Communist radio in East Germany announced not long ago, in violent terms, that all German employes of Radio Free Europe would be executed as war criminals when the Communists "liberate" Western Germany.

The Voice of America is discreet; it tells mainly of the glories of American life. Radio Free Europe is a name-caller. It tells Rumanians about Ana Pauker's trip to Paris and how much money she blew in on Fath hats. It, for instance, puts the finger on "Comrade Absolonova," of Bratislava, describes her practice of seducing young men whom she then blackmails into collaborating with the secret police, and warns the Bratislavs to "be on your guard against this miserable creature."

It is a Big Bertha in the raging propaganda war.

P.S.—We could use some of its rugged pep-talk ourselves, in this country. Honest Jake Malik, self-styled man of peace, became president of the United Nations Security Council this week.

Matter Of Fact

desired in London. The British, for their part, firmly believed that the sly Americans were maneuvering to get the British out of Iran and then exploit the oil themselves—a plan much too hard-headed to be entertained by the State Department.

During all this period, therefore, no facts were faced, no frankness was used, between the Anglo-American partners, The real issues were never seriously discussed until a fortnight ago, when the danger of an immediate explosion in Teheran could no longer be ignored. Then the matter began to be handled by Secretary of State Dean G. Acheson in person. Then the British, who had taken the lack of American support as a pretext for not thinking about the horrid problem of sending troops, at last ordered the parachute brigade to the Middle East. And then the British and Americans at last agreed that a new government in Teheran might be a good thing after all.

We shall see soon enough whether the situation has not meanwhile got too far out of hand to be brought under control again. For the present, one can only say that the foregoing record makes Nero look pretty good. At least he really fiddled while Rome burned. Fiddling is a lot better than fiddle-faddling.

Merry-Go-Round

Committee, Jim Murray of Montana, is a great friend of the White House, and ordinarily would not level criticism at one of Truman's aides. In this case, however, Steelman is charged with being responsible for the off-again, on-again White House policy which confused the nation last year and helped precipitate the railroad strike.

This column has obtained a copy of the Senate report which Dr. Steelman wants suppressed, and it's easy to see why he doesn't like it. Here are some purple passages:

"Dr. Steelman allowed himself to become involved in the dispute in a manner which compromised his effectiveness and which threatens to embarrass the White House. It is an unwritten rule in the profession that mediators will not . . . become arbitrators in the same dispute. In the opinion of the Senate committee, he (Steelman) made himself a vulnerable target."

The above referred to the fact that Steelman wrote himself into the railroad agreement as arbiter in case of future misunderstandings between the railroads and the brotherhoods.

The senators also panned Steelman for having "grossly distorted and misrepresented" the railway unions.

The Senate committee also suggests that Steelman was untruthful when he advised the President that the brotherhoods had promised not to strike. "The committee finds," says the report, "that no such promise had been given."

All in all, for a man who likes to get along with folks, as Big John does, the report put him in rather a bad light with a large segment of society.

Martin Gives Lowdown On Charles, Maxim

BY WHITNEY MARTIN

NEW YORK, May 31 (AP)—Doc Kearns, dredging for an alibi for Joey Maxim's dismal showing against Ezzard Charles last night, comes up with the idea that Joey hadn't been fighting often enough.

He can get a lot of rebuttal there. The millions of televiewers, so enthralled with the proceedings that they ran to the icebox while the fight was on and returned for the between-round commercials, will insist he fights too often, if what he was doing last night can be classified as fighting.

The affair must have set television back five years, as the viewers will tell you the contraption is a confirmed liar. No fight could be as bad as the one they were watching.

Somehow we had acquired the idea we would see a new Maxim, a guy with a new style, a new punch and a new mental outlook toward the business at hand.

Customers Are Punished

Instead it was the old Maxim, with a few more fender dents. He was a clutching, grabbing spoiler with apparently no taste for his job and a determination to avoid punishment no matter how much he inflicted on the customers.

Charles can't be blamed for the travesty on the manly art of self defense. After all, you can't look good fighting a porous plaster, and the wonder of it is that Ezzard could inflict as much punishment as he did with Joey pasted to his chest and clamping into his arms until his fingers turned blue.

It was difficult to tell just how good Charles was under the circumstances, but he appeared sharp and vicious, and in excellent physical condition.

We would like to have seen him in there against a man who would have made a fight of it. A Harry Matthews or a Bob Murphy, for instance. Maybe he'd make Swiss steak out of Murphy's features. But at least Murphy would be in there swinging instead of waltzing.

Personally, we believe Matthews is the most logical opponent for Charles. Jack Hurley's fighter made a tremendous impression in his only appearance here, against Murphy, but Hurley crated up his tiger and shipped him straight back to the Pacific Northwest. He wasn't going to have his man fighting for peanuts, he asserted.

Likes Bob Matthews

Matthews can box and he can punch, and he's as stout as a young ox. We believe he'd have an excellent chance against Charles, who is just a light heavyweight dish, slightly garnished to bring him up to heavyweight stature.

Harvard Athletics Are Deep In Red

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 31 (AP)—Harvard expects to be about three times as deep in the red on athletics receipts for 1950-51 as it was for the year before.

The alumni bulletin estimated today that the current deficit will be $335,000 compared with $108,258 for the previous season.

The bulletin blames a drop in football ticket sales, together with increased costs.

Mays Batted .477 In Minors, Slumps To .0477 In Majors

NEW YORK, May 31. (AP)—Willie Mays, who came up a week ago to the New York Giants from Minneapolis where he was hitting at a .477 clip, can't figure how the decimal point got misplaced.

He's hitting .0477 for the Giants, with one safety in 21 times at bat.

"I must be in a slump," Mays said thoughtfully.

"They're throwing me the same pitches I was hitting in triple A, only I'm not hitting 'em here. Not too many curves, either. It can't be that because I'm getting all the fast balls I want."

The Fraternal Order of Eagles rolled on to their ninth consecutive victory in the Rocking Chair Softball League yesterday, defeating the Loyal Order of Moose, 7-4, at East Side Field.

Sammy DeLuca gave the Eagles a flying start in the opening frame when he hit a grand slam homer. He also collected a pair of singles. Doyle George garnered two doubles. Al Sheetz chalked up his 5th win in a row and struck out four. Harry Dean tripled with two aboard in the 4th for the Moose. Archie Carr accounted for two of the losers' seven hits.

Bill Underdonk limited the Amvets to two hits — singles by Gene Scaletta and George Geatz — and hurled the B. P. O. Elks to a 5-0 triumph. It was Underdonk's 8th victory against two setbacks. No player got more than one hit in this contest. Scaletta of the Amvets gave up five safeties. Walter "Pooch" Orndorff of the Elks belted a three-bagger.

Vernon Cubbage walloped a two-run homer as the Outdoor Club took the Knights of Columbus into camp at Fort Hill, 8-1. The winners solved Loibel for 12 safeties while Jim Morrison turned in a 4-hit performance for the victors. Scores:

Chicago Sox Go After 15th Win In Row

Dobson Will Pitch Against A's Tonight; Meet Boston Sunday

By RUSSELL LANE

CHICAGO, May 31 (AP) — The Chicago White Sox and their breathless fans took a well-earned rest today.

It was an open date for the wonder boys who barreled into the American League lead with 14 straight wins.

After his charges took the St. Louis Browns 5-2 and 6-1 in a Memorial Day double-header, Manager Paul Richards announced:

"There won't be any more work outs Thursday, and that goes for the players, coaches and manager alike. The boys have earned a little vacation."

Only Saul Rogovin, Richards' pitcher protege who has had a little trouble grooving some of his throws lately, turned up on the practice sward today to line a few tolles through the target frame.

Today, with Comiskey Stadium empty — and cheerless for a change —the Sox fans were resting their lungs and throats. Yesterday, some 35,000 spectators went hoarse during the twin bill, and some of them had to resort to fire crackers for noise-making. But things probably will be frantic in the stands again tomorrow night.

Dobson Seeks 5th Win

Then, the Sox will take on the Philadelphia Athletics, with Joe Dobson, 34-year-old righthander, pitching and a 15th win in the victory chain at stake.

Dobson will be gunning for his fifth win of the season without a loss when he lines his sights on the seventh-place Athletics.

The high-flying White Sockers have come to within five games of tying the American League record for consecutive games won.

Another White Sox team, in 1906, and the New Yankees of 1947 are co-holders of the 19-game straight win record. The major league record of 26 straight victories was set in 1926 by the New York Giants.

Figures covering the sensational Sox winning streak show that Nelson Fox, the little second baseman, is hot man in the lineup. He's been batting .441.

Fox has hit 26 times in 59 turns at bat during the skein for 44 total bases. He has scored 11 runs and batted in 13. It was Fox's first major league homer which started the win marathon when the Sox beat the Red Sox 9-7 at Boston May 15.

Since then, Fox has belted two more home runs plus three doubles and three triples.

Billy Pierce, 23-year-old lefthander has been the workhorse among the Sox pitchers during the victory string. The one time Detroit Tiger rookie completed three of five games for three of his six victories thus far.

Play Boston Sunday

After single games against Philadelphia in Chicago Friday night and Saturday afternoon, the White Sox will run into a tough test — five games in three days against Boston.

The Red Sox, who have won 10 straight games, visit Comiskey Park for a double-header Sunday afternoon, a twilight-night twin bill Monday, and an afternoon game Tuesday.

Charles and Walcott Will Continue Series

CHICAGO, May 31. (AP)—Ezzard Charles today agreed to box Jersey Joe Walcott in a 15-round world's heavyweight championship bout in Pittsburgh July 18.

It will be the third engagement between Charles and Jersay Joe and Walcott's fifth attempt to win the heavyweight championship.

Jake Mintz, manager of Charles, said contracts would be signed in Pittsburgh next week.

Zastrow Is Elected

ANNAPOLIS, Md., May 31 (AP) — Big Bob Zastrow, the 210-pounder who slashed Army's gridiron defenses last fall, has been elected captain of Navy's 1952 baseball team, the academy announced today.

Making no errors at his outfield station this spring, Zastrow of Algoma, Wis., registered a .393 batting average — second best on the team.

Leroy Gray Tops Brother For Title

Kenneth Loses Mibs Final At Humbird

Two brothers battled it out yesterday afternoon for the marbles championship of Humbird School.

Surviving the numerous preliminary games and the semi-finals were Leroy Gray, last year's Humbird champ, and his younger brother, Kenneth Gray. They had proved themselves the two best out of 57 boys who entered the school tournament.

For the first time in the history of Cumberland marbles tournaments brothers faced each other in the crucial school finals, and Leroy Gray repeated his triumph of last year, defeating his brother two games in a row.

Today's tournament is at Virginia Avenue.

Two 1950 champions qualified for the Cumberland finals earlier in the week.

Hugh Scott repeated in SS. Peter and Paul tournament on Monday, defeating John Wilson in the finals, while John Cross won at Mount Royal by edging Bobby Levin.

Yankees Score In Little Loop

Defeat Pirates, 15-9, B'nai B'rith Winner

The Yankees pulled out of last place in the Dapper Division of the Little League by defeating the Pirates last night at Penn Avenue Field by the score of 15-9.

Fletcher was the "big gun" for the winners with a triple, double and two singles, accounting for half of the Yankees eight hits. Grabenstein and Lewis had two hits each for the Pirates.

The Jaycees suffered their third straight defeat in the Hot Stove League when they went down before B'nai B'rith to the tune of 4-3.

Joe Conroy, B'nai B'rith pitcher, stuck out 10 batsmen. Weise and Lewis, Jaycees' twirlers, fanned 11.

Joe Conroy with a single and double and Dorcil Kline with a single and triple paced the victors at the plate. Hutchinson had a two-bagger and one base knock and Weise larruped a triple for the losers.

Hercules Powder trounced Kelly Retail Store in an industrial Softball League game, 14-1. Toler and Baker of Hercules hit homers.

Today's games at Penn Avenue Field are: Red Sox vs. Phillies (Little League) 6:15; Kiwanis vs. Rotary (Hot Stove League) 7:45.

The C. & P. Telephone-Kelly game set for 9:15 has been postponed by mutual agreement. Last night's results:

Corriganville notched its sixth consecutive victory yesterday at the expense of the Potomac Valley Cubs, 12-5, and retained its two-game lead in the County Softball League.

Glenn Kauffman posted his ninth win against a single loss. The winners marked up a dozen safeties, including "Nip" Rice's double and two singles, John Price's triple and two baggers, and two hits each by "Red" Whitman and Lloyd Kline. "Nip" Rice and Lloyd Kline featured afield, going to the trees to turn in catches of fly balls. Bill Thompson rapped a double and single for the Cubs.

LaVale unloosed a barrage of 14 hits to crush Stringtown by the score of 12-3.

Keyser led the winners' attack with a pair of doubles. The win was Junior Brelsford's 6th against three losses. Gerald Stair and Joe Nield banged two-baggers for Stringtown.

Herb Devore tossed a four-hitter to give Ellerslie a 5-3 decision over Wellersburg on the latter's field. R. Raygor accounted for two of Ellerslie's eight safeties. The scores:

1,401 Golfers To Qualify For Berths In Open

To Fill 126 Places, 36 Players Exempt

NEW YORK, May 31 (AP) — Many will try but few will be chosen in Monday's qualifying rounds for the National Open Golf Championship. The open will be held at the Oakland Hills Country Club, Birmingham, Mich., June 14-16.

Only about one contender out of 12 will be tapped for the big tournament as 1,401 professionals and amateurs—largest field in the 51-year history of the open—strive for the 126 places available. The total entries top the previous record by 106.

The 36-hole qualifying tests will be held over 29 courses scattered throughout the nation. Detroit has the largest entry, with 170 players competing for 15 places. The huge field comprises 886 profsesionals and 631 amateurs.

36 Players Exempt

In all, 162 stars will tee off in the 72-hole championship at Birmingham, but 36 of them are exempt from qualifying. These include all former open champions, the 1950 U. S. and British amateur champinos, the 1950 British Open champions, the present American P. G. A. king, and the 20 low scores and ties in last year's open.

Dick Chapman, who won the British Amateur last week at Porthcawl, Wales, is not automatically eligible, but Frank Stranahan, who won the same event last year, passes muster. The last amateur to win the open was Johnny Goodman in 1933.

Ben Hogan heads the list of 11 former open champions who can pass up Monday's tests. The others are Lloyd Mangrum, Cary Middlecoff, Gene Sarazen, Craig Wood, Lew Worsham, Lawson Little, Tony Manero, Sam Parks, Tommy Armour and Billy Burke.

Qualified Last Year

Such aces as Sammy Snead, Jimmy Demaret, Jim Ferrier, Johnny Palmer, Skee Riegel, E. J. (Dutch) Harrison, Joe Kirkwood, Jr., and Henry Ransom did their qualifying in last year's open.

The list of qualifying points, and the number of places open in each, includes:

Washington, D. C. 4; Greensboro, N. C., 7; Cincinnati 5; Cleveland 8; Philadelphia 5; Pittsburgh 6, and Memphis 4.

Martin Gives Lowdown On Charles, Maxim

BY WHITNEY MARTIN

NEW YORK, May 31 (AP)—Doc Kearns, dredging for an alibi for Joey Maxim's dismal showing against Ezzard Charles last night, comes up with the idea that Joey hadn't been fighting often enough.

He can get a lot of rebuttal there. The millions of televiewers, so enthralled with the proceedings that they ran to the icebox while the fight was on and returned for the between-round commercials, will insist he fights too often, if what he was doing last night can be classified as fighting.

The affair must have set television back five years, as the viewers will tell you the contraption is a confirmed liar. No fight could be as bad as the one they were watching.

Somehow we had acquired the idea we would see a new Maxim, a guy with a new style, a new punch and a new mental outlook toward the business at hand.

Customers Are Punished

Instead it was the old Maxim, with a few more fender dents. He was a clutching, grabbing spoiler with apparently no taste for his job and a determination to avoid punishment no matter how much he inflicted on the customers.

Charles can't be blamed for the travesty on the manly art of self defense. After all, you can't look good fighting a porous plaster, and the wonder of it is that Ezzard could inflict as much punishment as he did with Joey pasted to his chest and clamping into his arms until his fingers turned blue.

It was difficult to tell just how good Charles was under the circumstances, but he appeared sharp and vicious, and in excellent physical condition.

We would like to have seen him in there against a man who would have made a fight of it. A Harry Matthews or a Bob Murphy, for instance. Maybe he'd make Swiss steak out of Murphy's features. But at least Murphy would be in there swinging instead of waltzing.

Personally, we believe Matthews is the most logical opponent for Charles. Jack Hurley's fighter made a tremendous impression in his only appearance here, against Murphy, but Hurley crated up his tiger and shipped him straight back to the Pacific Northwest. He wasn't going to have his man fighting for peanuts, he asserted.

Likes Bob Matthews

Matthews can box and he can punch, and he's as stout as a young ox. We believe he'd have an excellent chance against Charles, who is just a light heavyweight dish, slightly garnished to bring him up to heavyweight stature.

Harvard Athletics Are Deep In Red

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 31 (AP)—Harvard expects to be about three times as deep in the red on athletics receipts for 1950-51 as it was for the year before.

The alumni bulletin estimated today that the current deficit will be $335,000 compared with $108,258 for the previous season.

The bulletin blames a drop in football ticket sales, together with increased costs.

Mays Batted .477 In Minors, Slumps To .0477 In Majors

NEW YORK, May 31. (AP)—Willie Mays, who came up a week ago to the New York Giants from Minneapolis where he was hitting at a .477 clip, can't figure how the decimal point got misplaced.

He's hitting .0477 for the Giants, with one safety in 21 times at bat.

"I must be in a slump," Mays said thoughtfully.

"They're throwing me the same pitches I was hitting in triple A, only I'm not hitting 'em here. Not too many curves, either. It can't be that because I'm getting all the fast balls I want."

Chicago Sox Go After 15th Win In Row

Dobson Will Pitch Against A's Tonight; Meet Boston Sunday

By RUSSELL LANE

CHICAGO, May 31 (AP) — The Chicago White Sox and their breathless fans took a well-earned rest today.

It was an open date for the wonder boys who barreled into the American League lead with 14 straight wins.

After his charges took the St. Louis Browns 5-2 and 6-1 in a Memorial Day double-header, Manager Paul Richards announced:

"There won't be any more work outs Thursday, and that goes for the players, coaches and manager alike. The boys have earned a little vacation."

Only Saul Rogovin, Richards' pitcher protege who has had a little trouble grooving some of his throws lately, turned up on the practice sward today to line a few tolles through the target frame.

Today, with Comiskey Stadium empty — and cheerless for a change —the Sox fans were resting their lungs and throats. Yesterday, some 35,000 spectators went hoarse during the twin bill, and some of them had to resort to fire crackers for noise-making. But things probably will be frantic in the stands again tomorrow night.

Dobson Seeks 5th Win

Then, the Sox will take on the Philadelphia Athletics, with Joe Dobson, 34-year-old righthander, pitching and a 15th win in the victory chain at stake.

Dobson will be gunning for his fifth win of the season without a loss when he lines his sights on the seventh-place Athletics.

The high-flying White Sockers have come to within five games of tying the American League record for consecutive games won.

Another White Sox team, in 1906, and the New Yankees of 1947 are co-holders of the 19-game straight win record. The major league record of 26 straight victories was set in 1926 by the New York Giants.

Figures covering the sensational Sox winning streak show that Nelson Fox, the little second baseman, is hot man in the lineup. He's been batting .441.

Fox has hit 26 times in 59 turns at bat during the skein for 44 total bases. He has scored 11 runs and batted in 13. It was Fox's first major league homer which started the win marathon when the Sox beat the Red Sox 9-7 at Boston May 15.

Since then, Fox has belted two more home runs plus three doubles and three triples.

Billy Pierce, 23-year-old lefthander has been the workhorse among the Sox pitchers during the victory string. The one time Detroit Tiger rookie completed three of five games for three of his six victories thus far.

Play Boston Sunday

After single games against Philadelphia in Chicago Friday night and Saturday afternoon, the White Sox will run into a tough test — five games in three days against Boston.

The Red Sox, who have won 10 straight games, visit Comiskey Park for a double-header Sunday afternoon, a twilight-night twin bill Monday, and an afternoon game Tuesday.

Charles and Walcott Will Continue Series

CHICAGO, May 31. (AP)—Ezzard Charles today agreed to box Jersey Joe Walcott in a 15-round world's heavyweight championship bout in Pittsburgh July 18.

It will be the third engagement between Charles and Jersay Joe and Walcott's fifth attempt to win the heavyweight championship.

Jake Mintz, manager of Charles, said contracts would be signed in Pittsburgh next week.

Zastrow Is Elected

ANNAPOLIS, Md., May 31 (AP) — Big Bob Zastrow, the 210-pounder who slashed Army's gridiron defenses last fall, has been elected captain of Navy's 1952 baseball team, the academy announced today.

Making no errors at his outfield station this spring, Zastrow of Algoma, Wis., registered a .393 batting average — second best on the team.

Legion To Practice

Players under 17 years of age, desiring a tryout with the junior baseball team of Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion, are requested to report for practice Saturday at 1:30 p.m. at Community Park. "Bud" Edenhart is manager of the local team.

Leroy Gray Tops Brother For Title

Kenneth Loses Mibs Final At Humbird

Two brothers battled it out yesterday afternoon for the marbles championship of Humbird School.

Surviving the numerous preliminary games and the semi-finals were Leroy Gray, last year's Humbird champ, and his younger brother, Kenneth Gray. They had proved themselves the two best out of 57 boys who entered the school tournament.

For the first time in the history of Cumberland marbles tournaments brothers faced each other in the crucial school finals, and Leroy Gray repeated his triumph of last year, defeating his brother two games in a row.

Today's tournament is at Virginia Avenue.

Two 1950 champions qualified for the Cumberland finals earlier in the week.

Hugh Scott repeated in SS. Peter and Paul tournament on Monday, defeating John Wilson in the finals, while John Cross won at Mount Royal by edging Bobby Levin.

Yankees Score In Little Loop

Defeat Pirates, 15-9, B'nai B'rith Winner

The Yankees pulled out of last place in the Dapper Division of the Little League by defeating the Pirates last night at Penn Avenue Field by the score of 15-9.

Fletcher was the "big gun" for the winners with a triple, double and two singles, accounting for half of the Yankees eight hits. Grabenstein and Lewis had two hits each for the Pirates.

The Jaycees suffered their third straight defeat in the Hot Stove League when they went down before B'nai B'rith to the tune of 4-3.

Joe Conroy, B'nai B'rith pitcher, struck out 10 batsmen. Weise and Lewis, Jaycees' twirlers, fanned 11.

Joe Conroy with a single and double and Dorcil Kline with a single and triple paced the victors at the plate. Hutchinson had a two-bagger and one base knock and Weise larruped a triple for the losers.

Hercules Powder trounced Kelly Retail Store in an industrial Softball League game, 14-1. Toler and Baker of Hercules hit homers.

Today's games at Penn Avenue Field are: Red Sox vs. Phillies (Little League) 6:15; Kiwanis vs. Rotary (Hot Stove League) 7:45.

The C. & P. Telephone-Kelly game set for 9:15 has been postponed by mutual agreement. Last night's results:

1,401 Golfers To Qualify For Berths In Open

To Fill 126 Places, 36 Players Exempt

NEW YORK, May 31 (AP) — Many will try but few will be chosen in Monday's qualifying rounds for the National Open Golf Championship. The open will be held at the Oakland Hills Country Club, Birmingham, Mich., June 14-16.

Only about one contender out of 12 will be tapped for the big tournament as 1,401 professionals and amateurs—largest field in the 51-year history of the open—strive for the 126 places available. The total entries top the previous record by 106.

The 36-hole qualifying tests will be held over 29 courses scattered throughout the nation. Detroit has the largest entry, with 170 players competing for 15 places. The huge field comprises 886 profsesionals and 631 amateurs.

36 Players Exempt

In all, 162 stars will tee off in the 72-hole championship at Birmingham, but 36 of them are exempt from qualifying. These include all former open champions, the 1950 U. S. and British amateur champinos, the 1950 British Open champions, the present American P. G. A. king, and the 20 low scores and ties in last year's open.

Dick Chapman, who won the British Amateur last week at Porthcawl, Wales, is not automatically eligible, but Frank Stranahan, who won the same event last year, passes muster. The last amateur to win the open was Johnny Goodman in 1933.

Ben Hogan heads the list of 11 former open champions who can pass up Monday's tests. The others are Lloyd Mangrum, Cary Middlecoff, Gene Sarazen, Craig Wood, Lew Worsham, Lawson Little, Tony Manero, Sam Parks, Tommy Armour and Billy Burke.

Qualified Last Year

Such aces as Sammy Snead, Jimmy Demaret, Jim Ferrier, Johnny Palmer, Skee Riegel, E. J. (Dutch) Harrison, Joe Kirkwood, Jr., and Henry Ransom did their qualifying in last year's open.

The list of qualifying points, and the number of places open in each, includes:

Washington, D. C. 4; Greensboro, N. C., 7; Cincinnati 5; Cleveland 8; Philadelphia 5; Pittsburgh 6, and Memphis 4.

Army Elects Shea

Welch, Nelson And Purinton Annex Awards

Stanley Hanna, Keyser, Also Scores In Horse Show Staged By Lions

Horsemen of Cumberland and vicinity won top ribbons and cash prizes in the Somerset (Pa.) Horse Show held on Memorial Day.

K. O. Nelson, of Barton's Dairy, Pinto, entered two classes with his Tennessee walking horse which he purchased recently and although it was the horse's first appearance in the show ring "Wilson's Romeo" walked off with second and fourth prizes.

Stanley Hanna and daughter of Keyser won several first place blue ribbons and a red ribbon for second place in several pony classes. They entered two ponies in the show.

Competition was keen in most classes. There were 23 entries in one pleasure class.

Beall Can Clinch Title In Baseball Conference Today

Beall High School can retain the Bi-State Conference baseball championship with a single victory and the Mountaineers hope to be able to sew it up when they battle LaSalle today at 4 o'clock in the Mountain City.

The Frostburg nine has won 11 consecutive games and has only three more games on its schedule.

Bruce High, Westernport, runner-up, with an 8-3 record, plays host to Hyndman High School today.

Lions Club Stops Times-News, 5-2

Manager Jim Stevenson's Lions Club tossers handed the Times-News its first defeat of the season in the Hot Stove League on Tuesday night at Penn Avenue Field. The score was 5-2.

The victory was the third straight for the undefeated Lions.

Bittner, Times-News starting pitcher, issued nine walks in 2⅔ innings and was yanked in the third when the Lions scored five unearned runs on two errors. Grimes blanked the Lions in the last three stanzas.

Dawson went the route for the Lions and yielded three hits. The score:

LIONS	005 000—5	2	1
TIMES-NEWS	000 002—2	3	2

Dawson and Landis. Bittner, Grimes (3) and Diggs.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

"The Authority on Authorities"

4-4 MAJOR SUIT BEST

WHEN there is a choice between two apparently sound contracts, if one of them consists of a four-card major suit opposite four-card support, that will nearly always prove to be the best choice of declaration. This is especially true if one of your side's hands—your own or your partner's—contains a void suit or a singleton. This is not so much because such shortage in a suit is a liability at No Trumps. The more important factor is that such shortage is an asset at suit play, making possible some ruffing tricks which could not be gained in a No Trump effort.

North had what he considered a perfectly logical reason for passing the game bid in No Trumps, and he offered it after the play. South, he explained, must have spades well bottled up for his first bid. The hearts were clearly in shape. North himself had the clubs beautifully fixed. South, obviously having to expect a lead of the unbid diamonds, must surely be ready for that suit, with a couple of stoppers.

That sounded all right as far as it went, but it didn't go far enough. Even with all of those assumptions correct, North still should have gone to 4-Hearts over the No Trump game call, since his shortage in spades provided a splendid asset which could not exist in a No Trump contract. At hearts, no tricks could be lost except to the aces of hearts and clubs. In No Trumps South was out of luck.

The diamond 9 lead, on which East put the 7, was won by the Q. South knocked out the club A, won the returned diamond with the A and scored the club Q and J. This left East with the established 10. Hopelessly now South led a heart to the A, whereupon West returned his final diamond for East to take three tricks there, plus the club 10, to beat the contract two tricks

If the defenders had both bid spades, what is their correct action against South's 4-Hearts?

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

4-4 MAJOR SUIT BEST

WHEN there is a choice between two apparently sound contracts, if one of them consists of a four-card major suit opposite four-card support, that will nearly always prove to be the best choice of declaration. This is especially true if one of your side's hands—your own or your partner's—contains a void suit or a singleton. This is not so much because such shortage in a suit is a liability at No Trumps. The more important factor is that such shortage is an asset at suit play, making possible some ruffing tricks which could not be gained in a No Trump effort.

	♠ 9 ♥ J 6 4 2 ♦ J 8 4 ♣ K Q J 8 2
♠ Q J 7 5 2 ♥ A 9 3 ♦ 9 5 2 ♣ 9 7	N W E S	♠ 10 3 ♥ 10 8 ♦ K 10 7 6 3 ♣ A 10 5 3
	♠ A K 8 6 4 ♥ K Q 7 5 ♦ A Q ♣ 6 4

(Dealer: East. East-West vulnerable.)

East	South	West	North
Pass	1 ♠	Pass	2 ♣
Pass	2 ♥	Pass	3 ♥
Pass	3 NT

North had what he considered a perfectly logical reason for passing the game bid in No Trumps, and he offered it after the play. South, he explained, must have spades well bottled up for his first bid. The hearts were clearly in shape. North himself had the clubs beautifully fixed. South, obviously having to expect a lead of the unbid diamonds, must surely be ready for that suit, with a couple of stoppers.

That sounded all right as far as it went, but it didn't go far enough. Even with all of those assumptions correct, North still should have gone to 4-Hearts over the No Trump game call, since his shortage in spades provided a splendid asset which could not exist in a No Trump contract. At hearts, no tricks could be lost except to the aces of hearts and clubs. In No Trumps South was out of luck.

The diamond 9 lead, on which East put the 7, was won by the Q. South knocked out the club A, won the returned diamond with the A and scored the club Q and J. This left East with the established 10. Hopelessly now South led a heart to the A, whereupon West returned his final diamond for East to take three tricks there, plus the club 10, to beat the contract two tricks.

If the defenders had both bid spades, what is their correct action against South's 4-Hearts?

Lions Club Stops Times-News, 5-2

Manager Jim Stevenson's Lions Club tossers handed the Times-News its first defeat of the season in the Hot Stove League on Tuesday night at Penn Avenue Field. The score was 5-2.

The victory was the third straight for the undefeated Lions.

Bittner, Times-News starting pitcher, issued nine walks in 2⅔ innings and was yanked in the third when the Lions scored five unearned runs on two errors. Grimes blanked the Lions in the last three stanzas.

Dawson went the route for the Lions and yielded three hits. The score:

LIONS	005 000—5	2	1

Dawson and Landis. Bittner, Grimes (3) and Diggs.

Knowles To Play For French Title

U. S. Walker Cupper Opposes La Maze

CHANTILLY, France, May 31. (AP) — Bobby Knowles of Brookline, Mass., a member of the American Walker Cup squad, battled his way into the finals of the French Amateur Golf Championship today against the defending champion, Henri De La Maze of France.

The last survivor of 11 American players who challenged for the title on Monday, Knowles shot his way crisply and confidently to victory over two Frenchmen to qualify for tomorrow's 36-hole play-off against La Maze, who has won the title four times.

In his morning round Knowles knocked out Michel Charlhian, 1 up, and in the afternoon he disposed of Albert Prunet, 3 and 2.

La Maze, a tremendous man from the tees, breezed to an easy 5 and 4 victory over his countryman, Jacques Bechmann, and then eliminated Hobart Manley Jr. of Savannah, Ga., 2 and 1.

Manley, winner of this year's North and South amateur title, had entered the semi-final by upsetting Big Bill Campbell of Huntington, W. Va., a Walker Cup player, on the 19th hole.

PACES CONFERENCE HITTERS—Clay Leydig, Hyndman High School third sacker, is the pacesetter in the Bi-State Conference batting race this season with an average of .520. In 50 trips to the plate in 12 games, Leydig has hit safely 26 times. He has more hits than any player in the high school circuit. Only two more games remain on Hyndman's schedule.

Shirley Fry Beats Margaret duPont

PARIS, May 31 (INS) — Mrs. Margaret Osborne duPont, the top women's amateur tennis player in the world, was a victim of a stunning upset today as two other American stars gained the final round of the French championships.

Shirley Fry of Akron, O., defeated the top-ranking player from Wilmington, Del., 6-2, 9-7, to gain the finals with Doris Hart, Jacksonville, Fla.

Miss Hart, the defending champion, beat Britain's Mrs. Jean Walker Smith, 6-2, 6-1, in the other semi-final contest.

MacArthur To Serve As Honorary Referee

NEW YORK, May 31 (AP)—General Douglas MacArthur has accepted an invitation to serve as honorary referee of the Japanese-American Davis Cup matches to be played at the Louisville, Ky. Boat Club July 20-22.

The first round series of American Zone play will mark Japan's first appearance in Davis Cup competition since the war. It will be the first Davis Cup meeting between the two nations since the U. S. defeated Japan at San Francisco in 1937.

Braves Will Drill

The Braves of the Little League will practice Saturday and Sunday at 2 p. m. at Taylor Field. All players on the Braves' roster who have failed to report to date are asked to contact the management at one of these practice sessions.

The goat-sucker, or nightjar, is a bird around which a number of old legends have been woven. The ancients believed it sucked goats at night, that the goats immediately "dried up" and lost their sight.

Wallard Wins Race, Will Split $63,612

INDIANAPOLIS, May 31 (AP)—Lee Wallard, winner of the 1951 Indianapolis speedway 500-mile auto race yesterday, received a record cash purse of $63,612.12 tonight.

The total cash prizes to the 33 drivers and car owners also set a new record. This year's total was $207,650, compared with last year's previous high of $201,135.

The winner's purse was $6,153.49 more than Johnnie Parsons received for winning the rain-shortened 1950 event. Wallard and Murrel Belanger of Crown Point, Ind., owner of the winning car, will split it according to their own arrangement.

Knowles To Play For French Title

U. S. Walker Cupper Opposes La Maze

CHANTILLY, France, May 31. (AP) — Bobby Knowles of Brookline, Mass., a member of the American Walker Cup squad, battled his way into the finals of the French Amateur Golf Championship today against the defending champion, Henri De La Maze of France.

The last survivor of 11 American players who challenged for the title on Monday, Knowles shot his way crisply and confidently to victory over two Frenchmen to qualify for tomorrow's 36-hole play-off against La Maze, who has won the title four times.

In his morning round Knowles knocked out Michel Charlhian, 1 up, and in the afternoon he disposed of Albert Prunet, 3 and 2.

La Maze, a tremendous man from the tees, breezed to an easy 5 and 4 victory over his countryman, Jacques Bechmann, and then eliminated Hobart Manley Jr. of Savannah, Ga., 2 and 1.

Manley, winner of this year's North and South amateur title, had entered the semi-final by upsetting Big Bill Campbell of Huntington, W. Va., a Walker Cup player, on the 19th hole.

Shirley Fry Beats Margaret duPont

PARIS, May 31 (INS) — Mrs. Margaret Osborne duPont, the top women's amateur tennis player in the world, was a victim of a stunning upset today as two other American stars gained the final round of the French championships.

Shirley Fry of Akron, O., defeated the top-ranking player from Wilmington, Del., 6-2, 9-7, to gain the finals with Doris Hart, Jacksonville, Fla.

MacArthur To Serve As Honorary Referee

NEW YORK, May 31 (AP)—General Douglas MacArthur has accepted an invitation to serve as honorary referee of the Japanese-American Davis Cup matches to be played at the Louisville, Ky. Boat Club July 20-22.

The first round series of American Zone play will mark Japan's first appearance in Davis Cup competition since the war. It will be the first Davis Cup meeting between the two nations since the U. S. defeated Japan at San Francisco in 1937.

Braves Will Drill

The Braves of the Little League will practice Saturday and Sunday at 2 p. m. at Taylor Field. All players on the Braves' roster who have failed to report to date are asked to contact the management at one of these practice sessions.

The goat-sucker, or nightjar, is a bird around which a number of old legends have been woven. The ancients believed it sucked goats at night, that the goats immediately "dried up" and lost their sight.

Wallard Wins Race, Will Split $63,612

INDIANAPOLIS, May 31 (AP)—Lee Wallard, winner of the 1951 Indianapolis speedway 500-mile auto race yesterday, received a record cash purse of $63,612.12 tonight.

The total cash prizes to the 33 drivers and car owners also set a new record. This year's total was $207,650, compared with last year's previous high of $201,135.

The winner's purse was $6,153.49 more than Johnnie Parsons received for winning the rain-shortened 1950 event. Wallard and Murrel Belanger of Crown Point, Ind., owner of the winning car, will split it according to their own arrangement.

Mirror Of Your Mind

By LAWRENCE GOULD, Consulting Psychologist

Answer: As a rule, no. My New England mother used to call a certain kind of person a wheelbarrow because he "goes only as far as he is pushed," and it is that kind of worker that close and continual supervision is most apt to produce. For one thing, a healthy-minded person tends to resent the ideas of taking orders and is irritated by being too frequently checked up on. Again, constant supervision tends to strengthen fear of making mistakes, and this increases rather than prevents them. The best worker is one who feels he is responsible for his job and will get credit for it if it is well done.

Answer: On the whole, no, report psychologists Addison W. Somerville and F. C. Sumner of Howard University, Washington, D. C. Twenty-five representatives of each of six professions who were listed in "Who's Who" were asked to say whether their choice of an occupation had been made in childhood. Of those who replied, 61 said yes and 81 no. Only in the case of ministers and doctors had more than half chosen their profession as far back as when they were in high school. The teen-ager who "has not made up his mind what he will be when he gets out of school" is not necessarily foredoomed to failure.

Answer: Yes, writes Dr. A. Spurgeon English, noted Philadelphia psychiatrist, in Marriage and Family Living. In some ways, no one else realizes the importance of sound family life as well as the psychiatrist does, because he knows that the roots of neurosis, insanity and psychosomatic illness are invariably to be found in the environment in which the sufferer grew up. He should therefore be glad to cooperate in any way he can to make the home what it should be; "the sourceplace of love" and "the great shock absorber of emotional immaturities."

Mirror Of Your Mind

By LAWRENCE GOULD, Consulting Psychologist

Does close supervision make good workers?

Answer: As a rule, no. My New England mother used to call a certain kind of person a wheelbarrow because he "goes only as far as he is pushed," and it is that kind of worker that close and continual supervision is most apt to produce. For one thing, a healthy-minded person tends to resent the ideas of taking orders and is irritated by being too frequently checked up on. Again, constant supervision tends to strengthen fear of making mistakes, and this increases rather than prevents them. The best worker is one who feels he is responsible for his job and will get credit for it if it is well done.

Do successful men choose their professions early?

Answer: On the whole, no, report psychologists Addison W. Somerville and F. C. Sumner of Howard University, Washington, D. C. Twenty-five representatives of each of six professions who were listed in "Who's Who" were asked to say whether their choice of an occupation had been made in childhood. Of those who replied, 61 said yes and 81 no. Only in the case of ministers and doctors had more than half chosen their profession as far back as when they were in high school. The teen-ager who "has not made up his mind what he will be when he gets out of school" is not necessarily foredoomed to failure.

Should psychiatrists be "marriage counselors?"

Answer: Yes, writes Dr. A. Spurgeon English, noted Philadelphia psychiatrist, in Marriage and Family Living. In some ways, no one else realizes the importance of sound family life as well as the psychiatrist does, because he knows that the roots of neurosis, insanity and psychosomatic illness are invariably to be found in the environment in which the sufferer grew up. He should therefore be glad to cooperate in any way he can to make the home what it should be; "the sourceplace of love" and "the great shock absorber of emotional immaturities."

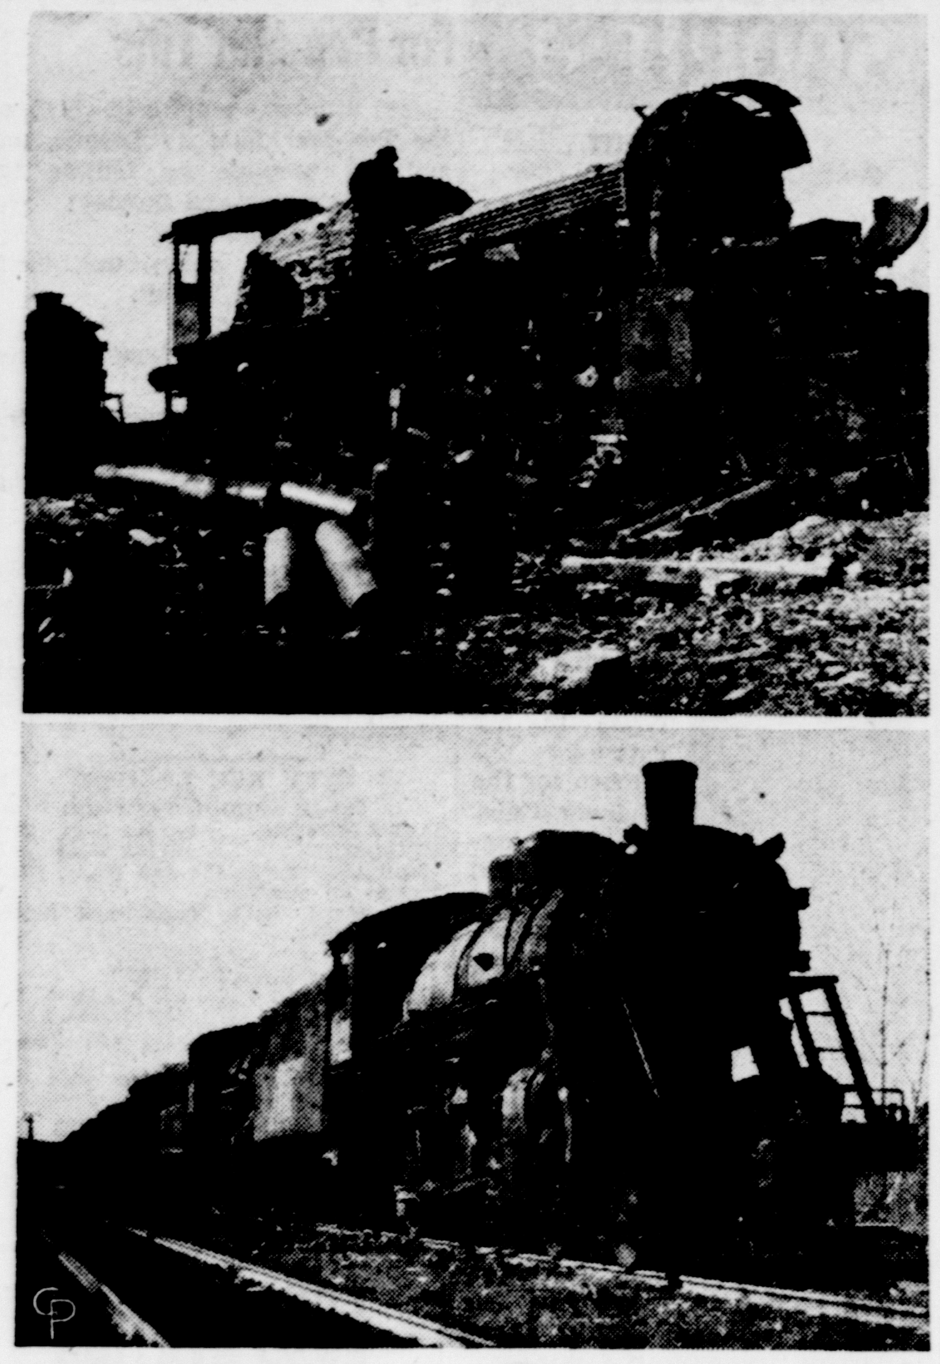
OLD IRON HORSES NEVER DIE



THIRTEEN PASSENGER and freight locomotives, retired from railroad service, will provide 2,000 tons of urgently-needed scrap for steel production. Workers are shown (top) busily engaged in the 18-week job of dismantling the locomotives at the Worcester, Mass., plant of American Steel & Wire Co. Below the locomotives are shown as they arrived at the plant. (International)

Grantsville Personals

Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Chaney, Washington, D. C., Charles Bevans, Arlington, Va. and James C. Bevehy were Sunday dinner guests of their uncle, Hayward Broadwater and family while in Grantsville, last weekend.

James C. Bevehy returned to Washington to visit his mother, Eva B. Bevehy who is recovering from a fall while at the home of his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Taylor on Columbia Pike. He expects to return to Grantsville with his mother soon.

Radio And Television

By JOHN CROSBY

Home Again

In most European countries—on our side of the Iron Curtain, at least—the customs, a highly developed form of international confusion, are reasonably perfunctory. Fifteen minutes in London. About ten in Paris. Possibly seventeen in Rome. Then you arrive back in New York and the situation changes radically. The Europeans of tourist lands welcome travelers with money in their pockets. The United States Immigration Service is hostile to the idea of letting anyone into this country whether he lives here or not.

John Crosby

The way I understand it, an immigration official gets 10 points if he can delay a traveler an hour, 20 points if he can hold him up two hours and 100 points or jackpot if he can deflect you to Ellis Island. My man did his best. He scowled at my passport for a minute or so, turned all the leaves, then said:

"What were you doing in Belgium?"

"Well," I said. Then I stopped. I did a lot of things in Belgium, not all of which I'd like spread around even in Immigration officials. "I played roulette," I told him. I added hastily: "I know Senator Kefauver wouldn't approve but it's quite all right over there, you know. It's legal."

"What else did you do in Belgium? Why exactly were you in Belgium? Where were you in Belgium?"

I explained that I was in a little seaside resort called Knokke, a sort of Flemish Fire Island, that a good deal of my activities were shrouded in a sort of haze that envelops me from time to time and that my demeanor, while not entirely above reproach, was hardly subversive.

"You weren't in Czechoslovakia? Poland?"

"You're sure?"

I said I was absolutely positive. There was an occasion when, to my very great surprise, I woke up in Providence, R. I. But I have never wakened up in Czechoslovakia or Poland and I hope to God I never do. My man appeared unconvinced. He ruffled through the passport—there are pathetically few stamps in it—and then gave up. I was released into the protective custody of the Customs people.

• — • — •

The Customs officials have all your luggage neatly arranged alphabetically. I found my bags under Q, removed them to the C counter and waited. An hour passed. Customs officials passed. No one tarried except the passengers—the Cs, the Bs, and one lone Q whom I suspected of being a misplaced C. Finally a man appeared before the woman next to me—a B girl—and gave her a bad time over a watch she had procured in Switzerland. I had better luck. The Customs man took one look at the dirty shirts, decided not to soil his hands on such alien filth and shot me through.

Well, I suppose it's a good system. We can't go letting American citizens back into the country indiscriminately. They might come back harboring germs or conceivably even opinions. But don't look at me. I tossed all my opinions overboard at the three mile limit. They sank like stones.

In a bar that night, I had my first look at American television in a month. Bert Parks in "Stop The Music." A long-legged girl was tap-dancing. This gave me excellent opportunity to compare European culture with our own. In Paris the showgirls are in general draped handsomely from the waist down to the toes, undraped from the waist up. Here we drape them topside, undrape them extensively from there down. On the whole I think our own is the better system, that it puts the emphasis on the proper end of a female.

• — • — •

Bert Parks, I'm happy to report, is still draped all over except for his teeth, which appear to be in wonderful condition except for a slight discoloration on the ulterior bicuspid. Anyhow, it's nice to be home and this column will resume its more normal operation—that of estimating the quality of television and radio programs—immediately.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Radio And Television

By JOHN CROSBY

Home Again

John Crosby

In most European countries—on our side of the Iron Curtain, at least—the customs, a highly developed form of international confusion, are reasonably perfunctory. Fifteen minutes in London. About ten in Paris. Possibly seventeen in Rome. Then you arrive back in New York and the situation changes radically. The Europeans of tourist lands welcome travelers with money in their pockets. The United States Immigration Service is hostile to the idea of letting anyone into this country whether he lives here or not.

• — • — •

The way I understand it, an immigration official gets 10 points if he can delay a traveler an hour, 20 points if he can hold him up two hours and 100 points or jackpot if he can deflect you to Ellis Island. My man did his best. He scowled at my passport for a minute or so, turned all the leaves, then said:

"What were you doing in Belgium?"

"Well," I said. Then I stopped. I did a lot of things in Belgium, not all of which I'd like spread around even in Immigration officials. "I played roulette," I told him. I added hastily: "I know Senator Kefauver wouldn't approve but it's quite all right over there, you know. It's legal."

"What else did you do in Belgium? Why exactly were you in Belgium? Where were you in Belgium?"

I explained that I was in a little seaside resort called Knokke, a sort of Flemish Fire Island, that a good deal of my activities were shrouded in a sort of haze that envelops me from time to time and that my demeanor, while not entirely above reproach, was hardly subversive.

"You weren't in Czechoslovakia? Poland?"

"Why would anyone want to be in Czechoslovakia? Who in his right mind would want to go to Poland?"

"You're sure?"

I said I was absolutely positive. There was an occasion when, to my very great surprise, I woke up in Providence, R. I. But I have never wakened up in Czechoslovakia or Poland and I hope to God I never do. My man appeared unconvinced. He ruffled through the passport—there are pathetically few stamps in it—and then gave up. I was released into the protective custody of the Customs people.

• — • — •

The Customs officials have all your luggage neatly arranged alphabetically. I found my bags under Q, removed them to the C counter and waited. An hour passed. Customs officials passed. No one tarried except the passengers—the Cs, the Bs, and one lone Q whom I suspected of being a misplaced C. Finally a man appeared before the woman next to me—a B girl—and gave her a bad time over a watch she had procured in Switzerland. I had better luck. The Customs man took one look at the dirty shirts, decided not to soil his hands on such alien filth and shot me through.

Well, I suppose it's a good system. We can't go letting American citizens back into the country indiscriminately. They might come back harboring germs or conceivably even opinions. But don't look at me. I tossed all my opinions overboard at the three mile limit. They sank like stones.

In a bar that night, I had my first look at American television in a month. Bert Parks in "Stop The Music." A long-legged girl was tap-dancing. This gave me excellent opportunity to compare European culture with our own. In Paris the showgirls are in general draped handsomely from the waist down to the toes, undraped from the waist up. Here we drape them topside, undrape them extensively from there down. On the whole I think our own is the better system, that it puts the emphasis on the proper end of a female.

• — • — •

Bert Parks, I'm happy to report, is still draped all over except for his teeth, which appear to be in wonderful condition except for a slight discoloration on the ulterior bicuspid. Anyhow, it's nice to be home and this column will resume its more normal operation—that of estimating the quality of television and radio programs—immediately.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

C Z Q V C V U K N P C I O K R N K O K R, C I P
J Y V P O K R V K Y C I—O B Z Z Y V.

Stock Average Advances For Fifth Session In Row

NEW YORK, May 31 (AP) — A smoothly rolling advance ran into selling troubles today in the stock market but managed to keep to the high side.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced 40 cents to $92.50. This is the fifth consecutive session that the AP average has advanced the second longest sustained rise this year.

The volume of trading today came to 1,200,000 shares as compared with 1,190,000 shares in the previous session. Only 1,053 individual issues were traded. Of these, 547 advanced and 279 declined. There were eight highs and 21 new lows set during the day.

Standard Oil (NJ) closed up 1¾ at 113¼. Cities Service closed up ¾ at 102¼.

Northern Pacific added ¼ at 41 and was the third most active stock in the list.

Illinois Central gained 1⅞ at 60⅛.

Missouri Pacific preferred dropped 2⅝ at 20, the sixth most active issue, and Alleghany Corp. lost ¼ at 3, ninth most active. Alleghany is a heavy holder of Missouri Pacific common and is asking for permission to inspect balloting on the recent Mopac reorganization.

They were the only two issues in the list of 15 most active to decline. At the top of the list was National Power & Light unchanged at 1¼, and others following not previously mentioned were Radio Corp. up ¼ at 19⅜, Long Island Lighting up ¼ at 14⅞, General Motors up ¼ at 49⅝, U. S. Steel up ⅛ at 41⅛, and International Nickel up 1½ at 34¾, following a price increase of six cents a point in nickel.

Chicago Board Of Trade

CHICAGO, May 31 (AP) — With little news around to spark any aggressive buying or selling, grains today moved lazily up and down on the Borad of Trade. They were going up at the final gong, holding onto small gains. Closing futures:

Stock Average Advances For Fifth Session In Row

NEW YORK, May 31 (AP) — A smoothly rolling advance ran into selling troubles today in the stock market but managed to keep to the high side.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced 40 cents to $92.50. This is the fifth consecutive session that the AP average has advanced the second longest sustained rise this year.

The volume of trading today came to 1,200,000 shares as compared with 1,190,000 shares in the previous session. Only 1,053 individual issues were traded. Of these, 547 advanced and 279 declined. There were eight highs and 21 new lows set during the day.

Standard Oil (NJ) closed up 1¾ at 113¼. Cities Service closed up ¾ at 102¼.

Northern Pacific added ¼ at 41 and was the third most active stock in the list.

Illinois Central gained 1⅞ at 60⅛.

Missouri Pacific preferred dropped 2⅝ at 20, the sixth most active issue, and Alleghany Corp. lost ¼ at 3, ninth most active. Alleghany is a heavy holder of Missouri Pacific common and is asking for permission to inspect balloting on the recent Mopac reorganization.

They were the only two issues in the list of 15 most active to decline. At the top of the list was National Power & Light unchanged at 1¼, and others following not previously mentioned were Radio Corp. up ¼ at 19⅜, Long Island Lighting up ¼ at 14⅞, General Motors up ¼ at 49⅝, U. S. Steel up ⅛ at 41⅛, and International Nickel up 1½ at 34¾, following a price increase of six cents a point in nickel.

Chicago Board Of Trade

CHICAGO, May 31 (AP) — With little news around to spark any aggressive buying or selling, grains today moved lazily up and down on the Borad of Trade. They were going up at the final gong, holding onto small gains. Closing futures:

Fly Ash Can Be Controlled, Speaker Claims

West Side Group Told Methods Are Costly

The biggest hope in the problem of reducing fly ash, one of the most difficult parts of any program of reducing air pollution in industrial areas, is the efforts being made by industries to lick the problem.

A great deal of research is being made into the fly ash problem, Lee Schreibeis, administrative assistant of the Pittsburgh Bureau of Smoke Prevention, told members of the West Side Improvement Association last night.

Electrostatic collectors which charge dust particles with electrons, can be made with efficiencies approaching the 100 per cent mark, he said, but the cost is very high. He cited the case of one industrial plant which spent $500,000 to solve the problem.

Mechanical filters, he said, are quite cheap but their range of usefulness is limited, particularly for small particles.

One of the newest types of control, Schreibeis said, is a type of filter developed by the Atomic Energy Commission. High cost is the problem again.

Progress Reported

The best hope, he added, is that industries will find the means of reducing dust as plants in Allegheny County, Pennsylvania are doing.

He reported that the Jones and Laughlin Steel Company there has tried nine different methods of removing ore dust from the atmosphere and has found one that works but is too costly.

He said that in Pittsburgh, railroads, long offenders in the way of cinders and fly ash, have done a magnificent job by switching to Diesels.

Railroads' Efforts

Pittsburgh's 10 operating railroads, he added, set up an $80,000 fund to finance research to eliminate cinders and fly ash from steam locomotives but no completely effective method has been found.

Another major source of fly ash, he added, are stationary boilers, with the worst offenders fed with pulverized coal. Even with collectors, complaints still come in, he added.

Pittsburgh's problems, too, are complicated by the presence of open hearth furnaces and other steel operations.

Strict enforcement has aided in the problem of ashes and dirt from apartment incinerators, he added.

Schreibeis said that in 1938, Pittsburgh had an average of 62 tons of dustfall each month. The program, interrupted by the war, has been intensified in recent years, resulting in a 75 per cent reduction in smoke and a 19 per cent drop in fly ash.

Program Must Be Fair

He added that community must have a smoke abatement that is reasonable and sets limits which industry can meet but still low enough to satisfy the people.

One of the problems, he said, is that industry actually saves money by smoke control but receives no benefits, except in being good citizens, from removing fly ash.

Following his formal talk, Schreibeis and J. C. Terhorst, department assistant, answered a number of questions from members of the association.

In reply to Police Commissioner John J. Long's query on the procedure Pittsburgh uses in fly ash complaints, the smoke engineer described methods used, including resort to fines.

That can be a problem, he added, citing that one company had been fined $100 a day for 35 days as a result of dust complaints, with the city finally settling for a promise that the problem would be settled within a specified time.

Referring to a question as to what action would be taken against a city owned institution, the speaker said the solution found in one case was to change the type of fuel.

Cost "Very High"

When James Alfred Avirett asked if he thought any type of collector could solve the problem of the Potomac-Edison's River Plant, the speaker said the job could be done by existing methods but the cost would be "very high".

When Fred Y. Borden, president of the association, asked if a dif-

NEWS IN BRIEF

Pfc. Jack Klipstein, Lonaconing war veteran home on furlough from Korea, is recovering in Memorial Hospital from an attack of malaria Sunday.

West Side Fire Company extinguished a rubbish fire at Greene and Fayette Street about 8:23 p.m. yesterday. No damage was reported.

J. Lawrence Rank, 51, manager of the West Side Pharmacy on Greene Street, continued to improve yesterday at Memorial Hospital where he was admitted Tuesday after being stricken with a heart ailment while working.

Cumberland is one of a number of Maryland cities where sales of slot machines have been reported to the federal government. Machines were sold by the General Vending Sales Corporation and Victory Distributing Company in this city, according to reports of the Justice Department.

Discusses Fly Ash Control Problems

Lee Schreibeis, administrative assistant of the Pittsburgh Bureau of Smoke Prevention, is seen last night describing methods of controlling fly ash at a meeting of the West Side Improvement Association in West Side School. At his left is F. Brooke Whiting, who introduced the speaker. Seen seated to the right are Fred Y. Borden, president of the association, and J. C. Terhorst, an assistant in the Pittsburgh smoke bureau.

Parade Route Is Altered For Bedfast Woman

The annual Cumberland Memorial Day parade Wednesday was rerouted slightly at the request of a bedfast 97-year-old woman, Thomas F. Conlon, parade marshal revealed yesterday.

Originally scheduled to leave the State Armory on South Centre Street and march to Baltimore via Centre, the parade was altered to travel up Union Street to George Street and thence to Baltimore.

The move was taken when the elderly woman, Miss Mary E. McCormick, told Conlon she had been bedfast for nearly 18 years and had not seen a parade in that time although she had loved them since childhood.

"She waved gaily from her window as the parade marched by," Conlon said. Miss McCormick lives with her sister, Mrs. Anita B. Ward, 133 Union Street.

April Payrolls Show Increase In Cumberland

Both employment and payrolls increased slightly in April of this year over the same month in 1950, the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce's report of activities revealed, but postal receipts, savings bonds and building permits all decreased during the past month.

Employment in 17 local industries increased from 12,644 in April, 1950 to 13,101 this year, a jump of 457, while the payrolls of the 17 industries rose $323,690.82 from $3,367,086.91 to $3,690,777.73.

Postal receipts were down $3,414.64 during April of this year; savings bonds sales decreased $1,368.75 in April; and building permits dropped $23,825 in one month, the report noted.

Maryland Employment Service in Cumberland noted an increase of 402 persons registered with the board from April 15 to May 15 this year and an increase of 142 placements by the employment service for the same period.

Cumberland showed an 8.9 per cent increase in bank debits to individual accounts in the Federal Reserve District with a total of $23,709,000.

The report's retail sales forecast indicates a volume of $4,320,000 for Cumberland, or 237.4 per cent of the volume of June, 1939, and 100.7 per cent of the volume of June, 1950.

Cumberland is rated 95.0 in the city national index five per cent below the national figure of 100.

W. C. Sutherland Listed As Graduate

William O. Sutherland, Route 3, Valley Road, is listed among this year's graduates from St. Vincent College. Sutherland will receive a bachelor of arts degree through a course in industrial management with a major in business administration and a minor in chemistry. He is a graduate of Allegany High School and St. Vincent Preparatory School.

Sutherland played four years varsity football and was co-captain of the 1950 team. He also played with the champions of the Tangerine Bowl in 1950 at Orlando, Florida. In addition, he was president of the Veterans Association, a member of the Harmony Cats Quartet for four years and was a member of the photography staff of the college annual and paper.

Officers Recalled

A number of Organized Reserve and inactive reserve army officers are being called to active duty for physical examinations at Fort George G. Meade, reserve headquarters here announced. The exams are part of the physical evaluation program for reservists to determine their availability for active duty.

Equity Cases Filed

Five equity cases have been filed in Allegany County Circuit Court this week. The bills of complaint were titled Lenora May Davis vs. Roy Linwood Davis, Clara Juliana Fogle vs. Daniel Pal Fogle, Donald Salesky vs. Mary M. Salesky, Leah D. Clifford vs. Harold A. Clifford and Charles C. Sullivan, Jr., vs. Virginia L. Sullivan.

Teacher Salary Question Poses Problem For County Officials

Governor's Veto Of Pay Raise Measure May Cause Instructor Shortage In State

[By The Associated Press]

Even as the last carefree youngster romps home from school to begin his summer vacation, superintendents of education in Maryland's poorer counties will have begun a lively scramble to fill teaching vacancies.

"This summer it's really going to be dog eat dog," one of the educators frankly admitted.

The teaching shortage is an old problem, but school officials feel it has become more acute since Gov. McKeldin vetoed a bill to increase teachers' salaries $500 a year.

Reached For Aspirin

When the veto was announced, many a county superintendent reached for the aspirin.

The Governor explained the state cannot afford to increase teachers' pay and said he felt the counties should put the necessary boosts into effect on their own hook.

At least nine of the 23 counties have done so, and others are thinking along the same lines.

The competitive salary problem within the state complicates an already difficult situation brought on by salary increases in nearby states.

West Virginia's Legislature recently approved a $540 annual increase, raising its minimum to $2,340. The impact of this was felt almost immediately across the state line, in Maryland's Garrett County.

Garrett Affected

A recent survey showed 88 per cent of Garrett County teachers are from West Virginia. When their home state even indicated the possibility of a pay raise, they began inquiring about prospects of returning there to teach.

Boston said he expects to feel the effect of this even in Dorchester County, all the way across Maryland over on the Eastern Shore.

"We have eight teachers from West Virginia," he noted, "and I guess we'll lose three or four back."

But the real competition, he declared, will come from within the state.

The salary scale in Dorchester is the minimum set by state law — $2,200 to start and an annual increase of $10 for 16 years, which puts the top minimum at $3,800. This is for teachers with bachelor of arts degrees and no experience.

Poor Counties Worried

Compare this with the $3,000-5,400 scale prevailing in Baltimore county and you see why the poorer counties are worried.

"Ten of our former students will become teachers sometime in June," said Boston, "but I know of only three who plan to return to Dorchester county to teach."

With a staff of 186 teachers to handle 1950-51 classes, he says nine more will be needed to handle expected increases in enrollment. This

County Farmers Urged To Enter Pasture Contest

PMA Committee Mails 50 Blanks

Entry blanks for the Greener Pastures Contest have been mailed to about 50 Allegany County farmers from the County Production and Marketing Administration office at 37 Washington Street.

Last year only three county farmers entered the contest. The county winner was John Mason of Cresaptown. An effort is being made this year by the County PMA Committee to get a representative group from this county.

County PMA Chairman Albert O'Neal said yesterday that the contest "is designed to fit into a broad program known as grassland farming, which is being directed jointly by the Land Grant Colleges and the Department of Agriculture."

The contest, administered by county and state PMA committees, is open to all farmers having 10 acres or more of pasture. First and second place community winners will be named in each community to compete for first and second prizes in their respective counties. The county winners will compete for area placings of first and second. A state champion also will be named.

Maryland is divided into three areas for the contest. The nine Eastern Shore counties will be in one group, the five Southern Maryland counties in another and the remaining nine Central and Western Maryland counties will compose the third area.

The deadline for entries is June 15. O'Neal urges all interested farmers to enroll. All contestants will be invited to tour the winning farms. All farmers can benefit from studying the outstanding pastures in this part of the state.

W. H. Howell Gets Master's Degree

Word has been received here that Wade Hampton Howell, Jr., formerly of LaVale, Cumberland, has received his master's degree in forestry from Oregon State College at its 82nd annual commencement. Howell received his Bachelor of Science degree in forestry from West Virginia University last year and then was awarded a scholarship to continue in his education. He has accepted a position with the Southern Oregon Sugar Pine corporation.

469 County Youths Enroll In 4-H Program For New Year

Four-hundred sixty-three boys and six girls are enrolled in 23 4-H Clubs in Allegany County for the new fiscal year beginning today, according to Assistant County Agent Joseph M. Steger.

Oldtown Junior 4-H Club, whose leader is William Morley, topped all others with 52 members. Nearest to the top group were Eckhart 4-H Club, Mrs. James D. Harrison leader, 41 members, and Spring Gap 4-H Club, Charles Riley and Earl Twigg leaders, 30 members.

Other comunity clubs, their leaders and enrollment:

Baltimore Pike, Harold Bean, 19; Flintstone Junior, 16, Mrs. Elsie Hill Roland; Flintstone Senior, Mrs. Roland, 10; LaVale, James Gellner and Dr. C. S. Beamer, 11; Lonaconing, Kenneth Hodgsdon, 20; McCoole, Charles Llewellyn, 22; Mountaineer 4-H Rifle Club, Frostburg, Harry Morgan, 18; Oldtown Senior, Noah Carder, 11; Piney Plains Junior, Miss Margaret Ringler, 16; Piney Plains Senior, Dale Mann, 11; Potomac Park, Joseph Nicodemus, 16; Pumpkin Centre, Roy A. Miller, 21; Twiggtown, Rusell Twigg, 17; Union Grove, Luther Brotemarkle, 15; Westernport, no leader, 7; North Branch, Delbert Valentine and Ted Grabenstein, 22.

The two county-wide groups are the Dairy Calf Club, with 24 members, and the Tractor Club, with 43 members.

Chief 4-H projects for the coming year are farm safety and fire prevention. There are 238 club members enrolled in each of these projects. Other popular projects are home gardens, 228 ;tractor maintenance, 43; poultry, 42; dairy, 39; soil-water conservation, 20 and wildlife nature study, 18.

Industry Group Confers With Fairchild Heads

Seeks Subcontracts For Local Areas

Representatives of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce and Industrial Promotion Company went to Hagerstown yesterday and conferred with officials of the Fairchild Engine and Airplane Corporation regarding the possibility of sub contracting war work here.

William C. Walsh, president of the Promotion Company, John J. McMullen representing local newspapers, Harrison C. Givens, plant superintendent of the Celanese Corporation facility here; Henry C. Swearingen, vice president of the Kelly Springfield Tire Company, and Joseph M. Naughton, president of the Chamber of Commerce and Second National Bank comprised the local delegation.

Met With Officials

They met with Richard S. Boutelle, president of Fairchild, Arthur F. Flood and William Preston Lane, directors and other staff and departmental heads.

Walsh said last night the local group was pursuing a suggestion from U. S. Senator Herbert R. O'Conor that some of the huge war work contract just granted Fairchild might be sublet to Cumberland firms to aid employment here.

Representatives of Fairchild were highly cordial to the local group and receptive to the idea that some of their sub-contracts be directed to this area. They explained that most of the work will be high precision machine shop production.

It was felt, however, that Cumberland area machine shops are too small and inadequate to take on any large contracts, but several plans for pooling resources are being considered, Walsh explained.

The Fairchild group said they will be willing to help this area in any way possible and will attempt to direct work here if possible. However, it was pointed out that the government requires competitive bidding on all sub contracts in connection with this war production.

Has Cancellation Clause

It was also pointed out that government work and subcontracts of this type carry a cancellation clause, so it would be difficult to get anyone to underwrite the establishment of a large machine shop of the type needed, without guarantee of other work.

Walsh noted that the expansion by Fairchild is still several months away, but that the Chamber of Commerce and the Industrial Promotion Company will continue to pursue this and other possibilities for new jobs here.

The delegation will make a report to the board of the Promotion Company Monday at 4 p. m., when their industrial consultant, Richardson Wood, makes his quarterly report.

Flintstone High Sermon Planned

Rev. Walter Twigg, pastor of Prosperity Christian Church, will preach the baccalaureate sermon to the 16 seniors of Flintstone High School during the regular worship service of the church at 11 a. m. Sunday.

A chorus from Flintstone High School will sing "Faith of Our Fathers" at this Sunday service.

Mrs. Elsie Hill Roland, school principal, also reports that the commencement program for the 16 seniors will be held at 8 p. m. Saturday, June 9, at Flintstone Methodist Church.

Retires With Smile

Conductor John E. Brown Makes Last Run From Elkins

Western Maryland Railway Train No. 4 blew for the crossing at Ridgeley yesterday evening at 5:55 p. m. EST. You could hear its bell ringing and steam belched forth from the steel giant as it pulled in on time at the Cumberland station. Mail was taken off, passengers alighted.

There seemed to be nothing special about the regular arrival but to Conductor John E. Brown it was his last run with the company. After 48 years service with the railroad the 68-year-old employe, who resides at 400 Warwick Avenue, had taken up his last fare.

Born In Westernport

Born in Westernport, he spent his early boyhood on a farm on Branch Mountain near Moorefield, W. Va. Prior to becoming a railroader he worked at the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company at Luke, and later drove a team of horses in the woods at Wallman, W. Va.

Brown said the reason he joined the Western Maryland Railway on June 4, 1903 was "I thought I'd like it and would get a thrill from it." At that time the railroad was the Western Maryland Railroad Company and West Virginia Central and Pittsburgh Railway Company. Brown qualified as flagman August 10, 1903, and was promoted to freight conductor in 1905.

He worked on other roads from December 1926 to May 1929. Later he returned to the Western Maryland at Thomas, W. Va. In 1938 he transferred to Cumberland where he had the run from the Queen City to Connellsville, Pa. A year later he became passenger conductor from Cumberland to Elkins, W. Va.

Son Is University Coach

Twice married Brown's first wife was Anna Veronica Dorran, Glasgow, Scotland, by whom he had three sons. His oldest son Robert "Red" Brown is now head basketball coach at West Virginia university after successful seasons at Davis and Elkins College. Another son, P. Dorran Brown, who was a star football player at Pennsylvania University, is now sales manager of Wilson Products Inc., Reading, Pa. Both he and "Red" are well known for their tennis playing ability. A third son died in 1929. Brown remarried to Leoda Smith, Spencer, W. Va., who died in 1939.

Active in politics, Conductor Brown also took part in Masonic affairs. He is past master of Thomas Lodge No. 123, and belongs to Thomas-Davis Chapter No. 22, Pilgrim Commandery, Elkins, and Osiris Temple at Wheeling, W. Va. He is past president of Lodge No. 792, Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, Elkins and a member of the Presbyterian Church, Thomas, W. Va.

Girls' Central Seniors Will Graduate Sunday

Program Scheduled At St. Patrick's

Seventeen seniors of Catholic Girls' Central High School will receive their diplomas at the 12 o'clock mass Sunday at St. Patrick's Church.

Rev. J. Lawrence Kilkenny, dean of Western Maryland and pastor of St. Patrick's Church, will be the celebrant at the mass and will present the diplomas to the girl graduates. He will be assisted, both in the mass and in presentation of diplomas, by Rev. Thomas A. Hardesty and Rev. John U. Lyness, both assistant pastors at St. Patrick's.

The graduates will gather at LaSalle High School at 11:45 a. m. Sunday and will march from there to the church.

All of the music at the noon mass Sunday will be sung by the choral group from Catholic Girls' Central High School. Their selections will include "Praise Ye The Father," "Jesu Mitis," "Ave Maria," "Pontis Angelicus," and "Ave Verum." The recessional will be the "Coronation March" by Meyerbeer from "Le Prophete."

Besides presenting the diplomas, Father Kilkenny also will award special honors to the outstanding graduates.

Army Reserves Finish Exams

Members of the Second Army Organized Reserve units here plus all other army reserves, both active and inactive, in this district, have completed physical examinations conducted for eight days at reserve armory, South Mechanic Street.

M/Sgt. William B. Rogers, assistant unit instructor, indicated the results of the examinations have been sent to Baltimore where a Physical Evaluation Board will determine the reservists availability for duty in the armed forces.

The exams, a part of the armed forces program to determine the physical fitness of its reserves which could be subject to immediate recall to duty if needed.

Four local doctors, all members of the local reserve units, made the extensive examinations of the local reservists. They were Col. Wylie M. Faw, Jr., Lt. Col. Frank B. Cawley, Lt. Col. A. C. Eskin, and Major S. G. Wiseman.

Sgt. Rogers also stated Capt. R. W. Powell, Baltimore, is acting unit instructor for the reserve groups here, during the absence of Capt. H. W. Trimble who is on leave. Capt. Powell will be on temporary duty at the Cumberland Reserve Armory for one week, he said.

Divorce Granted

A decree granting a divorce to Lela A. Sowers from Robert R. Sowers has been filed in Allegany County Circuit Court by Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris.

Tracks Blocked In Derailment Of 13 B&O Cars

Morning Mishap Causes Rerouting

Thirteen coal-laden cars of an east-bound Baltimore and Ohio Railroad freight train were derailed in an early-morning accident yesterday.

The wreck, which occurred about 8:30 a. m. at Dan's Run, about two miles east of Patterson Creek, W. Va., for a time blocked both tracks there. It was not until 2:10 p. m. that the track for west-bound trains was cleared. After that time east-bound trains were routed over the cleared track for a short distance near the scene of the smashup.

One west-bound passenger train, the Metropolitan, headed for St. Louis, had to be rerouted over the Western Maryland Railway tracks yesterday, a railroad spokesman said. Due in Cumberland at 12:50 p. m., it was one hour and 17 minutes late reaching this point.

At 10 o'clock last night railroad workmen still were at the scene attempting to clear the wreckage from the east-bound track. It was understood at that time that none of the 13 cars had been removed from the Dan's Run area.

A railroad spokesman indicated that the cars which left the track were in the middle of the train. No cause for the accident had been ascertained by last night, he said. No one was injured in the wreck.

56 Boy Scouts Receive Awards At Honor Court

Affair Is Held At Constitution Park

Fifty-six Boy Scouts, an assistant scoutmaster and a scoutmaster received advancements and merit badges at the Cumberland District Court of Honor held at Constitution Park.

The outdoor affair, presided over by John L. Towler, district advancement chairman, was largely attended.

Twenty-six boys from six district scout troops were advanced to second class and six were named first class scouts.

Two youths were advanced to Star Scout. They are Kent Smith and Robert Parker, both of Troop No. 4, sponsored by Centre Street Methodist Church.

Award 44 Merit Badges

Advanced to second class were Frederick Williams, Gary Williams, George Eskin and George Hast, Troop No. 1, St. Luke's Lutheran Church; James Duffy, Edward Beery, Mike Cunningham and Thomas Dunbar, Troop No. 2, B. & O. YMCA; Albert Grabenstein and James Scott, Troop No. 6, SS. Other merit awards included Kent Smith, home repairs, cooking, first aid; Chester Price, Troop No. 4, first aid; Fern Kenney, assistant scoutmaster, Troop No. 7, Cumberland Rotary Club, first aid; Eugene Kenney, Troop No. 7, first aid, home repairs, David Abernath, Troop No. 7, first aid; Ronald Jewell, Troop No. 7, first aid; Bruce Durrett, Troop No. ,7 home repairs; Robert Beckman, Troop No. 8, St. Mary's Catholic Church, first aid; Earl Strawser, Troop No. 11, LaVale Baptist Church, first aid; Ronald Windemuth, Troop No. 7, first aid, William Comer, Troop No. 8, scholarship; James Eisentrout, Troop No. 11, first aid; Don Davis, Troop No. 11, first aid; George Day, Troop No. 11, first aid; Ralph Wigger, scoutmaster, Troop No. 14, first aid; Thomas Wigger, Troop No. 14, first aid; and Robert Shoemaker, Troop No. 15, Chapel Hill Lodge No. 53, IOOF, first aid.

Season Tickets To Be Sold At Pool

Season tickets for children under 16 will be placed on sale at Constitution Park pool, Edmund F. Hoey, city recreation director, said yesterday.

The ticket, which will cost $2.50 plus tax, will be good for all days except Sundays or holidays.

Fly Ash Can Be Controlled, Speaker Claims

West Side Group Told Methods Are Costly

The biggest hope in the problem of reducing fly ash, one of the most difficult parts of any program of reducing air pollution in industrial areas, is the efforts being made by industries to lick the problem.

A great deal of research is being made into the fly ash problem, Lee Schreibeis, administrative assistant of the Pittsburgh Bureau of Smoke Prevention, told members of the West Side Improvement Association last night.

The only way to remove fly ash, he added, is by the use of collectors.

Electrostatic collectors which charge dust particles with electrons, can be made with efficiencies approaching the 100 per cent mark, he said, but the cost is very high. He cited the case of one industrial plant which spent $500,000 to solve the problem.

Mechanical filters, he said, are quite cheap but their range of usefulness is limited, particularly for small particles.

One of the newest types of control, Schreibeis said, is a type of filter developed by the Atomic Energy Commission. High cost is the problem again.

Progress Reported

The best hope, he added, is that industries will find the means of reducing dust as plants in Allegheny County, Pennsylvania are doing.

He reported that the Jones and Laughlin Steel Company there has tried nine different methods of removing ore dust from the atmosphere and has found one that works but is too costly.

There are no direct health problems caused by fly ash, he explained, since the chief effect is the mental anguish caused by the dirt.

He said that in Pittsburgh, railroads, long offenders in the way of cinders and fly ash, have done a magnificent job by switching to Diesels.

The Pittsburgh ordinance, set up in 1949, gave the railroads until 1955 to eliminate 75 per cent of their fly ash.

Railroads' Efforts

Pittsburgh's 10 operating railroads, he added, set up an $80,000 fund to finance research to eliminate cinders and fly ash from steam locomotives but no completely effective method has been found.

Another major source of fly ash, he added, are stationary boilers, with the worst offenders fed with pulverized coal. Even with collectors, complaints still come in, he added.

Pittsburgh's problems, too, are complicated by the presence of open hearth furnaces and other steel operations.

Strict enforcement has aided in the problem of ashes and dirt from apartment incinerators, he added.

Schreibeis said that in 1938, Pittsburgh had an average of 62 tons of dustfall each month. The program, interrupted by the war, has been intensified in recent years, resulting in a 75 per cent reduction in smoke and a 19 per cent drop in fly ash.

Program Must Be Fair

He added that community must have a smoke abatement that is reasonable and sets limits which industry can meet but still low enough to satisfy the people.

One of the problems, he said, is that industry actually saves money by smoke control but receives no benefits, except in being good citizens, from removing fly ash.

Following his formal talk, Schreibeis and J. C. Terhorst, department assistant, answered a number of questions from members of the association.

In reply to Police Commissioner John J. Long's query on the procedure Pittsburgh uses in fly ash complaints, the smoke engineer described methods used, including resort to fines.

That can be a problem, he added, citing that one company had been fined $100 a day for 35 days as a result of dust complaints, with the city finally settling for a promise that the problem would be settled within a specified time.

Referring to a question as to what action would be taken against a city owned institution, the speaker said the solution found in one case was to change the type of fuel.

Cost "Very High"

When James Alfred Avirett asked if he thought any type of collector could solve the problem of the Potomac-Edison's River Plant, the speaker said the job could be done by existing methods but the cost would be "very high".

When Fred Y. Borden, president of the association, asked if a dif-

Parade Route Is Altered For Bedfast Woman

The annual Cumberland Memorial Day parade Wednesday was rerouted slightly at the request of a bedfast 97-year-old woman, Thomas F. Conlon, parade marshal revealed yesterday.

Originally scheduled to leave the State Armory on South Centre Street and march to Baltimore via Centre, the parade was altered to travel up Union Street to George Street and thence to Baltimore.

The move was taken when the elderly woman, Miss Mary E. McCormick, told Conlon she had been bedfast for nearly 18 years and had not seen a parade in that time although she had loved them since childhood.

"She waved gaily from her window as the parade marched by," Conlon said. Miss McCormick lives with her sister, Mrs. Anita B. Ward, 133 Union Street.

April Payrolls Show Increase In Cumberland

Both employment and payrolls increased slightly in April of this year over the same month in 1950, the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce's report of activities revealed, but postal receipts, savings bonds and building permits all decreased during the past month.

Employment in 17 local industries increased from 12,644 in April, 1950 to 13,101 this year, a jump of 457, while the payrolls of the 17 industries rose $323,690.82 from $3,367,086.91 to $3,690,777.73.

Postal receipts were down $3,414.64 during April of this year; savings bonds sales decreased $1,368.75 in April; and building permits dropped $23,825 in one month, the report noted.

Maryland Employment Service in Cumberland noted an increase of 402 persons registered with the board from April 15 to May 15 this year and an increase of 142 placements by the employment service for the same period.

Cumberland showed an 8.9 per cent increase in bank debits to individual accounts in the Federal Reserve District with a total of $23,709,000.

The report's retail sales forecast indicates a volume of $4,320,000 for Cumberland, or 237.4 per cent of the volume of June, 1939, and 100.7 per cent of the volume of June, 1950.

Cumberland is rated 95.0 in the city national index five per cent below the national figure of 100.

W. C. Sutherland Listed As Graduate

William O. Sutherland, Route 3, Valley Road, is listed among this year's graduates from St. Vincent College. Sutherland will receive a bachelor of arts degree through a course in industrial management with a major in business administration and a minor in chemistry. He is a graduate of Allegany High School and St. Vincent Preparatory School.

Sutherland played four years varsity football and was co-captain of the 1950 team. He also played with the champions of the Tangerine Bowl in 1950 at Orlando, Florida. In addition, he was president of the Veterans Association, a member of the Harmony Cats Quartet for four years and was a member of the photography staff of the college annual and paper.

Officers Recalled

A number of Organized Reserve and inactive reserve army officers are being called to active duty for physical examinations at Fort George G. Meade, reserve headquarters here announced. The exams are part of the physical evaluation program for reservists to determine their availability for active duty.

Equity Cases Filed

Five equity cases have been filed in Allegany County Circuit Court this week. The bills of complaint were titled Lenora May Davis vs. Roy Linwood Davis, Clara Juliana Fogle vs. Daniel Pal Fogle, Donald Salesky vs. Mary M. Salesky, Leah D. Clifford vs. Harold A. Clifford and Charles C. Sullivan, Jr., vs. Virginia L. Sullivan.

Teacher Salary Question Poses Problem For County Officials

[By The Associated Press]

Even as the last carefree youngster romps home from school to begin his summer vacation, superintendents of education in Maryland's poorer counties will have begun a lively scramble to fill teaching vacancies.

"This summer it's really going to be dog eat dog," one of the educators frankly admitted.

The prediction came from W. Theodore Boston, Dorchester County superintendent. His problem is typical among superintendents in the smaller counties.

The teaching shortage is an old problem, but school officials feel it has become more acute since Gov. McKeldin vetoed a bill to increase teachers' salaries $500 a year.

County Farmers Urged To Enter Pasture Contest

PMA Committee Mails 50 Blanks

Entry blanks for the Greener Pastures Contest have been mailed to about 50 Allegany County farmers from the County Production and Marketing Administration office at 37 Washington Street.

Last year only three county farmers entered the contest. The county winner was John Mason of Cresaptown. An effort is being made this year by the County PMA Committee to get a representative group from this county.

County PMA Chairman Albert O'Neal said yesterday that the contest "is designed to fit into a broad program known as grassland farming, which is being directed jointly by the Land Grant Colleges and the Department of Agriculture."

The contest, administered by county and state PMA committees, is open to all farmers having 10 acres or more of pasture. First and second place community winners will be named in each community to compete for first and second prizes in their respective counties. The county winners will compete for area placings of first and second. A state champion also will be named.

Maryland is divided into three areas for the contest. The nine Eastern Shore counties will be in one group, the five Southern Maryland counties in another and the remaining nine Central and Western Maryland counties will compose the third area.

The deadline for entries is June 15. O'Neal urges all interested farmers to enroll. All contestants will be invited to tour the winning farms. All farmers can benefit from studying the outstanding pastures in this part of the state.

W. H. Howell Gets Master's Degree

Word has been received here that Wade Hampton Howell, Jr., formerly of LaVale, Cumberland, has received his master's degree in forestry from Oregon State College at its 82nd annual commencement. Howell received his Bachelor of Science degree in forestry from West Virginia University last year and then was awarded a scholarship to continue in his education. He has accepted a position with the Southern Oregon Sugar Pine corporation.

Industry Group Confers With Fairchild Heads

Seeks Subcontracts For Local Areas

Representatives of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce and Industrial Promotion Company went to Hagerstown yesterday and conferred with officials of the Fairchild Engine and Airplane Corporation regarding the possibility of sub contracting war work here.

William C. Walsh, president of the Promotion Company, John J. McMullen representing local newspapers, Harrison C. Givens, plant superintendent of the Celanese Corporation facility here; Henry C. Swearingen, vice president of the Kelly Springfield Tire Company, and Joseph M. Naughton, president of the Chamber of Commerce and Second National Bank comprised the local delegation.

Met With Officials

They met with Richard S. Boutelle, president of Fairchild, Arthur F. Flood and William Preston Lane, directors and other staff and departmental heads.

Walsh said last night the local group was pursuing a suggestion from U. S. Senator Herbert R. O'Conor that some of the huge war work contract just granted Fairchild might be sublet to Cumberland firms to aid employment here.

Representatives of Fairchild were highly cordial to the local group and receptive to the idea that some of their sub-contracts be directed to this area. They explained that most of the work will be high precision machine shop production.

It was felt, however, that Cumberland area machine shops are too small and inadequate to take on any large contracts, but several plans for pooling resources are being considered, Walsh explained.

The Fairchild group said they will be willing to help this area in any way possible and will attempt to direct work here if possible. However, it was pointed out that the government requires competitive bidding on all sub contracts in connection with this war production.

Has Cancellation Clause

It was also pointed out that government work and subcontracts of this type carry a cancellation clause, so it would be difficult to get anyone to underwrite the establishment of a large machine shop of the type needed, without guarantee of other work.

Walsh noted that the expansion by Fairchild is still several months away, but that the Chamber of Commerce and the Industrial Promotion Company will continue to pursue this and other possibilities for new jobs here.

The delegation will make a report to the board of the Promotion Company Monday at 4 p. m., when their industrial consultant, Richardson Wood, makes his quarterly report.

Flintstone High Sermon Planned

Rev. Walter Twigg, pastor of Prosperity Christian Church, will preach the baccalaureate sermon to the 16 seniors of Flintstone High School during the regular worship service of the church at 11 a. m. Sunday.

A chorus from Flintstone High School will sing "Faith of Our Fathers" at this Sunday service.

Mrs. Elsie Hill Roland, school principal, also reports that the commencement program for the 16 seniors will be held at 8 p. m. Saturday, June 9, at Flintstone Methodist Church.

Retires With Smile

Conductor John E. Brown Makes Last Run From Elkins

Western Maryland Railway Train No. 4 blew for the crossing at Ridgeley yesterday evening at 5:55 p. m. EST. You could hear its bell ringing and steam belched forth from the steel giant as it pulled in on time at the Cumberland station. Mail was taken off, passengers alighted.

There seemed to be nothing special about the regular arrival but to Conductor John E. Brown it was his last run with the company. After 48 years service with the railroad the 68-year-old employe, who resides at 400 Warwick Avenue, had taken up his last fare.

Born In Westernport

Born in Westernport, he spent his early boyhood on a farm on Branch Mountain near Moorefield, W. Va. Prior to becoming a railroader he worked at the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company at Luke, and later drove a team of horses in the woods at Wallman, W. Va.

Brown said the reason he joined the Western Maryland Railway on June 4, 1903 was "I thought I'd like it and would get a thrill from it." At that time the railroad was the Western Maryland Railroad Company and West Virginia Central and Pittsburgh Railway Company. Brown qualified as flagman August 10, 1903, and was promoted to freight conductor in 1905.

He worked on other roads from December 1926 to May 1929. Later he returned to the Western Maryland at Thomas, W. Va. In 1938 he transferred to Cumberland where he had the run from the Queen City to Connellsville, Pa. A year later he became passenger conductor from Cumberland to Elkins, W. Va.

Son Is University Coach

Twice married Brown's first wife was Anna Veronica Dorran, Glasgow, Scotland, by whom he had three sons. His oldest son Robert "Red" Brown is now head basketball coach at West Virginia university after successful seasons at Davis and Elkins College. Another son, P. Dorran Brown, who was a star football player at Pennsylvania University, is now sales manager of Wilson Products Inc., Reading, Pa. Both he and "Red" are well known for their tennis playing ability. A third son died in 1929. Brown remarried to Leoda Smith, Spencer, W. Va., who died in 1939.

Active in politics, Conductor Brown also took part in Masonic affairs. He is past master of Thomas Lodge No. 123, and belongs to Thomas-Davis Chapter No. 22, Pilgrim Commandery, Elkins, and Osiris Temple at Wheeling, W. Va. He is past president of Lodge No. 792, Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, Elkins and a member of the Presbyterian Church, Thomas, W. Va.

Recalls Pleasant Memories

Girls' Central Seniors Will Graduate Sunday

Program Scheduled At St. Patrick's

Seventeen seniors of Catholic Girls' Central High School will receive their diplomas at the 12 o'clock mass Sunday at St. Patrick's Church.

Rev. J. Lawrence Kilkenny, dean of Western Maryland and pastor of St. Patrick's Church, will be the celebrant at the mass and will present the diplomas to the girl graduates. He will be assisted, both in the mass and in presentation of diplomas, by Rev. Thomas A. Hardesty and Rev. John U. Lyness, both assistant pastors at St. Patrick's.

The graduates will gather at La Salle High School at 11:45 a. m. Sunday and will march from there to the church.

All of the music at the noon mass Sunday will be sung by the choral group from Catholic Girls' Central High School. Their selections will include "Praise Ye The Father," "Jesu Mitis," "Ave Maria," "Pontis Angelicus," and "Ave Verum." The recessional will be the "Coronation March" by Meyerbeer from "Le Prophete."

Besides presenting the diplomas, Father Kilkenny also will award special honors to the outstanding graduates.

Army Reserves Finish Exams

Members of the Second Army Organized Reserve units here plus all other army reserves, both active and inactive, in this district, have completed physical examinations conducted for eight days at reserve armory, South Mechanic Street.

M/Sgt. William B. Rogers, assistant unit instructor, indicated the results of the examinations have been sent to Baltimore where a Physical Evaluation Board will determine the reservists availability for duty in the armed forces.

The exams, a part of the armed forces program to determine the physical fitness of its reserves which could be subject to immediate recall to duty if needed.

Four local doctors, all members of the local reserve units, made the extensive examinations of the local reservists. They were Col. Wylie M. Faw, Jr., Lt. Col. Frank B. Cawley, Lt. Col. A. C. Eskin, and Major S. G. Wiseman.

Sgt. Rogers also stated Capt. R. W. Powell, Baltimore, is acting unit instructor for the reserve groups here, during the absence of Capt. H. W. Trimble who is on leave. Capt. Powell will be on temporary duty at the Cumberland Reserve Armory for one week, he said.

Divorce Granted

Tracks Blocked In Derailment Of 13 B&O Cars

Morning Mishap Causes Rerouting

Thirteen coal-laden cars of an east-bound Baltimore and Ohio Railroad freight train were derailed in an early-morning accident yesterday.

The wreck, which occurred about 8:30 a. m. at Dan's Run, about two miles east of Patterson Creek, W. Va., for a time blocked both tracks there. It was not until 2:10 p. m. that the track for west-bound trains was cleared. After that time east-bound trains were routed over the cleared track for a short distance near the scene of the smashup.

One west-bound passenger train, the Metropolitan, headed for St. Louis, had to be rerouted over the Western Maryland Railway tracks yesterday, a railroad spokesman said. Due in Cumberland at 12:50 p. m., it was one hour and 17 minutes late reaching this point.

At 10 o'clock last night railroad workmen still were at the scene attempting to clear the wreckage from the east-bound track. It was understood at that time that none of the 13 cars had been removed from the Dan's Run area.

A railroad spokesman indicated that the cars which left the track were in the middle of the train. No cause for the accident had been ascertained by last night, he said. No one was injured in the wreck.
